Bean
"The Milestones Know"
A Comfortable Car
The joys of Motoring cannot be fully appreciated unless it is practised in comfort. Every provision for the Motorist's comfort is embodied in Bean Cars. Cushions are constructed on Spring frames and upholstered in genuine first quality leather. Ample room is provided for all occupants, especially the driver, who is given plenty of "elbow" room and easily accessible controls.
Riding comfort over the roughest roads is assured by a highly efficient method of body suspension. Long semi-elliptic steel springs at the front and rear guard against all road shocks and ensure a smooth gliding motion. Dunlop balloon cord tyres, standard equipment to all Bean Models, are yet another "comfort" feature of Bean Cars.

GOSSIP FROM THE COURSE

DENSE FOG.

NO RACING AT DERBY.

HURST PARK FANCIES.

FROM OUR TRAVELLING CORRESPONDENT.

LONDON, Friday Night.

Racing was always out of the question at Derby this afternoon, for the fog had been dense in the midland town from daybreak onwards, and, although the Stewards held on to the last possible moment, they decided soon after one o'clock to abandon the programme. Fortunately few people had anticipated that there would be racing and had come to the course.

There is no fog in the London area to-night, but it is likely that the death of Queen Alexandra will affect the racing to-morrow afternoon at Hurst Park, where the Great Two-Year-Old Stakes is an extremely interesting event. Likely runners are Legatee, Bella Minna, Colorado, Pantera, Alexandrian, Rosehearty, Friar Wile, Salvo and the French filly, Mackwiller. Salvo is a beautifully-bred colt, by Phalaris out of Silver Tag, who has never run before. He is in the same stable as Friar Wile, and may be anything, but on this occasion I prefer Friar Wile, who has shown good form this season and is fancied.

Colorado has done extremely well lately, and, with the rest of Lambton's two-year-olds in such wonderful form, this trainer should have a very good idea of what the colt's chances are. I regarded him as a very good one when he won at Ascot, and, should he win to-morrow, he will be one of our hopes in the Classic races of next season. It is against him, however, that he has been so long without a race. Legatee, as I mentioned the other day, has not made quite the improvement in the last month that was expected of him, and I expect others to beat him. Mackmiller won her last race in France, beating some good three-year-olds as well as two-year-olds, but I cannot see her winning here.

Pantera disappointed in his last race, and the victory of Alexandrian at Goodwood was a very fluky one. Rosehearty has very considerable claims; for he has in all probability come on a good deal since he dead-heated with Spinel Ruby, where he ran very green. The one I like best, however, is BELLA MINNA, who has splendid form to her credit, and will, I think, stay the distance. As the dangers to her I regard Colorado and Rosehearty.

I cannot find, so far, this evening that Daimyo and Duvet, who were to have run for the Derby Cup this afternoon, have been sent on to Hurst Park to take their chances in the Autumn Stakes, in which they are both engaged. Perfectus has, I think, rather too much weight in this race. Were Confirmation to be started instead of waiting for Manchester, he would, on his Cesarewitch form, have a splendid chance. Then there is VAUDRICOURT to be considered. He ran well for this distance—a mile and three-quarters—in the Cesarewitch, but only in the absence of DAIMYO would I choose him to win.

In the Sheen Plate a chance must be given to DUKE OF JUDEA, who ran really well the other day.

SPORTING PARAGRAPHS.

Condover, having finished his racing career, has gone to the stud of his owner, Mr. Wittouck, the Franco-Belgian sportsman.

At a meeting of the Turf Club on Thursday Colonel T. H. M. Clarke was elected a member, and the resignation of Mr. Nigel Baring was received with regret.

The executrix of the late Mr. E. Ballesty has notified the Keeper of the Match Book that she has taken over all the engagements of the horses lately the property of the deceased.

The excellent entry of fifty-three has been obtained for next year's Maiden Plate at Punchestown. Second entries can be made up to January 13th next.

Sir Abe Bailey's stallion, Son-in-Law, and Sir R. Buchanan-Jardine's Obliterate have recently been insured for large amounts with the General Accident, Life and Fire Insurance Company through their representative, Major J. D. Barry. Obliterate goes to the stud next spring.

The following will not run at Hurst Park to-day:—Mitre Plate—Sofiant, Abbot's Remorse, Cigale. Autumn Stakes—Daimyo, Tournesol, Ixia. Syon Stakes—Fleeting Friar.

Lord Glanely's Skysail has joined T. Leader's team at Wroughton House, Newmarket, and will be joined by his stable companions, Sunderland and Capture Him, after the two last-named have fulfilled their Manchester engagements, to be put to jumping.

HURST PARK

TO-DAY'S PROGRAMME AND SELECTIONS.

Some of the best juveniles of the season are due to compete in the Great Two-Year-Old Stakes, which is the chief item in a very attractive card at Hurst Park to-day, and this is an event which may shed some light on next season's "classics." With the elimination of Coronach and Lanchester, F. Darling is left with Friar Wile as his sole representative. The colt has won four out of his six races, and it will take something especially smart to beat him. Rosehearty, although dead-heating with Spinel Ruby at Newmarket last month, was in receipt of 10lb. from Lord Zetland's filly, and this form reads hardly good enough in this company. Legatee created a very favourable impression when making his début at Newmarket, and the easy manner in which he disposed of William of Tyre, Ripolin, and other good youngsters stamped him as a real good one. If he has not looked back during the interval, he is certain to put up a great fight. Colorado, if back to his Ascot form, would be difficult to beat, while there is no telling how good Alexandrian is, as his only appearance on a race track was when he beat Ripolin, Sonatina, Legionnaire, and others at Goodwood. Bella Minna is probably one of the best of her age and sex, but I would rather prefer her over five furlongs. I hear that the French-bred youngster, Mackwiller, is greatly fancied, but, in my opinion, the issue rests between Legatee, Colorado, and Friar Wile, and I give my vote to the first-named. The Autumn Stakes is a trial of stamina, and will attract several Cesarewitch failures. Confirmation, on his third to Forseti and Motley in the important Newmarket handicap, possesses an undoubted chance, but while respecting this and the claims of such as Onyx III.(second to Spithead at Liverpool) and Vaudricourt, I give a rather confident vote in favour of Glommen. DERBY.

FOG PREVENTS RACING.

Owing to fog it was found impossible to carry through the third and last day of the Derby meeting. So dense was the fog at an early hour that it was apparent, unless it lifted, it would be impracticable to resume racing on the recreation ground. At noon it was not possible to see beyond fifty yards, and the gates were not open to the public. In the hope of matters improving, it was decided to put back the first race, which was timed to be run at 12.50, for half an hour; but, as the fog continued, it was decided by the Stewards—Sir Samuel Scott, Sir William Bass and Mr. Reid Walker—to abandon the third day's card. This was all the more unfortunate seeing that the card included that popular handicap, the Derby Cup, for which several Manchester November Handicap entries were due to compete. This is the first time that the weather has prevented the Derby Cup from being run, but it was in abeyance for four years during the war.

CATTERICK BRIDGE.

FROST CAUSES ABANDONMENT.

The executive of the National Hunt meeting at Catterick Bridge was very unfortunate in having to abandon their fixture on account of the frost. On Thursday the frost was so severe that it was decided to postpone yesterday's card until to-day and to abandon the second day's programme. The frost, however, continued, and the Stewards, after inspecting the track yesterday morning, found that there was no chance of racing taking place to-day, and had no alternative but to abandon the fixture.

LONDON BETTING.

The attendance for the call-over on the Manchester November Handicap last evening at the Victoria Club, London, was extremely small, minor investments only being made. Wandering Monk remained the nominal favourite at 7 to 1. Tournesol and Duvet were mildly supported at 9 to 1. Wykeham was on offer at 10 to 1, and Cloudbank came in for notice at 100 to 8 and 100 to 9. Minor wagers were made about Naldera at the same rate. Vaudricourt receded to 20 to 1, the price remaining on offer. Details:—

IRISH AND CANADIAN KENNEL CLUBS

As a further proof of the reliance that is placed upon pedigrees issued by the Irish Kennel Club, the secretary of that body has been advised by the Secretary of the Canadian Kennel Club that at the general meeting in February next the constitution will be altered so as to admit of pedigrees issued in Ireland being accepted in Canada. This arrangement should tend towards a greater interchange of dogs between the two countries, and is another step in the path of progress followed by the Irish Kennel Club. Within the next few weeks it is expected that a reciprocal agreement will be completed with the International Canine Federation, and this, when accomplished, will carry with it working arrangements with the kennel clubs of France, Belgium, Spain, Italy, Holland and Denmark.

GAELIC GAMES.

DUBLIN V. TIPPERARY.

(BY PAT'O.)

So well organised are the Civic Guards' hurling teams, and so keenly has the selection of to-morrow's fifteen been discussed, that the meeting of the Phœnix Park men with Tipperary (1925 All-Ireland Champions) occupies the attention of all hurling lovers at the moment. The Guards have not yet appeared as a team in serious inter-county work. Their recent visit to Kilkenny was abortive, but many enthusiasts believe that the Guards' selection is the best-balanced fifteen of recent years. We shall have an opportunity of testing its relative strength to-morrow. The men have been selected for places. Daly, of U.C. Dublin, is in goal. His colleague—W. Small—is in front, and the Collegian back is a stout fighter, who refuses to be beaten in the hottest fight for goals. The team through the field are even, and the fact that the Guards have six men only in the selection is sufficient evidence of their earnestness in selecting the best possible Dublin fifteen. Faughs have five men on the team—Doherty and Walsh, flank; McEnerney in the back line; Tobin, Small, and Bannon are behind them. Gill will be beside Dexter Aylward at midfield, and the Dublin attack includes Howard, Barry, and O'Neill.

How this side will behave against a strong Tipperary team is a subject of earnest discussion. The Munster visitors are essentially a championship team, and reproduce their best hurling under championship conditions. Beaten three times by Cork in tournament games last spring, the Tipperary side won against the Lee men in a great game at Limerick. Many consider that Tipperary without the Darcy brothers is a weak team. I do not agree. The Darcy pair are brilliant. Michael Darcy, by reason of his great hurling skill and opportunism, fairly beat Cork and Galway in championship games. His brother John is less spectacular, but is respected by Munster men as a sounder hurler than the dangerous smid-fielder. It is a mistake to consider the Tipperary side as a "Darcy" fifteen. The weak team beaten by Kilkenny was not a genuine reflection of Tipperary's strength, nor do I think we shall see Tipp's best team in operation to-morrow. Cahill, Kennedy, Leahy, and Power will test Dublin's backs. The veteran, Mockler, will be marking Darcy, but Dublin's wings will be far superior in speed and skill. Outside Power, of the Guards, we have seen no wingman in Dublin of attractive pace and brilliance.

Wingmen had a big say in the first-class hurling of the 1903-1913 decade. Nowadays the game develops at midfield, with spectacular loss. Modern formation is to some extent responsible, but there has been no hurling at mid-wing recently comparable with Semple or Anthony's displays. M. Power (Guards) and Coughlan (Blackrock) strike me as the only pair at present hurling capable of first-class wing work. Those long, soaring drives from the half-way touch flag to the goal-mouth are gone.

We shall closely watch the boys who represent College hurling in Munster and Leinster. Roscrea boys meet Owen Rhua's to-morrow. The Fairview group have played brilliantly recently, and the North Tipperary college has sent out young players of surpassing talent. The game at 1.30 will be a good exposition.

TO-DAY'S MATCHES.

THE VISIT OF NORTH.

The fine achievement of Trinity against Oxford has enhanced Irish club form considerably, and, in view of the fact that only last Saturday North of Ireland defeated Trinity in Belfast, the visit of the Northern club to Dublin this afternoon to play Bective Rangers should be of more than ordinary interest. Bective, like Trinity, adopt the seven forwards and eight backs formation, and on last Saturday gave one of their best displays against University College. Collegians also are visiting Dublin to oppose Lansdowne at Lansdowne road. Clontarf, a very improved side since the opening of the season, play Wanderers at Castle avenue; Palmerston oppose Old Wesley at Clonskeagh, and Monkstown meet Blackrock College at Sydney Parade. University College travel to Limerick to play Garryowen, and Trinity, continuing their cross-Channel tour, meet Edinburgh University at Edinburgh.

IRISH RUGBY UNION.

SECRETARY APPOINTED.

The Committee of the Irish Rugby Union met last evening and appointed Mr. R. W. Jeffares as Secretary.

THREE WINS FOR ENNISCORTHY.

Enniscorthy and Waterford met at Enniscorthy in the club's new ground at the show grounds. The home side were a strong selection, especially in the back division, and played better football all round. The scorers were F. Davis (4 tries), J. Lett (1 try), B. Murphy (1 try), and R. W. Harte converted twice.

During the week Enniscorthy "A" team beat Bagenalstown by 17 points to nil. Enniscorthy also beat Kilkenny on the latter's ground by 8 points to nil in a fast, open game.

WEXFORD (6) v. BAGENALSTOWN (0).

Played at Bagenalstown, Wexford had the better of the first half, and scored through Murphy. In the second half Bagenalstown put in some great rushes, but the Wexford defence held out. From a loose scrum Murphy again got over, and this concluded the scoring. Brown (Bagenalstown) had hard luck with a drop kick in the closing stages.

Old Wesley II. v. Lurgan.—This match has been cancelled at the former's request.

HUNTING.

SOME GOOD RUNS.

(BY MR. RICHARD BURKE, EX-M.F.H.)

So many have suggested that I should continue my rambling notes, I may say it would take a great many letters to exhaust a list of good runs I have seen. But I will try and select a few more that may be of particular interest, even so far from the events.

I noticed in the Irish Times a few days ago a letter about a fox being run to ground, and of someone remonstrating with the M.F.H. for digging. I was never given to digging unless under very special circumstances. At the same time, I would consider it the worst of bad taste to question it when the Master and his staff wished to do so.

The Master has the best opportunity of knowing what ought to be done. And followers ought try and lighten his responsibilities in every possible way within their reach.

We are most lucky in having, I might say, all the packs hunted this season by first-rate men, many of them of experience; and no one knows who has not tried a hunting country what that entails. The number of times the fox will beat you will make you irritable, just as the triumph of a kill in the open will elate you. There are many cases of foxes escaping after great hunts; for which one cannot imagine or suggest an explanation.

I have not read the modern works on hunting, which are very fine and very instructive. But, I remember in some old book reading that on one occasion after a brilliant forty to fifty minutes, when all hope was abandoned of the crowning glory, the Master said to the huntsman: "What do you think might have become of our fox?" The huntsman, in reply, said that he could not imagine, but that he was sure most of the gentlemen, indicating about two hundred of a field present, could tell! In fact, hunting a fox is like playing bridge, where one error of judgment upsets the entire programme.

Many seasons ago, when we arrived at a meet at Ballingarry Bridge, it was raining heavily, and, as a good day depended much on our first draw (Garranacole), I decided to wait for the rain to cease. There were some grumbles about being kept standing in such rain, etc., but those who knew best approved, so that it was fully an hour after time when we reached the covert. Anyone familiar with Tipperary will know what a hunt we had then, when I tell them that the fox found at Garranacole was killed on Mrs. Lysaght's lawn, at Kilburry, Cloneen, in one hour and forty-five minutes. It is over a ten miles' point, the last part from Drangan being stiff. The argument about the delay was not continued because none of the critics were there. It would have been worth waiting all night in the rain for such a run. Many said it was not quite the best we have had from Garranacole, but it certainly was about the best. Mr. D. Scully wrote a fine description at the time—he was in every yard of it.

A few seasons before I gave up we ran from Grawn, first to Coolbrook, then back by Grawn, and down to, and over, the Munster River, and thence, as fast as hounds could run, into Ballykeefe, in Kilkenny. Mr. W. P. Hanly remarked to me in the Wood, "What a champion you are riding," and so she was, so far. But when we jumped on to the road at the foot of the Wood my mare stood still. She was barely a 14st. animal carrying 15st. 7lb. I had to listen to the pack going away in the distance, and gave up all hope, till my second horseman, Dick Gough, by some sort of inspiration that he possessed in that line, galloped up to me, and, by good riding and short cuts, I met the pack returning from Rossmore (a Kilkenny covert), and making straight for the river again. They were alone, the field being tailed off, and it gave me as much as I wanted to stay with them on a real good, fresh horse, that I afterwards sold to Mick Lambert. We ran back within a field or two of Grawn, and from that day till now I never can imagine what became of that fox. I did not think he went to the covert, and to make sure I tried. It was a glorious run, notwithstanding the ending—about two hours and a half.

Another day we ran from Grawn by Coolbrook into Steeple Hill of Kilcooly. The entire field went into Coolbrook, and missed the part from that to Kilcooly—a good four miles at best pace. It was an unlucky day for the field, because after leaving Kilcooly I noticed a snug bit of gorse a few fields away, and made up my mind that it looked like a place for a find. I did not discuss it fearing some one might dissuade me, but made a straight line for the spot. Only when we were at it did I notice that very few had come, but it was then too late, as we at once espied a fox stealing away, so that the hounds never entered the gorse. We laid them on quietly, and had one of the grandest runs I ever rode—about forty brilliant minutes—till we jumped out on the road at Knockrae covert, in Kilkenny. I knew it well, but luckily the pack did not, and I was able to call them along the road and off their fox's line. If the field were there I would not have done so, nor would our Kilkenny neighbours wish us to do so.

Making back as quickly as we could, we found the field, except the few who were in the hunt, enjoying the good things of George Langley's board. My reception was not cordial, though Mr. J. P. Higgins at once said, "It was all our own fault." If these sort of ventures come off, well and good. If not, one's best friend is likely to say, "What a waste of time," if not worse. The Tipperary followers allowed me every latitude, and my fondest recollection is that my occupation gave me the opportunity of the friendship of so many that I shall always think of with affection.

Only once in my long term of office did we have a meet at Thurles, and it was an enormous one. We had visitors from all the surrounding countries, and almost the entire Limerick field came by special train. The meet was also remarkable, inasmuch as we had a bishop with us—no less than the illustrious Dr. Croke, whose "coachman" was a very knowledgable curate, and gave him a very good view of a really splendid hunt. Only one draw and one hunt, but what a hunt! It began at Gaile, the home of the Phillips', about the finest men and sportsmen in Ireland. At one time we had three brothers—Edward, Richard, and Godfrey—hunting. But one by one they passed away, greatly to my sorrow, as I was indebted to every one of them for many friendly acts and advice. We ran over Killough Hill, affording a splendid view to hundreds who had gone up its steep sides. Then we came all round the base of Killough, and headed away for Grallagh, and over a capital line towards Ballinore, through Noan, and into Taylor's Wood—about an hour, and all good.

I got to the top of the wood, and the whips went to either end. Mr. W. A. Riall stood with me, and in a very short time a large red fox broke quite close; it looked to us like the hunted fox. I returned the horn to its case and awaited developments. It will be hardly believed, but four or five foxes (all looking as if they had come a journey) broke in the same direction as the first. Not a hound would come and I was beginning to despair. Then there was a lull altogether, but yet no hound would come, when suddenly we heard Kennett's scream, and when we got near him the pack was streaming away, and after an hour's hard going they ran into the fox close to Rocklow. I missed Kennett at the finish; he had gone on to stop some earths at Rocklow, which our fox could not reach. From Gaile to Rocklow must be 12 miles.

Mentioning about a fox not reaching his earth, I wonder are there times that he would not enter it. For example, we had once a very high-class run, though I cannot now recall where the find was. But after about 50 minutes as hard as could be, we reached the eastern boundary fence into Tullemain. Not a horse could jump it, though at that time it used to be in some of our point-to-point events. I dismounted and ran over the moat (it would be a walk now) to the earth, where the hounds had actually killed at the entrance; it was open.

Having a wait between trains at Limerick Junction lately I visited my friend, Mr. Harris, and learned from him that the Black and Tans had had a very busy day from their opening meet at Derk, and also he showed me where a covert was being enclosed. It is small, but I told him I remember seeing a fox found in it in the 'seventies with Cooper Chadwick's Harriers.

The first mount I ever got was a horse of Cooper's. We ran that fox through Ballinard and on by the railway towards Emly. About midway between Ballinard and Emly Station the pack crossed the line. My mount got on top of the bank, but before I knew where I was we were rolling down a steep decline till we met the rails, and the horse was so badly injured he had to be destroyed. I never pass the spot in the train that I do not recall that day. The horse was a grey steeplechaser belonging to Robert Gubbins. I brought back and delivered up to Mr. Gubbins the saddle and bridle; he did not say a word about his horse. A great many years after he came to Grove to have a day, and a real good one it was. But he did not return for dinner until about 8 o'clock, when he arrived in the hall, wet and mud all over, with my saddle and bridle. "I left your horse in the river," he said, and that is about all that was said about it. He thought he knew a short cut across the Glashawley stream, but it was dark, and he struck it at a bad place, with the result the horse was drowned and he was all but drowned himself. So we were "quits" about horses.

In conclusion, I am sure all your readers will join in wishing every luck to those in command of our season's sport.

WARD UNION HOUNDS.

The meet at Black Bull on Wednesday attracted a big field, including several visitors. Having tried without success for an "outlier" in Hamwood, a deer was enlarged in Ballymacoll. The pack started off smartly in the Baytown direction before a very poor scent, and an erratic deer caused an abrupt check at Newtown. Here the "outlier" was also in evidence, and on complicated lines the hunt progressed slowly towards Dolly's Grove and Staffordstown. A halloa back in Mr. Wallis's farm put hounds in close touch with their deer across the Dunboyne road by Newtown Bridge towards Wearingstown. Leaving the fox covert to the right, they ran at a great pace into Baytown Park, and brought the deer to bay in a tributary of the Tolka River, a safe capture being effected in an awkward spot.

CARLOW HOUNDS.

A most enjoyable day's hunting was the result of the Lisnavagh fixture on Saturday last, and though scent was very catchy, it improved in the afternoon, when hounds had two good rings from Grange Park. Drawing Lisnavagh, there were a brace or more foxes in the woods, and the greater part of the morning was occupied with slow hound work inside Lord Rathdonnell's demesne. Scent, however, was too wretched to enable hounds to account for their foxes, and Mr. Fenton's covert at Grange Park was the next draw.

Hounds were hardly in covert before a fox was holloaed away, and crossing the famous "double," took us over Butler's Grange up to the Tullow road. Then on by Rathlyon, and leaving Rathlyon House (where our fox was viewed) behind them, hounds swung left-handed and brought us back over some big fences to the Tullow road, and thence over Butler's Grange to Grange Park gorse. Passing underneath the covert and leaving it behind them without going through it, they re-crossed the big "double," and leaving Tankardstown on their left, hunted on at a nice pace, as though for Lisnavagh. However, hounds turned left-handed near Tobinstown, and ran out of scent close to Paulville.

Re-drawing Grange Park, a second fox was soon on foot, and hounds got away on excellent terms with him. After running a wide lap over the large enclosures of Grange Park, they crossed the Deereen River and hunted on over Knockboe Hill. Sinking the hill on the further side, hounds pointed straight for Liscolman, where, recrossing the Deereen, they had to be stopped owing to failing light, after a most enjoyable day's sport.

Meeting at Bagenalstown Railway Station on Tuesday, a fox was found and marked to ground in Kilcarrig Rocks—the first draw from the meet. Kirwan's Glen failed to respond, but there was a brace of foxes in Lorum. One of these hounds marked to ground in covert, but getting away on the second fox, they ran nicely upwind over Ballycormac, and crossing the Bagenalstown road, went over the lowlands of Seskin-Ryan before running their quarry to ground under some rocks at Ballyloughlin.

There was a brace in the new covert at Carrigbeg, one of which—a poor specimen—hounds killed in the wood close by. Re-drawing, a second fox was pushed out at the bottom end and made for the open, but was headed within a few fields of the covert, and, turning back, hounds pulled him down in a ditch, so ending a rather disappointing day.

THE KILDARE HOUNDS.

The meet was at the 18th Milestone on Tuesday. It was a beautiful, clear November day with a bright sun, which seemed to prophesy frost. We commenced by drawing Killeshee blank. A long time was then spent at the Baron's Bog, where there were a brace of foxes. They were left in possession, scent being conspicuous by it absence, and a move was made to Punchestown Gorse, whose occupant found shelter underground in covert. A hunt from Eadestown ensued, making a left-handed circle towards Forenaughts, back past the covert, over the Ballymore-Eadestown road to ground near Athgarret House. This partially retrieved a very poor day.

Thursday, 19th, Kildangan.—The frost had come. Hounds got to the meet, but it was treacherous in places, and there was also a thick fog, and Major Aylmer gave the order for home.

SOUTH OF IRELAND GUN DOG CLUB.

A SCARCITY OF GAME.

The third annual field trials of the South of Ireland Gun Dog Club for setters and pointers were brought off on the Kerry moors, near Tralee, on Thursday and yesterday under disappointing circumstances owing to the scarcity of game.

The opening day's trials were on Knight's Mountain, lent by Mr. John Bailey, the Kerry coursing enthusiast. Birds were scarce throughout, and practically the same applied to the second day when the meet took place on ground lent by Mr. Latchford, Tralee.

There were several good dogs entered for the trials, but they were afforded very little chance of displaying their abilities. The McGillycuddy of the Reeks judged, with his usual ability.

The Open Stake, for pointers and setters, was won by Mr. Bennet's Capon; Mr. Eugene Ferris, Tralee, secured 2nd prize, and Mr. Russel's Moss maiden 3rd. Certificates of merit were awarded to Mr. John Reidy, Tralee, for Kerry Boy, and to Mr. L. O'Donnell, Limerick, for Guard of Thomond.

During the second day's trials some gruelling tests were witnessed. In the Members' Stake six dogs were left in—Cloughdarrig, Cahercouree, Monavea, Mick, Galteemore and Kerry Boy. For want of game the judge expressed his regret that he should have to abandon the continuation of the tests for this stake. The frost militated much against the success of the meeting, which under more favourable conditions would have been most satisfactory.

QUEEN'S UNIVERSITY V. EDINBURGH UNIVERSITY.

MATCH DRAWN.

Edinburgh University, who were beaten 5-0 by Dublin University on Thursday, travelled to Belfast yesterday, and effected a draw (1-1) with Queen's University.

Following a thaw in the morning, the ground was soft, but a fast and vigorous, if not scientific, display was given by both sides. In the early stages the home team were very aggressive, but Ward and Jeffares were sound backs, and Chapel was not seriously troubled. Later Wright proved a dangerous raider for Edinburgh, and but for the fine defence work of Bolton at left-back the visitors would have taken the lead.

Browne, in the Queen's goal, was more frequently employed than his vis-a-vis, and saved cleverly from Thompson, but five minutes from the interval he had no chance with a shot from Wright. Before half-time the home side got on level terms, when Tate completed good work by McKay and scored.

Queen's attacked strongly on the re-start, but Cormack was in great form at centre-half, and soon had his forwards operating at the other end. Brown saved a penalty corner, and then the Scots' goal was subjected to strong pressure. Belford missed a grand opportunity for Queen's, who also failed to convert a penalty corner, and the game ended with the score:—

Possession of a Gun.—At Bray District Court yesterday, William H. Malcolmson, Glencree, was fined 30s. for being in possession of a double-barrelled gun and two rounds of ammunition without a permit.

Tobacconists Organising.—At the meeting of the Dublin United Tobacconists' Association it was decided to request tobacco traders throughout the country to form branches and affiliate with the Dublin Executive. Satisfaction was expressed at the number of new members who had joined since the last meeting, and at the letters received approving of the activities of the Executive.

St. Ann's Lectures.—The above series will be continued on Wednesday next, at 8 p.m., in the Molesworth Hall, when the well-known naturalist, Mr. William Hunter, F.Z.S., of London, will lecture on "The Wonders of Fish Life."

Forthcoming Lecture on Rome.—Rev. J. B. O'Connell, B.D., B.A., will deliver a lecture, illustrated with lantern slides, on "Rome in the Holy Year," in the Mansion House, Dublin, on December 8th. The proceeds are in aid of the Booterstown Conference of the Society of St. Vincent de Paul. The Garda band (Metropolitan Division), under Superintendent A. J. Norris, musical director, will play selections.

Bray Assault Case.—John Murray, 1 Clifton's lane, Little Bray, stated to be a member of the Workers' Union, was bound to the peace in £10 by Justice Price, at Bray Court, yesterday. Edward Fitzpatrick stated that Murray had called him offensive names, caught him by the throat and struck him. In reply to Mr. Magee, solicitor, Fitzpatrick said that if he had been "scabbing" in Bray it would have been the defendant's duty to strike him, but he was not interfering with Murray by working in Dublin. He did not press the case.

Tramps Sentenced.—At Lucan District Court, John Doyle and Henry O'Brien, of no fixed abode, charged with having been found at Chapelizod without any visible means of support, were sentenced to one month's imprisonment, with hard labour, and fourteen days, with hard labour, respectively. Doyle said that his real name was Deane. It was stated that there was no previous charge against O'Brien, but there were about 50 convictions against Deane.

A Popular Clergyman.—On the occasion of a social reunion last night in the hall attached to Christ Church, Rathgar, the Rev. J. J. Macaulay, B.A., was presented, on behalf of the ladies of the congregation, with a valuable set of pulpit robes, in recognition of his twelve years of faithful ministry in the church. A presentation consisting of a tortoiseshell set of brushes and combs and a manicure set was also made to Mrs. Macaulay. The presentations were made by Mrs. J. C. Cathcart and Mrs. W. P. Robertson. An enjoyable musical programme was rendered by Miss Alice Bell, L.R.A.M.; Mrs. Gillespie, Mrs. Maxwell, Miss Pearl Maconkey, Mr. E. A. Selfe, Madame Alicia Keogh, and Mr. T. W. Hall.

Chrysanthemum Fête.—A chrysanthemum fete and sale of work was held yesterday in the Lecture Hall, Charleston road, Dublin, in connection with the Southern branch of the World Women's Christian Temperance Union. The sale was opened by Mrs. Conell, The Rectory, Clontarf. Mrs. T. W. Cooke, Eaton square, President of the branch, spoke on the aims and work of the Temperance Union. The hall was beautifully decorated with chrysanthemums, and at the back of the platform was the blue and white and silver banner of the W.W.C.T.U. The banner is made of Irish poplin, and is the property for the time being of the branch of the Union which gets the most new members during the year.

LEINSTER.

Judge Entertained.—An interesting social function took place in the Club House Hotel, Kilkenny, when Judge Sealy was entertained to a complimentary dinner by members of the legal profession in Kilkenny, including Mr. J. J. Molloy, District Justice. Mr. Michael Buggy presided, and Mr. Harry Langrishe, Clerk of the Peace, was also present.

Echo of Shipping Disaster.—The sinking of the newly-built City of Cork Steam Packet Company's steamer, Lismore, off the Wexford coast in 1914, when the crew, with the exception of one, a cargo of cattle and sheep, etc., were lost, was recalled recently when a son of Mr. James O'Neill, Yacumshane, Wexford, picked up a corked bottle heavily encrusted with barnacles. O'Neill found inside a letter addressed to "Mrs. O'Leary, Macroom road, Cork." The letter stated that the writer was a member of the crew of the Lismore; that the vessel was sinking, and that it would be a miracle if anyone was saved. Mr. O'Neill forwarded the letter to the address in Cork, which it bore.

Afforestation Scheme.—On last Wednesday and Thursday visits were made by Mr. A. C. Forbes, head of the Forestry Department, to the mountain of Forth, Co. Wexford, with a view to its inspection and making a report on its possibilities as a site for an afforestation scheme. The mountain, which is situated about four miles from Wexford, embraces thousands of acres of "commons" land, and it is understood that Mr. Forbes was favourably impressed with its possibilities for an extensive scheme of afforestation, which, if undertaken, it is estimated would mean an expenditure of several thousands of pounds a year and a permanent source of employment for a large number of men.

Ban on All-Night Dances.—Athlone Urban Council had before them at their meeting on Thursday night a letter from Rev. M. O'Reilly, C.C., St. Peter's, asking them, in view of the Bishops' pronouncement against modern dances, especially all-night dances not properly supervised, to make an order prohibiting Saturday all-night dances held in the Courthouse, their property. The Chairman, Mr. J. J. Coen, Chairman Westmeath County Council, proposed a resolution as requested. Mr. Dolan seconded. Mr. J. G. Smyth opposed the resolution. Mr. H. Broderick proposed that a Saturday night dance arranged for this week be permitted till 2 o'clock. Except for this occasion, he said, he was in favour of the resolution. Mr. Smyth seconded the amendment, which was defeated by nine votes to five. The Chairman's resolution was then declared passed.

A rick of barley straw, value for £30, the property of Mr. John Ryan, Ballinakill, Graiguenamanagh, was burned on last Wednesday night.

Large supplies of wool were sold at Thomastown (Co. Kilkenny) market on last Thursday at 1s. 2½d. per lb.

MUNSTER.

Cruelty to a Pony.—At the conclusion of the hearing of a case for cruelty to a pony brought by Guard E. P. Devlin against William Wakeham, Waterrock, Midleton, Co. Cork, who was fined 7s. 6d. and costs for having used the animal while suffering from sores, Justice Farrell complimented the Guard and wished him every luck on his transfer to the dépot.

Armed Robbery Charge.—At a special Court in Fermoy, the further taking of depositions was proceeded with in the cases against Philip Cadden and Arthur Buckley, both of Fermoy, who were brought up in custody on the following charges—namely, that on September 19 last, while armed with a service rifle, they did at Castlehyde road rob Patrick Ryan, Kilworth, of 3s.; that on September 26 they entered the Kilworth Post Office and held up the Postmaster and robbed the Postmaster-General of £26 7s. 1½d.; that on October 14, Philip Cadden attempted to enter Glanworth Post Office, while armed with a rifle, and on October 19 last entered the Post Office at Kilworth armed with a rifle. Justice Farrell said that on the evidence he should return the accused for trial. He could not allow bails at present.

The Youghal Bridge, which was put out of action on Thursday last, was swung back into position yesterday, thereby rendering the important main road between Cork and Waterford available for traffic.

NORTHERN IRELAND.

Co. Armagh Election.—Mr. J. C. Davison, B.L., the Unionist candidate for County Armagh in the present by-election, held a meeting of his supporters in the Drumgor Orange Hall, near Lurgan, where he had a cordial reception.

Londonderry Unemployment.—It was reported at the meeting of the Londonderry Local Employment Committee that there were on the live register on November 9th 3,744 persons unemployed, of which number 1,278 were females, an increase of 80 on the preceding month.

Boy Crushed by Crane.—Another fatal accident, the second within a week, occurred on last Thursday at Lislea Quarry, South Armagh, when James McParland (14), was fatally crushed by a crane. He was removed to the Newry General Hospital after the accident, but so serious were his injuries that he expired seven hours after admission.

Ballymacarret Police Raid.—Arrested in a police raid in Ballymacarrett in the early hours of yesterday morning, John Connolly, of Thompson street, appeared in the Belfast Custody Court on a charge of having a seditious document in his possession. District Inspector Spears said that the document purported to relate to the affairs of an unlawful association—namely, the I.R.A. On arrest accused said: "I can really say nothing." The magistrates ordered a remand until Monday, bail being refused.

Senator and Optimist.—Proposing a vote of thanks to the Mayor, Senator Magee, for presiding at a sale of work opened in Clooney Methodist Hall, Londonderry, by Mrs. Chichester, O.B.E., M.P., Mr. John Hetherington said that, while grateful that a temperance measure had been passed by the Northern Parliament, as a Church they wanted Local Option, and after that total abstinence. Senator Magee said that Mr. Hetherington was rather an optimist if he thought that the members of Parliament represented his little particular views alone. They represented the views of all parties, and it was their duty, and he was sure they would endeavour to discharge it, to carry through those measures they considered would be best for all parties.

Motor Lorry and Pram.—The Lord Chief Justice yesterday, sitting in the King's Bench, Belfast, remitted for trial by the Recorder of Belfast an action brought by Mrs. Annie Colhoun, 20 Wayland street, against John McDowell, 8 Lena street, Ballymacarrett, for damages for personal injuries and the destruction of a perambulator by reason of defendant's alleged negligence in the control of a motor lorry. Mr. J. D. Chambers (instructed by Messrs. C. and H. Jefferson), moved for defendant on the ground that plaintiff had no visible means of paying defendant's costs should the action go against her. Mr. P. L. McCorry (instructed by Mr. T. Maguire), for plaintiff, opposed, relying on the affidavit of Dr. Blewitt as to the injuries sustained by the plaintiff. The Lord Chief Justice ordered that costs be costs in the cause.

At night Davis brought his unfinished break to 231, and had also 248 and 179. Smith had 458 and 167. Closing scores:—Davis (rec. 2,500), 7,767; Smith (in play), 7,501.

NEW LAND ACT RULES.

In pursuance of the powers conferred on him by the Land Act of 1923, the Minister for Finance has issued new provisional rules governing the financial provisions of that measure. The new rules, which revoke the interim regulations made in August last, deal with the control of the Guarantee Fund, payment of dividends, registration and transfer of bonds, payment of purchase annuities, and other details of administrative procedure.

QUESTIONS AT THE DAIL.

UNCLAIMED BANK BALANCES.

Mr. Michael Egan asked the Minister for Finance if he intended to have published the names and amounts of the depositors of unclaimed bank balances, so that their legal representatives might be enabled to claim what legally belonged to them; and what steps he proposed to take in order that such unclaimed balances and deposits, as well as unclaimed property, might be transferred to the custody of the State.

Mr. Blythe replied that in regard to the first part of the question he did not propose to take steps of the kind suggested; and in regard to the second he referred the deputy to a reply given on May 23rd, 1924, on the subject of unclaimed bank balances.

LOANS FOR HOUSING.

Mr. R. Corish asked the President whether he was aware of the refusal of banks in the Saorstat to give loans to local authorities for building houses for the working classes, and whether, in view of that difficulty, and also of the great need for houses, he contemplated the introduction of legislation to enable the Executive Council to lend money for the purpose.

In reply, Mr. Seumas Burke said that, so far as was aware, the banks generally had co-operated as regards housing by the granting of loans to local authorities.

CONSTRUCTIONAL WORKS.

Mr. McGilligan informed Mr. Johnson that the estimated cost of civil constructional works so far contracted for was £2,492,221. The proportion of that sum estimated as wages was 36 per cent. The 8½ per cent. allowed for by the experts under the head of "possible increase of wages" was included in the estimate.

OUTBREAK OF TYPHOID FEVER.

MANY CASES IN OMAGH.

A somewhat severe epidemic of typhoid fever has occurred in Omagh and the vicinity, and many cases have been admitted to the Fever Hospital. Most of the cases have occurred in the western end of the town.

The Medical Inspector of the Ministry of Home Affairs has visited the urban district, and is engaged with the local medical officer in investigating the origin of the outbreak.

CRUSHED UNDER A TRAMCAR.

BELFAST SCHOOLCHILD'S SHOCKING DEATH.

Annie Montgomery (5) was knocked down and killed by a tramcar on the Falls road, Belfast, yesterday.

Though the motorman applied the emergency brakes, the car partly passed over the body of the child. Jacks had to be employed to lift the car before her mangled body could be extricated. She was shockingly injured and death must have been instantaneous.

COMPULSORY IRISH.

HIGH SCHOOL HEADMASTER'S PROTEST.

AN EDUCATIONAL ADVISORY COUNCIL.

"We trust that the educational authorities will not add to the prevailing restlessness by pressing their views unduly upon those who cannot conscientiously agree with them," said the Bishop of Cashel at the prize distribution of the High School, Dublin, yesterday.

Mr. J. Thompson, M.A., Headmaster, said that without a pension scheme they could not hope to prevent the cream of their universities from going to those countries where their life's future was much more secure. Until the question of compulsory Irish had been debated from a wide outlook, they asked that it should be at least postponed. "We maintain," Mr. Thompson added, "that our schools turn out Irishmen who are loyal and patriotic and useful to the State without compulsory Irish."

SCHOOL PROGRAMMES.

A PENSIONS SCHEME NECESSARY.

Mr. Thompson went on to say that the new system of secondary education in the Free State gave more, but not complete, freedom to the schools and teachers in the choice of methods, syllabuses, and books. The grant to the schools under the new system was likely to be more generous than the total of the different grants in former years; but it would not be as liberal as the grants to secondary schools in Great Britain or Northern Ireland. While that fact remained their Government and the country could not expect their schools to be as efficient as the others. The Government had at last dealt with the vital question of teachers' salaries on lines which, in spite of certain defects, bade fair to provide a satisfactory solution of the teachers' claims.

The Free State, he said, was not in the middle of the Pacific Ocean, and if he said that a scheme of pensions was absolutely essential if they were to induce the best university graduates to enter the teaching profession here, it was because Great Britain and Northern Ireland were so near to them that they could not, without a pension scheme, hope to prevent the cream of their universities from going to the countries where the conditions of entering the profession were less stringent, and where their life's future was much more secure.

AN ADVISORY COUNCIL.

Continued progress depended upon the formation of an Advisory Council, meeting at stated dates to discuss the various problems as they arise. This Council should contain representatives of universities, secondary, primary, and technical schools, chambers of commerce, and other educational interests. This would help to remove one of the greatest hindrances to Irish education—viz., the want of broad, sound, and enlightened public criticism. "Ireland will never have the education of which she so sorely stands in need until the general public are as much interested in their schools as they are, say, in racing and cinemas or bazaars. Such a body would be able to give sound and well-considered advice on the question of compulsory Irish, with which our schools are threatened in 1927-8. Until it has been so debated from a wide and large outlook, we ask that compulsory Irish should be, at the very least, postponed; for it is not a question to be decided off-hand—all kinds of interests have to be considered. We maintain that our schools turn out Irishmen who are loyal, patriotic, and useful to the State without compulsory Irish; that the parents, who, by fees and taxes, contribute the larger part of the cost of the maintenance of the schools, are entitled to have their opinions considered; that the overwhelming majority of them prefer a curriculum for their children on the present lines without compulsory Irish; and that, if we provide facilities for learning Irish to those pupils whose parents wish it, we are doing all that it necessary and advisable."

RESTLESS SUSPICION.

The Bishop of Cashel, having distributed the prizes, offered his warmest congratulations to the headmaster on the marked success of the school's work. The governors of the school appreciated very highly the strenuous, self-sacrificing efforts made by Mr. Thompson, and they were quite satisfied with its position as to scholarship and general culture.

Continuing, he said—"The headmaster has formulated a list of improvements. They represent a moderate view of the requirements of the teaching profession. No doubt, these reasonable requests will be complied with. It is of the highest importance that our teachers should have easy minds, so that they may be able to concentrate upon their work without any uneasiness regarding the future.

"What is true of the teachers is also equally true in every department of public life in Ireland. We all want quiet and freedom from strain. At present the public mind is restless, suspicious, easily alarmed. You can see this in the tone of many of the speeches of our public men; and, having regard to the possibilities amongst an excitable people, it makes men in positions of trust very uneasy. A great many men in the Free State are anxious to promote peace and good-will. They are using all the influence they possess to keep people of financial stability in the country. Many of these people are seriously influenced by the general restlessness, and unless there is a speedy improvement we shall not be able to keep them.

"The times are out of joint. It is a very easy thing to stir up strife. Wise men concentrate upon what makes for peace and good-will. We trust that the educational authorities will not add to the prevailing restlessness by pressing their views unduly upon those who cannot conscientiously agree entirely with them. It is quite easy for a Government to make rules, but in the carrying out of an educational policy it is essential to have the will of the people behind it."

THE CLASSICS.

Dr. L. C. Purser congratulated the school on the success of its students in the study of Greek and Latin. He was delighted to see the classics flourishing so well. It would take a great many years before Latin was displaced in their schools, but Greek was fading away—not, he was glad to say, in the same degree in this country as in England, where the neglect of the ancient language was shocking. There was no better training for boys than the study of Latin and Greek, so long as they did not stay too long at it.

He felt with Mr. Thompson the strong necessity for an Advisory Council to the Ministry of Education. One of the functions of such a body would be to urge upon the Government a postponement of the infliction of compulsory Irish. The question of Irish was a far-reaching one, to which pre-eminently applied the wisdom of the phrase, 'the more haste the less speed." Even if the aim were a good one, of which he had the greatest doubt, the element of compulsion was not likely to secure it.

Mr. J. Thompson reported on the progress of the school. The number of boys on the school roll was 291, an increase of 10. At the Intermediate certificate examinations this year the School had secured three of the 75 scholarships for the whole Free State, and one-half of those distinctions that came to all the Protestant schools put together. All of their nine students entered for Greek secured honours, and two of their boys—A. W. H. Breakey and D. M. Mitchell—obtained the distinction of full marks in both Greek and Latin. The former added the distinction of first place in the Free State in mathematics. Another boy, G. P. Pearce, with 199 marks out of a possible 200, obtained first place in drawing.

At the Junior Exhibition Examination in Trinity College this autumn first place was secured by a High School student, W. S. Glover, to whom was awarded the Kidd Scholarship of £80 a year for four years. The last time that the School gained the Kidd Scholarship was in 1889, when it was won by Professor W. E. Thrift.

The school's swimming club had again been a great success. The Leinster Union's certificate of proficiency had been granted to 48 of the boys, and H. C. Ewen won the senior swimming championship of Leinster.

The other Governors present were: the Archdeacon of Cashel, Dr. L. C. Purser, Vice-Provost, T.C.D.; Professor W. E. Thrift, T.D.; Mr. J. Andrew, Mr. A. Purser, Mr. R. C. de Versan, K.C.; Mr. Alfred Millar, and Mr. A. L. B. Moore, registrar.

LOSS OF LIVE STOCK.

DAIL DEBATE ON CREDITS TO FARMERS.

When the Dail met yesterday discussion was resumed on the motion by Mr. Baxter that the establishment of agricultural credit societies had failed to afford the necessary relief to farmers who lost their live stock through disease in 1924-25, and that steps should be taken immediately to introduce a system of short-term loans at low interest for the re-stocking of the farms.

An amendment by Professor Tierney to the effect that the credit societies afforded a reasonable method of relieving farmers who have lost stock, and that the development of the societies would provide a suitable credit system, was carried by 36 votes to 26.

THE RAVAGES OF FLUKE.

MEANS OF RELIEVING FARMERS.

Mr. Conor Hogan said that while agricultural credit societies were excellent in themselves, they were not able to meet the needs of farmers. The people were not educated up to their possibilities. He had never made a claim that short term loans would be a benefit to the poorer farmers. Something in the nature of a miracle or the boom years of the war would have to happen if agriculture were to recuperate in the time and in the way suggested by those favouring short term loans. In his opinion, the need was for long term loans at low interest.

Mr. Woulfe said that the credit societies had not yet had a fair chance.

Mr. D. Vaughan said that in normal times credit societies were admirable, but in the present case their formation was too slow.

Mr. Conlon said that it was regrettable that the Minister should persist in maintaining a scheme which had been proved a complete failure.

Mr. Dalton said that the majority of the farmers were not in a position to put up any money to form credit societies, even if the Government provided £3 for every £1 subscribed.

When the amendment was put before the Dail as the main motion,

A FURTHER AMENDMENT.

Mr. Johnson moved an amendment to delete the reference to credit societies as a reasonable means of relieving farmers who have lost stock through fluke, and other words, so that the motion would read simply: "That the Dail is of opinion that the establishment of agricultural credit societies will provide a credit system particularly suitable to the permanent needs of small farmers."

Mr. Gorey seconded the amendment. He said that the Government majority had been obtained by lobbying and suggestions of relief grants.

Mr. P. Hogan, Minister for Lands and Agriculture, opposed the amendment, which, he said, did not offer a reasonable means of dealing with these losses. He was willing to meet any one on the whole question of credits.

The debate was adjourned.

TREATMENT OF PRISONERS.

On the motion for the adjournment, Mr. Alfred Byrne said that there were serious rumours that a prisoner in Mountjoy Jail named Michael Carolan had been ill-treated.

Mr. Kevin O'Higgins said that he was not ill-treated, nor was he placed in solitary confinement in a basement cell.

Mr. Johnson asked the Minister to give information to the House, no matter how foolish the charges might be.

Mr. O'Higgins stated that he was glad to say that the prisoner was quite well, and in receipt of treatment proper to a prisoner in the division to which he was sentenced.

In reply to further questions, Mr. O'Higgins explained that Carolan was placed in a ward wholly separate from those occupied by prisoners of the criminal class. He was entitled to two hours' exercise every day, but it had been found practicable to allow him out for exercise virtually all day. The only punishment inflicted on him since his committal was on November 12th. He was reported for persisting in shouting and whistling to other prisoners. After being cautioned and refusing to return to his cell, he was placed on No. 2 punishment diet for seven days. He then proceeded to break five windows in his cell, and was for that put under restraint to prevent further damage. When it was thought that he had been sufficiently chastened restraint was removed after five hours.

The House adjourned till Tuesday next.

CARL ROSA OPERA COMPANY.

HAYDN'S "APOTHECARY."

There is such an increasing flow of cheerfulness and lovely tune in Haydn's composition—such a prevailing feeling of gladness even in his most solemn passages, that one felt beforehand that the production of his little opera, "The Apothecary," must be enjoyable. That the Gaiety Theatre, Dublin, has filled for its first performance here need hardly be said. All were anxious to hear the work, and to contrast it with what they knew of Rossini's "Barber of Seville" and Mozart's "Marriage of Figaro"—works which "Papa" Haydn influenced.

The "Apothecary" is a vivacious, one-act effort, of the purest opera bouffe. The scene is laid in the shop of an apothecary; who would fain marry his pretty ward, and take her dowry as well. His rivals are two young sparks, one of whom has entered the apothecary's service as an apprentice, to be near his beloved Grilletta, while the other is a rich young fop. Much as in "The Barber," there are plot and counter-plot, with merry disguise—all ending in the true lovers' winning the day. The opera is neatly laid out for the four principals. The singing last night was excellent, particularly that by the soprano and tenor. There is a tendency to lose the beauty of the music in the comedy that moves through the piece, but there was a nice restraint that always kept things well within bounds.

Frederick Clendon, who had already done so well in "The Barber," was excellent as the Apothecary, he has a rare faculty for always doing the right thing, and doing it well.

Ben Williams also sang well as the Apprentice lover. His diction and phrasing were notably good, but he was inclined to slur some of the trippy passages. Miss Jennie Bleasdale as Grilletta won further high opinions by her dainty and graceful vocalism. Her voice is not too robust, but it carries well, and is always cleverly used. She gets her effects quietly. Miss Olive Gilbert was also very good, as the wealthy "fop." The work was followed with keen interest, and was warmly applauded at the close.

The earlier part of the programme was given to the production of "Cavalleria Rusticana." It was the third performance of Mascagni's work during the present season, and the work was well done. Miss Beatrice Miranda was the Santuzza, with Ben Williams as Turridu; Flintoff Moore as Alfio, and Miss Phyllis Woolfe as Lola.

To-day's matinee—"Madame Butterfly." To-night—"Carmen."

She retired to bed on Thursday night, but got up later and sat down at the kitchen hearth, where her night-gown caught fire. Before the flames could be extinguished she was badly burned on the leg, arm and back. Her condition is serious.

MORE SHANNON WORKERS.

EX-SOLDIERS AS DOCKERS.

MINISTER'S REPLY TO LABOUR PARTY.

Following the decision taken on Thursday evening by National Army ex-service men in Limerick, who have been allied with the Transport and General Workers' Union, thirty of the men took up work at the Limerick docks yesterday morning on the discharge of the steamer Erling Lindoe, which has a cargo of constructional material for the Shannon scheme. Twenty more men were taken on during the day at the recognised local wage of 14s. a day for work on overseas vessels.

Before the work was begun, ex-Brigadier Murphy, the leader of these men, it is understood, gave the regular dockers the option of work, but they declined to accept it, evidently in deference to the views of the strike committee. Work was carried on at the docks during the day without any interruption. There were a few Civic Guards on duty in the vicinity of the ship, which is expected to be discharged by Monday, when the unloading of the steamer Laureston, which has over two thousand tons of material for the Shannon scheme, will commence.

Meanwhile, strike pickets continue to parade the streets. A leaflet was circulated to-day, headed: "Shannon Scheme Job," asking the public not to give supplies to German or Irish "scabs."

The first of a series of meetings in pursuance of the declaration of the Irish Labour Party and Trades Union Congress will be held in Limerick on Sunday. Mr. Thomas Johnson and other members of the Labour Party in the Dail are announced to speak.

WORKERS AND WAGES.

The following comment was issued in Dublin yesterday by the Minister for Industry and Commerce on the statement published on Thursday from the National Executive of the Labour Party:—

So the National Executive is merely a committee of politicians, whose contribution to the grave economic problems of the country consists of the traditional mixture of platitudes—some pious, some not—and abuse of the Government. It incites workers to do bad work on this national scheme, and recklessly assures them that by a stoppage of work more wages can be got. It is not, of course, the National Executive that would endure the hardships of any stoppage of work, only to discover that the fact is simply as I have stated—that the wages are the best which can be offered if the scheme is to be carried out at the estimated cost.

The comfort that the National Executive gives to "the many thousands" of workers without work or benefit is to tell them that their position is due to the inactivity of the Minister. When the thought, time and labour given by the Government to a series of measures for promoting economic development and relieving unemployment are compared with any constructive proposals claimed by the Labour Party, the worker can judge for himself who has been in earnest about these matters.

One instance of a statement which, if not platitudinous, is certainly not pious, may be noted in the allegation that men have left the work as a result of their experience of the work, wages and living conditions. The fact is that no men have left the work except those rejected by the doctor on medical grounds, or those taken off by strike pickets in pursuance of the strange policy approved by the National Executive for the relief of unemployment.

I do not think the National Executive will suffer any loss of authority or prestige if it now leaves the workers to decide for themselves whether they are willing to take their share in carrying out a project which, if completed at the estimated cost, should transform the country.

THREE DUBLIN FIRES.

OUTBREAK IN GOVERNMENT BUILDINGS.

Shortly after five o'clock yesterday morning fire broke out in the British and Irish Steam Packet Company's stores and offices at the North Wall, Dublin. Two sections of the Fire Brigade, under Captain Myers, turned out, and on their arrival it was found that the offices were well alight. Considerable damage was done before the outbreak was got under control, two hours afterwards.

Later in the day, at about two o'clock, the Fire Brigade was called to the Department of Agriculture, Merrion street, where it was found that documents and papers stored in the basement had caught fire. In less than an hour the fire was extinguished.

It is stated that important documents have been destroyed.

A fire in a coal dump of Messrs. Robinson's yards at Rogerson's quay, Dublin, yesterday evening, required the attendance of the Fire Brigade for a considerable time.

HOW TO LISTEN TO MUSIC.

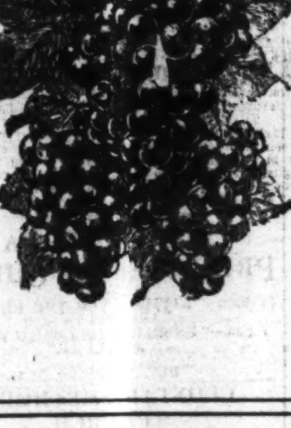

DR. LARCHET'S LECTURE.

Professor John F. Larchet, Mus.D., delighted a large audience at the Royal Dublin Society's Ballsbridge premises yesterday by his talk on "How to Listen to Music." This was the second of the afternoon lectures in the current session, but the audience had no sense of being "lectured." Dr. Larchet laid it down that a certain amount of knowledge was necessary for true appreciation of any musical work, but he then set out to show that listeners need not be worried by text-book technicalities. For appreciative listening it was desirable to have ideas as to the nature of the composition, and for what instruments it was written, and its approximate date; to memorise the chief themes or melodies on their announcement at the beginning of the work, so as to be able to follow their subsequent development, and to note the building of climaxes; to perceive the form of the composition, and to appreciate the subtle effects of harmony with which the composer supports and enriches his themes.

His remarks on qualities of theme and principles of form in music Dr. Larchet illustrated by reference to the theme familiarly known as "Fate knocking at the door," in Beethoven's Fifth Symphony, and by tracing the use of the theme through the first movement of that symphony. The more rudimentary basis of form was illustrated by a Mozart minuet movement, while contrapuntal style was exemplified in one of Bach's "Forty-eight" fugues for the clavier. These musical illustrations were given with the aid of a gramophone and records.

OVERTURNED MOTOR AMBULANCE.

When returning from Dublin on Thursday night the Dundalk motor ambulance struck the bank on the roadside, and, falling over, pinned underneath William McElroy, Williamson's place, Dundalk, who was walking along the road with a greyhound. He was extricated and removed to hospital. The driver of the ambulance escaped uninjured. The wheels and the coachwork of the ambulance were smashed, and the ambulance was left in the ditch.

NEWS SUMMARY.

IRELAND.

Early yesterday morning two policemen in Dublin who attempted to stop three men in Sheriff street after an explosion had wrecked a picture-house in Talbot street were fired at by the men and wounded.—(Page 7.)

Yesterday thirty National Army ex-Service men at Limerick began the discharge of a vessel which carried material from Germany for the Shannon power scheme.—(Page 5.)

The Bishop of Killaloe (Right Rev. Dr. H. E. Patton) was the preacher at a special Service in connection with the Mothers' Union anniversary meetings in St. Patrick's Cathedral, Dublin, yesterday.—(Page 7.)

It is stated that President Cosgrave and Mr. O'Higgins will go to London in connection with the Boundary Commission.—(Page 7.)

GREAT BRITAIN.

Queen Alexandra died at Sandringham last evening after a brief illness. The King and Queen and other members of the Royal Family were present at the end.—(Page 7.)

The House of Commons yesterday completed the report stage of the Criminal Justice Bill.—(Page 8.)

FINANCIAL.

Rubber Shares were the strongest section of the London Stock Markets, and prices advanced sharply on the rise in rubber to 4s. 8d. per lb.—(Page 10.)

The Treasury Bill rate was higher at 3 15-16 per cent., and discount rates were advanced. There was a plethora of money for short loans, which were offered down to 2½ per cent.—(Page 10.)

Dublin Market was dull and quiet. Guinness Shares were busy, but closed ⅜ lower at 78⅛. Courtaulds lost the turn at 137s. 6d.—(Page 10.)

Queen Alexandra.

The news of Queen Alexandra's illness came as a shock to the British people yesterday; and to-day they will feel genuine grief at the news of her death. To say that a country was "shocked" by the sudden association of the idea of death with a lady of advanced years is to indicate the spell of Queen Alexandra's personality. Queen Victoria died, a very old woman, at eighty-two. In the Queen who died yesterday at eighty-one men saw till the end the young and radiant princess who came from Denmark, sixty-two years ago, to marry Edward Prince of Wales. It was not merely her secret of persisting physical charm that repelled old age—the fact that when she became a great-grandmother. The essence of Queen Alexandra's beauty was spiritual. It came from a youthful, yet serene, outlook upon life, from an unfailing graciousness of character, from a gentle adequacy to great responsibilities, from the brave bearing of private griefs and public burdens. When she made what Lord Palmerston called her "real love-match" with Prince Edward in 1863 the Princess Alexandra exchanged a simple family life for the rigid etiquette and somewhat gloomy splendours of Queen Victoria's Court. Her beauty captivated all hearts in England, and famous Prime Ministers in succession — Palmerston, Disraeli and Gladstone—were her devoted admirers. Her rôle as the wife of a popular Prince, overshadowed by an imperious Queen, was not easy, but she filled it with supreme tact, keeping the love and confidence of mother and son. When she came to the throne she seized at once the affection and respect of her subjects—a new generation of Englishmen—and held them in increasing measure until she went into the long retirement that ended yesterday. Queen Alexandra's spell remained potent into the third generation. For those millions who mourn her to-day she was something more than a beautiful personality, something more than the widow and mother of English Kings. She was a link between stages of British history, far more intimate and more significant than any other link which survives her. She moved as a young Princess amid the now legendary glories of the Victorian Age. She was a Queen in a great transition period not merely of English, but of European, affairs. She has been a secluded observer of the tremendous events which in recent years have altered the whole world's complexion and outlook. Science has revolutionised human thought; manners have changed; political and social privilege has been abolished. Yet through that Fate-woven tapestry of sixty years shone till yesterday, an unbroken thread of gold, the form and influence of England's loveliest Queen. Tennyson wrote her marriage ode; some Georgian poet, as remote in thought and experience from Tennyson as Tennyson was from Spenser, will write her elegy. The sorrow of the Empire's nations to-day will not be less moving because it will be solemnised by the instinct that death, in claiming a beloved woman, has ended an epoch of British history. That sorrow will be felt nowhere more deeply than in Ireland, where old men still remember Princess Alexandra's first visit in 1868, and young men Queen Alexandra's last visit in 1907. The old eyes and the young eyes will retain, despite the chasm of years, an equal vision of beauty and grace.

"beauty's ensign yet
Was crimson in her lips and in her cheeks"

National Economy.

The approach of the Christmas season almost invariably is accompanied by a financial stock-taking in national as well as in domestic affairs. On Thursday a deputation from the Association of British Chambers of Commerce was received by the Chancellor of the Exchequer, on whom it urged the necessity of a general tightening of the nation's purse-strings before the end of the year. Mr. Churchill was sympathetic, but did not promise much. He told the deputation that he was doing everything in his power to reduce expenditure to a minimum; but election pledges must be fulfilled, and it was impossible to prevent a "steady, automatic increase in expenditure" from year to year. Concerning his recent threat to reimpose the sixpence which he took off the income tax in his last Budget, Mr. Churchill promised to exert all his powers to avert "such a most melancholy and untoward event." He warned his audience, however, that the public could not expect to have things both ways. If it insists on high expenditure on this, that and the other project, it must be prepared to accept the consequences. He cited the case of the Road Fund as a typical example. This fund yields £17,000,000 at present, and soon may be producing as much as £25,000,000. Yet, when he suggested that some of this large income might be diverted to other national needs, the whole motoring community rose up immediately in arms. Economy involves reduction of expenditure. The alternative is increased taxation, and, if influential interests persist in thwarting the Chancellor's plans of retrenchment, they must bear the blame if he is forced to raise new revenue from the taxpayers.

Despite her enormous annual expenditure, Great Britain since the war has set the world an example in national economy. In 1919 her Budget amounted to £1,340,000,000. This year it is on the £800,000,000 mark. In 1921-1922 alone the Geddes Committee brought about savings to the total sum of £100,000,000—a feat unparalleled in the history of State finance. Expenditure was cut down ruthlessly in every possible way. The wholesale reduction of staffs, coupled with the demobilisation of hundreds of thousands of fighting men, flooded the labour market and created an enormous measure of unemployment; but successive Governments persisted in the policy of retrenchment, with the result that the most remarkable results were achieved. The currency has been restored to a gold basis, wages have been reduced, and pre-war standards are almost in sight. The balance-sheets of the various spending departments are subjected to the most careful scrutiny. Constant pressure is kept on the Treasury by Parliament, and no estimate is allowed to pass through the House of Commons until it has been examined and criticised by some of the most astute business brains in the world. England will succeed in her object. Her people are determined that the ravages of the war shall be made good and that the old frugal habits shall be restored to the nation. They have borne, and still are bearing, a burden of taxation higher than that of any other people in the world, except the people of the Irish Free State; and by good husbandry they have come within reach of their reward.

How are we faring in the Free State? Comparison with Britain, of course, would be preposterous. The British Treasury has the experience of centuries behind it; our Government is still in swaddling clothes, so far as the intricacies of national finance are concerned. It would be unreasonable, therefore, to expect British standards from the Free State, especially as there is no enlightened opposition in Dail Eireann to act as a watch-dog over the public purse. The people must depend on the good sense of the Government; and, undoubtedly, Mr. Blythe has made valiant efforts to keep the national outgoings within reasonable limits. Much, however, remains to be done. This little country is unable to bear an annual expenditure of more than £20,000,000, and every possible effort ought to be made to reduce the Budget to that figure. We are sorry that when Mr. Blythe addressed the people of Clonmel recently he told them that there were "no great possibilities of a substantial or important reduction in national expenditure immediately ahead." Of course, the Shannon scheme and various other Government projects are likely to cost a considerable sum of money, but there is plenty of room for economy throughout the range of the spending departments. The scale of taxation in the Free State is absurdly high, and there is no real excuse for many of the imposts with which the people are burdened. A Free State "Geddes Committee" is needed badly. At least one million pounds a year could be saved by judicious pruning, and it is high time that the inhabitants of this country should be taught by their Government how to cut their coat according to their cloth.

A Debt to the Living.

Honour that is their due has been paid to those who lie in soldiers' graves in France and Flanders and Gallipoli. A mourning and admiring race has paid them a tribute dignified and eloquent. Yet the dead men would set small value on ceremonial gratitude if their surviving comrades, broken and disabled, were left to suffer in inglorious misery; and the memory of the dead ought to be coupled with remembrance of the living. The conference recently held in Dublin of Red Cross workers and members of the Order of St. John of Jerusalem had before it some account of the vast amount of labour and expenditure which has been involved in the assistance of ex-Service men and their families in the Saorstát since 1918. From county after county came the story of distress—of unemployment generally, and often of disablement and of hardship scarcely susceptible of alleviation. Mr. E. J. Wright, Secretary of the Emergency Help Committee of London, commented on the "enormous number of claims for assistance sought as the result of unemployment"—a class of distress outside the scope of a fund organised for the special benefit of men suffering from war disabilities. Thousands of ex-Service men who are unemployed would be enjoying good salaries and prospects to-day if they had not chosen to risk their careers, as well as their lives, in the hour when they saw a duty that was not to themselves. These are the men to whom, no less than to the dead, the community that they served owes a moral debt. Sir John Lumsden reminded workers in the joint organisations of the existence of the Central Benevolent Committee—a body which acts in a purely advisory capacity. That committee must not hesitate to demand of the public a tribute to the dead in the form of help for their companions in arms who live.

"Wireless" Development.

No nation, said Lord Gainford, at the first dinner of the Radio Association, is ahead of Britain in "wireless" work at the present moment. The Duke of Sutherland deprecated extravagant prophecies respecting the effect of "wireless" upon the world. Forecasts of factories working without furnaces, trains without locomotives and aircraft without engines—all controlled by "wireless" energies—were remote from reality. On the other hand, with the power to transmit "wireless" beams in place of "broadcasting" circular waves, a great advance seemed to be at hand. When direction of "wireless" beams came under control, the "wireless" telephone, an instrument peculiarly suitable for consolidating the bonds of the Empire, would be a possibility. The Duke hoped that the day was not distant when the Prime Ministers of the overseas Dominions would be able to confer together and with the mother country touching all imperial problems. The consciousness of the British race is diffused, as it were, over the five continents, and British interests embrace the globe. Britain's pre-eminence in "wireless" development, therefore, coincides with the peculiar needs of her people. The time is at hand when Britons under the Southern Cross, in the snows of Canada and in London will be in closer and more constant communication than were the inhabitants of England alone a century ago.

COURT AND PERSONAL.

LONDON LETTER.

QUEEN ALEXANDRA.

59 FLEET STREET, LONDON

FRIDAY NIGHT.

The news of the death of Queen Alexandra reached London to-night just after the final edition of the evening papers had appeared, and many thousands of workers had left the centre for the suburbs without an answer to their inquiries as to the condition of the Queen-Mother. It was half-past six before a paper appeared with the bare announcement of her decease, and immediately crowds gathered round the news boys, who disposed of their supplies of papers in a few moments. Deep regret was expressed by the readers, a slight indication of the sorrow that will be experienced generally at the passing of such a gracious personality. Queen Alexandra was greatly beloved in London, particularly by the women, and it was no unusual thing for a crowd of women to wait hours to see her pass.

The bulletin of the early morning rather suggested that the end was not likely to be remote, and fears were expressed in many quarters that Queen Alexandra might not last the day. It is much that the end was so peaceful. Queen Alexandra had not been in the best of health for some little time, but she was able to get out into the garden and to take motor drives frequently. Yesterday morning, about eleven o'clock, the first seizure took place, and, since she had taken to staying in bed until late, she was in her room. Measures were promptly taken to afford relief, but the dangerous character of the illness was noticeable at once. A woman of wonderful vitality, Queen Alexandra met the circumstances with calmness and courage. She was able to converse with her children on their arrival, to ask for a favourite servant, and to reassure everybody. Her strength began to fail, however, and it soon became obvious to those around her that there was no hope of recovery.

The Funeral.

The funeral of Queen Alexandra will take place at St. George's Chapel, Windsor; for it is there that King Edward was laid to rest. The Chapel, however, is in process of restoration, and it may be found impossible to hold an elaborate Funeral Service within its walls. In such an event there may be a Funeral Service in London on the way from Sandringham to Windsor, with a quiet family gathering on arrival at St. George's Chapel. I was present in St. George's Chapel when King Edward was laid to rest. The Service on that occasion was long and impressive and the assemblage a wonderful one. Queen Alexandra was led into the Chapel by the King, followed by the German Emperor and the Empress Marie of Russia, the King of Greece and the King of Portugal. Death or disaster has wrecked the lives of the last four monarchs. The two former are exiles; the others were cruelly murdered.

Precedents.

It is strange that there is no modern precedent for the funeral of the mother of a reigning British monarch, and the nearest approach to anything like a precedent is the funeral of Queen Adelaide, who died in 1849. She was the widow of King William IV., and Queen Victoria, who succeeded him, supervised all the arrangements made for the interment. Funeral ceremonials in those days were very different from those ruling now, and it may be that the precedent will be of little value. Queen Victoria's funeral was that of a reigning monarch, and unique in itself, while the precedent of King Edward's funeral also does not lend itself to the present occasion. In any event, it is regarded as certain that the remains of Queen Alexandra will be brought to London, and conveyed in a procession to Marlborough House or to Paddington Station.

Sandringham House.

Sandringham House, where Queen Alexandra passed away, was bought by King Edward shortly before his marriage in 1863, the house and estate being purchased out of the moneys saved for the then Prince of Wales during his minority. The place was then quite small, but ten years later it was almost rebuilt and greatly enlarged. The diningroom, with its light oak panelling hung with tapestries, will seat fifty guests, while there are rooms in the house to accommodate the same number for a stay. The gardens, greatly beloved by Queen Alexandra, are very beautiful, and there is a delightful corner designed by Sir Laurence Alma Tadema with a marble bench. On the shores of the Wash at Snettisham is a little bungalow, frequently used by Queen Alexandra and her circle as a tea-house. It was one of her favourite resorts, particularly in the summer time, and she used to sit there for hours watching the sea. Snettisham Church, a very fine building, was greatly damaged by an enemy air raid while Queen Alexandra was in residence at the neighbouring Sandringham Hall.

Europe's Aunt.

Queen Alexandra was once described as aunt to all Europe, and there was something in the remark; for at that time she was aunt to the German Emperor, the Tsar of Russia, the King of Denmark, the King of Greece, the King of Spain, and several other, though minor, royalties. This relationship came about owing to the fact that her father, the King of Denmark, had four children who became Sovereigns. His eldest son was King of Denmark, his second son King of Greece, while one daughter became Empress of Russia—the present Empress Marie—and the other was Queen Alexandra.

The Queen's Estate.

The death of Queen Alexandra will mean a considerable change to the King and Queen; for Sandringham Hall now will pass into their possession, since it was left to Queen Alexandra only for her life. Marlborough House will pass to the Prince of Wales, and, since it is ready for occupation, it is quite possible that he may decide to make use of it before long. It has been stated that Queen Alexandra wished that the Prince would take up his residence there, and, since much of the furnishing belonged to her, that rather suggests that the Prince may be her principal heir. At Marlborough House there is a wonderful plate and jewel room, and it is understood that the contents of this apartment are worth an almost fabulous sum. The jewels of Queen Alexandra are reputed to be worth some hundreds of thousands of pounds, her pearls alone being magnificent.

The Boundary Commission.

It was stated here this evening by a newspaper that the Irish Boundary Commission probably would end its sittings with the meetings which begin on Tuesday next in London, and that its report, which is almost complete, may be in the hands of the Governments concerned within a fortnight. This rather definite statement was not confirmed at the offices of the Boundary Commission, where the statement was looked upon as news. There is, however, a feeling that the work of the Commission is drawing to a close, and that the report cannot be much delayed, but there is nothing of a substantial character to justify it.

RAILWAY WAGES INQUIRY.

The English Railway Wages Board concluded the public hearing of the companies' and men's demands yesterday. The Board will sit in private next week to consider its findings, which will probably be issued in eight or ten days.

QUEEN ALEXANDRA DEAD.

A PEACEFUL END.

THE ROYAL FAMILY AT SANDRINGHAM.

IRISH VISITS RECALLED.

THE GOVERNOR-GENERAL'S MESSAGE OF CONDOLENCE.

WE announce with deep regret that Queen Alexandra, who was taken ill suddenly on Thursday morning, died last evening at Sandringham House, within a fortnight of her 81st birthday, which would have been celebrated on December 1st. The sad news was conveyed in the following bulletin which was issued at Sandringham at 5.45 o'clock last evening:—

Her Majesty Queen Alexandra passed away peacefully at 5.25 p.m. to-day. The King and Queen and the members of the Royal Family at Sandringham were present.

(Signed)

F. J. WILLANS.
THOMAS HORDER.

The official announcement was not unexpected, in view of the grave tone of the bulletin issued at 2 p.m., which stated that the heart attacks had recurred during the morning and that Queen Alexandra was "sinking rapidly."

The heart became gradually weaker and then ceased altogether—the Queen passed away peacefully, without pain or distress.

Prince of Wales Delayed by Fog.

The King and Queen, the Princess Royal, Princess Victoria, the Queen of Norway, the Prince and Princess Arthur of Connaught, and Prince Henry were in close attendance when this kind, gentle lady, who graced the Throne as consort of one of England's most popular monarchs, breathed her last.

The Prince of Wales, whose visit to the City of London was cancelled owing to the grave news of the Queen-Mother's condition, travelled to Sandringham by special train, accompanied by the Duke of York and Lord Stamfordham, the King's private secretary. They arrived too late, however, to be at the bedside, as the train, which was delayed by fog, did not reach Wolferton Station until 5.45. The Princess Royal, Queen Alexandra's eldest daughter, travelling by an earlier train, reached Sandringham from London in time to see her mother before the end came.

Messages of Condolence.

The Governor-General of the Irish Free State last night sent a message of sympathy to Mr. Amery, the Dominion Secretary. The Prime Minister sent a personal message of condolence to the King at Sandringham, and the Lord Mayor of London and the Lord Mayor of Belfast also sent messages.

The news was communicated by the Foreign Office to the Ambassadors and the Ministers accredited to the Court of St. James, and messages of regret were sent to Mr. Austen Chamberlain, as the King's representative, by the members of the foreign colonies in London.

Flags were flown at half-mast over all Government buildings in London last night, and the bell "Great Paul" at St. Paul's was tolled.

Broadcasting Programme Cancelled.

The British Broadcasting Company cancelled their original programme, and arranged a new one to commence at seven o'clock with the announcement of the Queen-Mother's death. All stations were then closed down until 7.40 p.m., when a hymn, prayer, and funeral march were broadcast. The stations closed down again until ten o'clock, when the time signal, the news bulletin and the weather forecast concluded the programme.

The Funeral Arrangements.

The arrangements for the funeral have not yet been completed, but the strong probability is that Queen Alexandra's remains will find a resting place beside those of the late King Edward at Windsor.

It is officially announced that the Danish Court will go into mourning for four weeks, as from to-day.

SPECIAL MEMOIR.

THE LATE QUEEN'S LIFE.

A NOTEWORTHY CAREER.

Born at Copenhagen on December 1, 1844, the eldest daughter of Prince, afterwards King Christian IX. of Denmark and Princess Louise of Hesse Kassel, England's future Queen was brought up in circumstances of perfect domestic happiness. To the wise and careful training of her mother, a Princess of singularly high intellectual attainments, may be traced many of the rare qualities for which she was conspicuous. Her early home life was characterised by the utmost simplicity. Though surrounded by everything calculated to develop the best instincts of a sweet and winning nature, the young Princess knew no luxury. Her education, directed by her parents, was planned upon a generous scale. She became an accomplished musician and linguist, as well as an artist of no mean ability, an expert horsewoman and a lover of outdoor pursuits, acquiring, in addition, a notable knowledge of housewifery.

The accession of her father to the throne of Denmark made no essential difference in the domestic habits of a truly harmonious family circle, the members of which were bound together by peculiarly strong ties of natural affection. Most of the year was spent in Copenhagen, or its neighbourhood, though from time to time many visits were paid to various Continental resorts. It was in the autumn of 1862, at Heidelberg, during one of these holidays, that the Princess, then eighteen years of age, met her future Consort for the first time. Her extraordinary grace and beauty won the heart of the heir to the throne of England, and according to tradition the attachment was mutual from the beginning.

Queen Victoria, who had conceived a warm affection for the lovely "Fairy," was most anxious to bring about the union, and proceeded to Heidelberg in order to arrange its preliminaries. On the 9th of September, the eve of the coming of age of the Prince, his engagement was formally announced in the London Gazette, the intimation being received with unalloyed satisfaction throughout the British Dominions.

ENGLAND'S WELCOME.

When the marriage treaty was concluded in February, 1863, both the Royal Family and people of Denmark signalised the occasion by making costly presents to the bride-elect, among her father's gifts being a diamond necklace to which was appended a fac-simile of the famous Dagmar cross; while the Princess expressed her sense of the regard shown for her on leaving her home by bestowing a sum of 3,000 thalers to be apportioned as dowry among six brides belonging to the humbler classes. Accompanied by her parents and her eldest brother, Prince Frederick, she left Copenhagen on February 26, reaching Brussels on March 2. Two days were spent in the Belgian capital, and on the 5th of the month the Royal Party embarked at Antwerp, on the Victoria and Albert, for England.

Only those who turn to contemporary chronicles can form an adequate idea of the enthusiasm created by the coming of the Princess. From the moment that the Royal yacht reached Gravesend, under its escort of four warships, the demonstrations of welcome surpassed all previous records in the history of the country. The great beauty, as well as the matchless grace, of the youthful Princess fascinated all beholders, and from that day she was taken to the hearts of the people of England. London, decorated and illuminated, held high festival for more than a week. Valuable gifts were showered upon the Royal bride, among them a rivière of diamonds from the Lord Mayor and Corporation, and a diamond bracelet from the ladies of Leeds and Manchester.

THE WEDDING.

The wedding, which took place on the 10th of March at Windsor, was a scene of unparalleled splendour, and was remarkable, as being the first Royal marriage celebrated in St. George's Chapel since that of Henry I. in 1122. Describing the short, but deeply impressive, ceremony, Bishop Wilberforce spoke of the bride's demeanour as "calm, feeling, self-possessed." The occasion was observed as a holiday in every part of the Three Kingdoms, very large sums being expended, partly in illuminations and partly in entertaining school children and the poor.

The Royal pair began housekeeping with an income of over £100,000 a year. Sandringham, a place which saw so much joy and so much sorrow in their after life, had been purchased at an initial cost of £220,000 out of the savings made by the Prince Consort during the minority of his eldest son. But it was chiefly at Marlborough House that the Princess spent the earlier part of her married life, and there were born most of her children—Prince Albert Victor, afterwards Duke of Clarence and Avondale, on January 8, 1864; Prince George, afterwards Duke of York (His present Majesty, George V.), on June 3, 1865; Princess Louise Duchess of Fife, on February 20, 1867; Princess Victoria on July 6, 1868; and Princess Maud, afterwards Queen of Norway, on November 26, 1869. Nearly eight years of happiness passed by unclouded by any untoward incidents save a severe rheumatic attack from which the Princess suffered in 1867, and later, the loss of an infant son.

Marlborough House became the centre of London's social life. Queen Victoria was in strict retirement, and a heavy burden of responsibility devolved in consequence upon the young Royal pair. The position was for them peculiarly difficult and delicate, but it was filled with that consummate tact which so eminently characterised both of them, and in a spirit of unfailing loyalty, devotion, and energy. It need hardly be recalled to mind that Queen Alexandra, as Princess of Wales, was the ever-willing helper of her husband in innumerable State and other public functions for no less than thirty-seven years—the longest career of a Prince of Wales in English history—gaining, as time went on, a steadily increasing hold upon the popular affection. Though naturally devoted to a domestic life, her sense of duty was always paramount, and on no occasion did she exhibit any disposition to avoid social obligations, even when their strain told upon her constitution.

A DEVOTED NURSE.

In 1868-9 she undertook a tour as far as Egypt and Constantinople for the sake of her health, and for rest, but she had scarcely wholly recovered when a fresh trial came in the nearly fatal illness of her husband, who was attacked by typhoid fever towards the close of 1871. Yet, in her still enfeebled state, she nursed him assiduously, spending many hours by the sick bed, and when the crisis had passed the whole nation expressed the warmest admiration of her devotion.

The departure of the Prince of Wales for India in October, 1875, represented the first prolonged break in the home circle. During its continuance the Princess lived quietly at San-

THE LATE QUEEN ALEXANDRA.

THE LAST HOURS.

ROYAL FAMILY AT THE BEDSIDE.

The Press Association Special Correspondent at Sandringham, telegraphing last evening, said:—During the day the administrations of oxygen to the Queen Mother, which had done so much to minimise the pain of the previous day's heart attacks, were beginning to lose their effect, and Her Majesty had to battle with renewed seizures. The early bulletin spoke of a peaceful night, but of loss of strength, and it became evident that the end was drawing nearer.

The King and Queen, who had been kept closely informed of every development, went over early from York Cottage. When they made a further call at eleven o'clock they decided to remain, and were still there at lunch time. Queen Maud of Norway, the youngest daughter of Queen Alexandra, was in residence at her house some little distance away; but, like the King and Queen, she specially requested that she might be called whenever the occasion arose.

Shortly before one o'clock the Queen motored over to Sandringham at a pace which betokened the utmost urgency. A little later the doctors were recalled from a temporary respite, and the renewed heart attacks were so insistent that the bulletin issued at two o'clock informed the public that Her Majesty was sinking rapidly.

THE KING'S GUESTS DEPART.

Somewhat earlier in the day the King's shooting guests had dispersed, and left for London after making anxious inquiries concerning the Royal patient and offering their respectful sympathy to His Majesty. These guests included the Duke of Roxburghe, Lord Lovat, The Macintosh of Macintosh, and Lord Elphinstone.

The Princess Royal, the eldest daughter of the widowed Queen, was known to be on her way from London, while the Prince of Wales and the Duke of York were following by a slightly later train. It looked then as though their journey from London would resolve itself into a race against time if they were to see the Queen Mother again in life. When the Princess Royal arrived at Wolverton she was intensely relieved when her daughter, Princess Arthur of Connaught, met her at the station with the assurance that Her Majesty still lived, but the communication of the afternoon bulletin was a severe shock to her. She and Princess Arthur hastened to the bedside at Sandringham.

THE PRINCE ARRIVES.

The Prince and his brother arrived at Wolferton Station at 5.45. The news of the death was telephoned to the stationmaster at Wolferton, in order that it might be communicated to the Prince and his brother without delay, and as they stepped from the train they learned that they had arrived just too late. They took their places in a waiting motor car, and left forthwith for Sandringham. Lord Stamfordham, the King's Private Secretary, travelled with them from London.

THE PASSING.

Gradually, but towards the end swiftly, the Queen-Mother's heart became weaker, and at last, at 5.25, it ceased to beat. The King and Queen, the Princess Royal, Princess Victoria, the Queen of Norway, Prince and Princess Arthur of Connaught, and Prince Henry were in close attendance at the end. There was no symptom of pain or distress, but a gentle passing as from wakefulness to sleep.

Queen Alexandra had just failed to reach the age of eighty-one. One of the most famous churches in the neighbouring town of King's Lynn paid the appropriate tribute of tolling eighty strokes on the tenor bell. In many of the homes of the districts reverent gatherings of people listened to wireless announcements connected with the death of the beloved Queen-Mother, and joined in singing "For all the saints who from their labours rest," to the lead of the wireless orchestra and choir.

VISITS TO IRELAND.

Queen Alexandra paid five official visits to Ireland, as follows:—

1868—When King Edward—then Prince of Wales—was installed a Knight of St. Patrick in St. Patrick's Cathedral, Dublin. On that occasion the visit lasted from April 15th to April 24th.

1885—When she held a Drawing Room at Dublin Castle, received the honorary degree of Mus.Doc. from the then Royal University of Ireland, and gave her name to the Alexandra College, an institution in which she never ceased to take a warm interest. The visit to Dublin of the Prince and Princess of Wales lasted from April 8th to 23rd. They then proceeded to Belfast, leaving Larne on April 27th.

1903—When she accompanied King Edward to Ireland. She again honoured Alexandra College by her presence, expressing satisfaction with its progress. She presented badges to Jubilee nurses in St. Patrick's Hall. Her Majesty also visited the Royal Hospital, Trinity College, the Hospice for the Dying at Harold's Cross, the Royal Hospital for Incurables, Donnybrook, and the Royal College of St. Patrick, Maynooth, during her stay in Dublin, which extended from July 21st to 25th. She accompanied King Edward to the North, when they visited Belfast and Londonderry. Galway and Cork were also visited before re-embarking at Queenstown on August 1st.

1904—When Their Majesties attended Punchestown races, and the King laid the foundation stone for the new College of Science. The visit to Dublin began on April 26th, and on April 30th Their Majesties went to Kilkenny. On May 2nd they paid visits to Waterford and Lismore, embarking at Kingstown for Holyhead on May 3rd.

1907—When the King and Queen, accompanied by Princess Victoria (now Queen of Spain), visited the Irish International Exhibition on July 10th, and Leopardstown races on July 11th.

NEW FRENCH CRISIS.

PREMIER'S FIRM STAND.

INFLATION.

A SCENE IN THE CHAMBER.

THERE was a scene in the French Chamber yesterday during the debate on the Finance Bill, which at one time seemed likely to encompass the fall of the Government.

M. Blum, the Socialist leader, asked the Prime Minister, M. Painlevé, to give them an assurance that the Government would not resort to inflation beyond the additional one thousand five hundred million francs, the issue of which would be authorised under the bill.

M. Painlevé replied: "We have promised to do everything possible, but when you ask if the limit will not be exceeded I answer that I would not be an honest man if I gave you this assurance. I declare that no Government could assume the undertaking you ask."

There was considerable sensation at this reply. It increased when M. Blum said that the Socialists had only decided to vote for the bill because they understood from the Government that there would be no further inflation.

He again implored the Government to give its formal assurance in this respect. On the Government's reply depended whether the Socialists voted for or against the bill.

In response there were cries of "Suspend." M. Herriot, the President of the Chamber, suspended the sitting at 6.30.

The suspension was spent in hasty negotiations between the Government, the Socialists and other members of the cartel, with a view to patching up the incident.

After a suspension of three-quarters of an hour the sitting was resumed and M. Painlevé again addressed the House.

"Did they want," he queried, "the stabilisation of the franc by energetic measures, or did they want the exchanges to run riot?" The Government is in a position to restore the value of the franc. It is conscious of the seriousness of the situation, and is shouldering its responsibilities. It would leave no stone unturned, either abroad or at home. It was hopeful of solving the question of inter-Allied debts, and of reaching conventions for stabilising the value of the franc abroad. The Government was prepared to face all eventualities, and it would not yield to terrorism.

The sitting was then suspended until ten o'clock.

The Socialist deputies, after long discussion, decided by 33 votes to 15 to vote in favour of the discussion, and shortly before midnight the Chamber passed the second reading of the Finance Bill unanimously, by a show of hands.

M. Blum then produced the decision reached by the Socialist group during the suspension of the sitting, and the Chamber decided, by 294 votes to 250, to proceed to a debate on the clauses of the bill.

H.M.S. DUBLIN'S PLATE

LENT TO H.M.S. EMERALD.

The Earl of Meath has received the following letter from the British Admiralty:—

MY LORD,—I am commanded by My Lords Commissioners of the Admiralty to acquaint you that they have given their approval to the loan to H.M.S. Emerald during the present commission of this ship of the plate belonging to H.M.S. Dublin, including the articles presented on behalf of the citizens of Dublin. The plate is now in the custody of the Royal Naval Barracks, Chatham, the name "Dublin" not being at present borne by one of His Majesty's ships.

My Lords trust that their action in this matter, which is in accordance with the terms of the Dedication Agreement, will meet with the concurrence of those citizens of Dublin who so generously bestowed the plate upon H.M.S. Dublin.

Orders of the Minister of Agriculture were published in last night's London Gazette authorising the holding of the Cattle Show at Birmingham from November 28th to December 3rd, and the Smithfield Show at the Agricultural Hall, Islington, from December 7th to the 11th.

STAG HUNT STOPPED.

In accordance with instructions issued under the Foot-and-Mouth Disease Standstill Order, stag hunting on Exmoor by the Devon and Somerset Staghounds has to be suspended from to-day.

BRET HARTE'S GRANDSON FOUND DEAD.

PARIS, Friday.

Mr. Richard Bret Harte, writer and painter, and grandson of the famous American author, was found dead in his studio here to-day. All the gas taps in the room were turned on.—(Reuter.)

CINEMA WRECKED BY LAND MINE.

EARLY MORNING OUTRAGE IN DUBLIN.

TWO POLICEMEN SHOT.

GREAT DAMAGE TO HOUSE PROPERTY.

At seven o'clock yesterday morning three men exploded a powerful land mine in the wide entrance to the Masterpiece Cinema in Talbot street, Dublin. The explosion blew out a large portion of the front of the building, and wrecked the glass in nearly a score of houses in the street.

Soon afterwards two plain clothes policemen—Constables John Murphy, 185 C, and William Timmins, 83 C—tried to stop three men who had come along Sheriff street. The men fired at them, and both constables were wounded, Murphy in the abdomen and left arm and Timmins in the right forearm. Both were taken to Jervis street Hospital, where Constable Murphy's condition last night was reported to be critical; but hopes are entertained of his ultimate recovery.

HUNT BY DETECTIVES.

FOUR MEN DETAINED.

After the shooting of the two constables, detectives from College street Station and plain clothes policemen swarmed all over the district, making investigations. They detained four men.

Patrick Swan (24), of 47 Summerhill, who, it was said, was the registered owner of the motor car.

Charles Ashmore (21), 34 Holles street.

Edward Smithers (20), 56 Sandwith street.

Patrick Briody, 1 Erne terrace.

The men were taken to College street Police Station, but up to last night no charge was preferred against them.

Yesterday's explosion recalls the raid on the Masterpiece Picture House, on last Monday week, when the film "Ypres" was seized and taken away. A duplicate copy was obtained from London within three days, and the film has been exhibited daily to large numbers of the citizens. The picture house will be closed for at least four weeks to undergo repairs. Men started work on it yesterday, clearing away the débris, and putting up a hoarding outside the entrance.

The damage to the Masterpiece, which, it is stated, was not insured, is estimated at £2,000, including loss of revenue. The damage to adjoining shops is said to amount to nearly £5,000.

POLICEMAN SURPRISED.

A constable was on duty outside the cinema during the night, and just before 7 o'clock in the morning he heard a voice behind him cry, "Hands up." Looking around, he saw a man with a revolver in his hand standing near him. Another man crossed the road with a revolver in his hand. This man shouted to the constable, "If you stir, I will shoot you." A motor car then came up Talbot street from the direction of Nelson Pillar with one man in it, driving.

The car stopped opposite the cinema, and the driver got out and threw what looked like a large brown paper parcel into the open entrance of the picture house. The three men then got into the motor car, and drove away towards Amiens street Station.

Immediately afterwards there was a loud explosion, and the constable was thrown violently on the ground with the concussion. Beyond a bad shaking he was not otherwise injured.

TWO CONSTABLES SHOT.

Two constables from Store Street Police Station, Constable Murphy and Constable Timmins, were on plain clothes duty in Sheriff street, at the back of Amiens Street Railway Station, when they heard the explosion. Seeing three men running down Sheriff street a few minutes later, their suspicions were aroused, and they followed the men into O'Toole's Arch, off Sheriff street, and challenged them. Both constables were armed, but were taken by surprise, when, without replying to the challenge, one of the men, who appeared to be the leader, drew a revolver and fired point blank at Constable Murphy, who was less than a yard away. The bullet entered the abdomen sideways, and, emerging, went through his left forearm. A second shot which was fired immediately afterwards wounded Constable Timmins in the right forearm.

The three men then bolted down the street, leaving the two constables on the ground.

Constable Timmins, seeing the serious condition of his comrade, went to a dairy shop in Sheriff street and telephoned for the Fire Brigade ambulance, which took them to Jervis Street Hospital, where Constable Murphy lies in a serious condition.

The abandoned motor car, an old 1914 model, was found afterwards near Amiens Street Railway Station.

A HEAVY EXPLOSION.

The explosion was heard all over the city. An ex-soldier, living in Lower Baggot street, relating his experience, said that the loud boom woke him up. For the moment he thought that he was again in the firing line, and waited to hear the rattle of rifle and machine-gun fire and the replying boom of the big guns. When nothing happened, he turned over on his side and went to sleep again.

SHOPKEEPERS' EXPERIENCES.

Mr. F. Shepherd, proprietor of a provision shop next door to the Masterpiece, was in his shop when the explosion occurred, and the force of the concussion, which shook the whole building, flung him on his back. His daughter, who was in bed in an upper room, was thrown out on the floor. Going to the front of his shop, Mr. Shepherd found the plate glass window shattered, the front door blown in, and many of the shop effects damaged.

A workman, who was passing up Talbot street on his way to work, was knocked down by the concussion.

THE DAMAGE IN THE CINEMA.

The entrance and vestibule of the Masterpiece were completely wrecked. The walls and ceiling were stripped of plaster. Connecting doors and a partition on the ground floor were smashed to matchwood, as also was the ticket-office in the hall. Chairs, lounges, settees and pictures were destroyed, and a gaping hole was made in the floor, where the mine had exploded.

The floor was littered with a mass of wreckage, among which were broken boxes of chocolates and cigarettes and admission tickets.

The manager's office and a storeroom overhead presented a scene of great confusion, with all kinds of books, papers and music, and lounges, chairs, pictures and scenes scattered about.

The cinema proper, which is situated to the rear of the building, suffered little or no injury, and the film, "Ypres," and the operating box were uninjured.

This film will be shown at La Scala Theatre, Dublin, next week.

OTHER HOUSES DAMAGED.

More damage was done to the neighbouring shops and houses than to the cinema itself, on account of the open front of the picture house. Moran's drapery establishment, which is directly opposite, had over twenty plate-glass windows, and all its upper windows, shattered. Tarlo's, next door to Moran's, suffered similarly; while a number of windows in the Accounts Department of the General Post Office building, further up, were smashed.

Winstanley's and Wall's shops, on the left-hand of the Masterpiece, and Shepherd's and eight other houses on the other side, had their windows broken.

During the day Talbot street was visited by many thousands of people, and at one period the street was so full that the police had to divert the traffic.

TWO HUNDRED FEET UNDER THE SEA.

GERMAN DIVER'S EFFORT ON SEA BED.

Yesterday evening an unsuccessful attempt was made by one of the German divers to locate the missing submarine, M 1. The diver succeeded in reaching the bed of the sea, but, as he carried no lights, he was unable to see anything, and returned to the surface.

In a statement which it published yesterday, the Admiralty denied that the sinking of the submarine was due to an open hatch.

In the light of a crescent moon yesterday evening the German diver, Herr Otto Kraft, succeeded in descending two hundred and thirty feet in search of the submarine. Although the effort failed to locate the resting place of the ill-fated vessel, it was very satisfactory from the point of view of the German invention.

The weather was far from favourable when, early yesterday morning, the diver was lowered into the sea at the buoyed area, but he was buffetted about so much that he found it impossible to get down. Although scarcely recovered from the resultant seasickness, Herr Kraft yesterday evening insisted on making another attempt, and succeeded in reaching the bottom, but as no lights were used he was unable to see anything.

He was down for some minutes, and made a wide circle with his arm, but could find no obstruction.

Operations will be resumed to-day.

HAVOC OF THE FOG.

RAILWAY SMASH NEAR SHEFFIELD.

A heavy fog again hung over Belfast yesterday. The Liverpool boat did not leave the English port, and the ss. Graphic, which left Belfast had not reached Liverpool at a late hour last night. The Ardrossan steamer, which was delayed several hours in the Lough, arrived in Belfast at 10 o'clock, and at about the same time the Heysham steamer arrived, followed by the boat from Ayr, and later the Fleetwood boat put in an appearance. The Glasgow steamer did not sail until an early hour this morning.

SHEFFIELD RAILWAY COLLISION.

A collision between two passenger trains occurred on the London, Midland and Scottish Railway, between Holmes and Wincobank Stations, near Sheffield, yesterday afternoon. There was a dense fog at the time, and the two trains concerned were both running late. A train from Chesterfield was standing near a signal box when one from Doncaster ran into the rear of it. The force of the impact caused the tender of the moving train to smash clean through the guard's van of the Chesterfield train. The effect on the passenger coaches of the stationary train was to splinter the woodwork and shatter the glass, and to shake the occupants violently about the compartments. Six passengers in the stationary train received minor injuries and were conveyed to Sheffield Royal Hospital.

THREE FOG VICTIMS.

All shipping in the Mersey, with the exception of ferry boats, was brought to a standstill yesterday by a thick fog. The body of Duncan M'Phee (70), a Birkenhead shipwright, was found floating in the graving dock. It is thought that he missed his footway and fell into the dock.

The body of Joseph Curless (14), of Platt lane, Wigan, was recovered from the Leeds-Liverpool Canal at Ince. It is believed that he accidentally walked into the water during the fog.

MOTOR CRASH IN FOG.

Alderman J. Stephenson, of Althorpe, sustained fatal injuries while motoring to Lincoln. The car in which he was driving skidded into a motor lorry, in a fog, near Doncaster.

STEAMER FOUR DAYS LATE.

The Laird Line steamer Maple, which should have sailed from Glasgow on Monday, left the Clyde early yesterday morning, having been delayed by fog. She reached Derry last night, four days late.

NEWRY FOG BOUND.

So dense was the fog at Greenore that the London, Midland and Scottish steamer Curraghmore was unable to leave for Holyhead until 12 noon yesterday. Several passengers who "retired" to rest on embarking were surprised on waking to find themselves with the journey still before them.

COUNCIL OF DUBLIN UNIVERSITY.

APPOINTMENT OF SENATE REPRESENTATIVE.

The Senate of Dublin University met in the Theatre of Trinity College yesterday to nominate a member of the Senate as a representative of the Senate on the University Council, to fill the vacancy created by the resignation of Sir John William Moore, M.D.

The Most Rev. John Allen FitzGerald Gregg, D.D., Archbishop of Dublin, was proposed and seconded, and, as no other candidate was put forward, was unanimously elected to fill the vacancy.

PAPAL HONOUR FOR PRESIDENT COSGRAVE.

THE GRAND CROSS OF THE PIAN ORDER.

The Pope has conferred upon President Cosgrave the Knighthood, First Class, of the Grand Cross of the Pian Order, which was founded in 1847 by Pius IX., as a revival of an earlier Order of the same name founded by Pius IV. Cardinal Gasparri has transmitted to Mr. Cosgrave the insignia and brief of his enrolment.

The Pian Order of the First Class or of the Grand Cross is one of the highest in the gift of the Pope, and is rarely bestowed, and the Order and title are transmissible to the eldest son of the recipient. In the Annuaire Pontifical Catholique for 1925 there were but two holders of this distinction recorded, and President Cosgrave is the first Irishman to have received the honour.

The decoration is an eight-pointed blue-enamelled star. In the centre is a white-enamelled medallion, on which are engraved the words "Pius IX.," and around it in a golden circle is stamped in characters of blue the motto Virtuti et Merito. The ribbon of the Order is dark blue silk bordered with red.

EXCITED RUBBER BUYING.

SUBSTANTIAL ADVANCES IN LONDON.

Amidst much excitement the "spot" price for rubber attained a new high record for the year yesterday in London at 4s. 8d. The rubber price of 4s. 8d. is 1d. above the previous best of 4s. 7d. in the early part of the week. Last July 4s. 6d. was reached, but since then the price has been down to 2s. 11½d. before any decided recovery was noticeable.

Some of yesterday's movements may be gleaned from the following table:—

Spot—4s. 5½d., 4s. 6d., 4s. 8d., 4s. 6½d., nil, 4s. 4½d.

December—4s. 4¾d., 4s. 5d., 4s. 5½d., 4s. 6d., nil, 4s. 3½d.

January-March—4s. 3d., 4s. 3½d., 4s. 4d., 4s. 6½d., 4s. 5d., 4s. 2d.

April-June—4s., 4s. 0½d., 4s. 0½d., 2s. 3d., 4s. 2d., 3s. 10½d.

July-December—3s 8d., 3s. 7d., nil, nil, nil, 3s. 6½d.

The last figure is Thursday's closing price.

It will be seen that, although the best prices were not generally maintained at the finish, substantial advances occurred. A fair amount of profit-taking by speculators was in evidence during the afternoon. American and Continental buying was again reported, more especially for distant positions, business being done for 1927 delivery at 3s., with 1928 worth 2s. 6d.

It is interesting to note that the highest price for plantation rubber during 1924 was that of 1s. 8d. in December last, the lowest being 9½d. in May.

LATE NEWS.

QUEEN ALEXANDRA.

ONE OF THE GREAT THREE.

In a leading article The Times observes:—The death, at the age of 80, of a lady who never possessed nor desired to possess political power, may seem in one sense an event of merely private interest. Though the death of a Queen, it has no effect on the present condition or the future prospects of public affairs. Yet the whole people of this island, the whole of those who speak the English language, and many who do not throughout the British Empire, and even outside it, will be moved, many of them to tears, at the coming to an end of a reign of affection which has lasted for over sixty years. The change in the political powers of the English Monarchy since the days of Elizabeth, and even of George III., is obvious enough. What is not at first sight so obvious is the extraordinary change which has taken place in the position of the Royal Family in the minds of the people.

Between Elizabeth and Victoria there was no Sovereign in whom the people took much interest, except as the holder of power. Still less was there ever a Queen Consort or a Princess of Wales who, even in the lifetime of her husband, won any particular affection or even attention, and such attention as was paid to those who survived their husbands was not as a rule of a flattering sort. But Queen Victoria, assisted by her children, introduced an entirely new relation between the Royal Family and the people. Long before the end of her reign the humblest of her subjects felt that, if they did not belong to the Royal Family, yet the Royal Family belonged to them. Its concerns were their concerns; each birth and marriage, and death, in its record, was studied in a million cottages, not as an event of possible political importance, but as something belonging to those who read it—a piece of sad or happy family news.

The nation offers the King its loyal and heartfelt sympathy in his sorrow. It has been happy for him that, in the performance of his high and difficult task, he has had the great examples of his father and mother, and of Queen Victoria, to inspire him. The duties of an actual Sovereign it never, of course, fell to his mother to perform. But, with Queen Victoria and King Edward, she made one of the great three who transformed the position of the English Monarchy, and gave it a new place in the life and the hearts of the people. She had neither the ability nor the industry required for the great Queen's life of continual reading and writing day after day, year after year, of political letters and papers. Nor had she the gifts of memory and of a peculiar kind of mental activity which enabled her husband to glean information of all sorts wherever he went, and, in particular, to discuss the ever-changing European situation with the statesmen and great personages of every country in Europe. To these tasks she was not called, and in them she took no share. It was another part of their duties into which she threw herself from the first, and in that her contribution was not less than theirs.

Nations live partly by their imagination, and imagination always personifies. The result of that is that everywhere in the British Empire the political imagination is fixed on the Crown. Queen Alexandra was an ideal representative of the majesty which makes the Empire conscious of its life and unity; and that unity is not a thing of the imagination only. It is a thing also of the heart. No one played a greater part in this best of unities, because nobody inspired more universal love, than the great lady whose loss we mourn to-day.

GUNMEN SEIZE STORE OF LIQUOR.

RAID ON NOVA SCOTIA CUSTOMS HOUSE.

A number of men to-day "held up" the Customs House here at the point of the gun and escaped with 100 cases and fifty kegs of liquor. The men entered the town with three lorries and three touring cars. They cut the fire bell wire to prevent the alarm from being sounded, and after loading up their lorries drove off in the direction of New Brunswick.—(Reuter.)

ROUNDING-UP THE COMMUNISTS.

ARRESTS AND DISCOVERIES BY FINNISH POLICE.

IRISH TIMES FOREIGN SERVICE.
FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.

HELSINGFORS, Friday.

As a result of the revival of underground Communist propaganda directed from Moscow, numerous arrests of Finnish Communists have been made recently by the local authorities. An employé of the Russian Consulate at Viborg, Henrik Valk, was lately arrested for military espionage and deported to Russia. Papers found on him indicated that he was working with other spies. The persons held at Viborg include six Communist agitators, and it was found that a channel of communication with Russia existed. Within the last few days more than thirty arrests have been made, about half of them in Helsingfors.

The most important discovery was compromising papers at the dwellings of two Communists, which included a report of an extensive system of military espionage. The police also found a quantity of secret propaganda, literature and reports on the activities of Communist groups in various industrial works.

All the persons arrested are members of the Socialist Young Peoples' Association, and when the trials take place the court will be asked to dissolve the Association as a treasonable body.

SUBMARINE VOLCANIC DISTURBANCE.

CAUSE OF DISASTER AT MEXICAN PORT.

MEXICO CITY, Friday.

Reports from the neighbourhood of Zihuataseio, a small Pacific coast port in the State of Guerrero, which was overwhelmed by a tidal wave last Tuesday, describe the terrible fate which overtook the inhabitants when a tidal wave, 35 feet high, submerged the town for two hours. No estimate of the number of deaths is available.

The disaster is attributed to some submarine volcanic disturbance.—(Reuter.)

GERMAN TRADE RELATIONS

COMMERCIAL AGREEMENT WITH SPAIN.

BERLIN, Friday.

The Reichstag reassembled to-day and discussed the Germano-Italian commercial agreement. The trade war between Germany and Spain has come to an end by the conclusion in Madrid of a six months' provisional trade agreement, whereby both Germany and Spain annul the prohibitive duties on their respective imports imposed recently.—(Reuter.)

NEW BRITISH AGRICULTURAL POLICY.

STATEMENT BY COLONEL GUINNESS.

Colonel Walter Guinness, Minister of Agriculture, Conservative, and Mr. George Nicholls, Liberal, were nominated yesterday for the Bury St. Edmund's Division. In his election address, Colonel Guinness says that if returned he hopes to be able shortly to announce a policy on which his predecessor had been working, designed to increase agricultural production by assisting the various interests concerned.

There will be a meeting at the House of Lords on Monday at 4.15 p.m., in order to give an opportunity for the Peers to record their deep sense of the loss the country has sustained in the death of the Queen-Mother.

Owing to Queen Alexandra's death, the Duke of Rutland's hounds, the Belvoir Hunt, will not meet again until after the funeral.

BOUNDARY REPORT.

PRESIDENT AND MR. O'HIGGINS TO GO TO LONDON.

A CONFERENCE.

DISCUSSION ONLY ON QUESTIONS OF DETAIL.

FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.

LONDON, Friday.

That the publication of the Boundary Commission's report and recommendations will not be delayed much longer seems to be indicated in a communication which has been received by the British and Irish Free State Governments respectively.

The purport of the communication is a request to both Governments to send representatives to confer with the Commissioners on certain matters of detail.

These matters, it should be stated, have no bearing upon the Free State Government's attitude on Article 12 of the Treaty, and the views expressed by President Cosgrave in the Dail on Thursday last.

The question of delivery of the report and recommendations, and the disposal and custody of the vast quantity of data, documents and evidence which have been collected by the Commission during its deliberations are the matters which are to be discussed.

It is expected that President Cosgrave, Mr. Kevin O'Higgins, Minister for Justice, and possibly another Minister will form the Free State representation at the Conference, which will meet during the next few days.

Both Governments have intimated their desire that the Commission's report should be presented before the end of the year.

MONAGHAN'S PLEDGE.

TO RESIST DISMEMBERMENT.

The Monaghan County Council, at a special meeting in Ballybay yesterday, adopted a resolution pledging resistance to any attempt "to dismember our county as well as Donegal and to bind in perpetual bondage, in defiance of the wishes of the inhabitants large areas of Down, Armagh, Tyrone, Fermanagh and Derry. We call upon the President and the Executive Council to take their stand with us and with the people, and show the forces hostile to us that the people and the Government will never acquiesce in the refusal of the heart's desire of our people or in the disregard of their economic interest and the ignoring of geographical relations."

Mr. James Johnston, on behalf of the Republican Party, said that he would take no part in the discussion, as his party recognised no boundary except the four shores of Ireland.

In moving the resolution, Senator Thomas Toal, the Chairman, said that he always took the stand that the Boundary Commission had no right to interfere with Free State territory, and, as their representative, he intended to resist to the utmost any attempt to interfere with the boundaries of County Monaghan or the boundaries of County Donegal, or any other Free State territory.

Mr. P. Loughran, in seconding the resolution, said that not one sod of Free State territory should be given away.

Mr. McCauiskey, as one who lived near the border, said that a new industry that had been started in his district would be wiped out if the contemplated changes took place. He announced that a public meeting would take place in Emyvale on Sunday next, which would be addressed by the Minister for Finance.

Colonel Madden said that he did not understand why this resolution was proposed. There had been a lot of statements in the Press about changes in the border, but they were merely rumours.

Messrs. P. Conlan, Patrick Duffy, T.D., and Thomas Mohan also supported the resolution, which was carried unanimously.

THE TEACHING OF IRISH.

A resolution introduced by Mr. Carson to abolish the rate of ½d. in the £ for the teaching of Irish was withdrawn after an amendment had been proposed in Irish by Mr. McHugh, and seconded by Mr. O'Gorman in the same tongue.

"WINNING THROUGH."

NORTHERN M.P.'S CONFIDENCE.

Mr. William Grant, M.P., speaking in Belfast yesterday afternoon, said that the question was often asked as to what was the use of keeping alive the Unionist Association when no elections were on. They might as well ask what was the use of keeping up their Army and their Navy. Unless they had a fighting force they could not combat the enemy without, and it was their duty to see that their loyal organisations were kept up in Ulster.

As an evidence of this, he would like to point out that the Prime Minister and others were at present in London waiting to see the result of the Boundary Commission. On that Commission were possibly the three most miserable men in the world. They were in the position of State assessors, and did not know where they were.

But, added the speaker, we have no reason to be pessimistic about the Boundary Commission. We may be quite small, but we have won through. We have our heart in it, and we will win through again whenever the report is presented. (Applause.)

GERMAN SHIP REFLOATED.

TAKEN TO DUBLIN FOR REPAIR.

The Hamburg, a German freight ship, which ran aground on Burford Bank sands in Dublin Bay on Thursday, 29th of October, was re-floated yesterday and towed into the River Liffey to Alexandra Basin for repairs.

The Hamburg was on a voyage from Melbourne to Cork with 2,600 tons of wheat when she was driven off her course during a gale. The captain (Hans Volquardsen) and the crew of forty-five were rescued by the Kingstown Lifeboat and brought to Dublin, where they were taken charge of by the Seamen's Institute. They returned to the ship on the following day.

The cargo was transferred to another steamer and taken to its destination.

GERMANY AND THE LOCARNO PACT.

GENERAL LUDENDORFF'S HEART ACHING.

CABINET TO RESIGN AFTER RATIFICATION.

BERLIN, Friday.

The debate on the Locarno Pact will be opened on Monday with a speech by Dr. Luther, the Chancellor, and it is expected to last the whole week. All the parties, with the exception of the majority of the German Nationalists, the Communists and the Extreme Nationalists, will vote for the Treaty. So soon as it has been signed in London it is Dr. Luther's intention to lay the resignation of the entire Cabinet before the President. It is not clear at present on what basis the new Government will be formed, but the most likely possibility is that it will be composed of representatives of all parties from the Socialists' to the People's Party on the lines of the big coalition which existed a couple of years ago under Dr. Marx. Whether Dr. Luther will again be Chancellor is uncertain, for he is opposed by the Socialists.

SHAME AND SERVITUDE.

In an article in an extreme Nationalist Bavarian newspaper, General Ludendorff makes a bitter attack upon Field-Marshal von Hindenburg because the latter approves of the Locarno Pact. "I once shared honour and fame with Field-Marshal von Hindenburg," he writes, "and may even say that I contributed to increase his renown. To-day my German heart aches to see how the Field-Marshal is about to sacrifice his fame by putting his name to a document of shame and dishonour. Let him rather resign his post than renounce the glory of his past. That is the German way. It would be still more so if the Field-Marshal took up the fight against this Treaty of shame and servitude. We expect President Hindenburg not to sign, but to fight."—(Reuter.)

MR. CHAMBERLAIN ENTERTAINED.

Mr. Chamberlain was the guest at dinner in London last night of a non-party gathering, as a tribute to his services at Locarno. At the suggestion of Mr. T. P. O'Connor, who presided, the company drank the toast of "The King" in silence, as a mark of their sympathy with His Majesty in his bereavement.

Mr. O'Connor described the guest as a great and typical Englishman, whose word was his bond. In reply, Mr. Chamberlain said that he admitted he was surprised in the first moment by the universal recognition of what the Locarno Conference meant to the world. None who were at Locarno, however high they placed their success, supposed that they had overcome all difficulties, and that henceforth the road was smooth. There would be disappointment and constant tendency for suspicion to re-appear, but he prayed for good-will and the determination to avoid offence.

OBITUARY.

MR. W. E. NORRIS.

The Times announces that Mr. W. E. Norris, the novelist, died on Thursday at Torquay, where he had lived for many years, at the age of 78. For nearly fifty years he had written a steady flow of novels, which, with few exceptions, maintain a high level both of plan and of execution within the definite limits which he set himself. He was essentially a novelist of manners, who may well be compared to some of the writers of the generation immediately preceding his own. He was deliberate in his descriptions, and in the unfolding of his plots he had a keen instinct for balance in the distribution of his characters, a light ironic wit, which was pointed, but seldom caustic, and a happy pleasure in all the friendly foibles and characteristics, the social nuances of English life, particularly of that English country life which he lived to see so greatly changed.

MR. S. ROBINSON.

Mr. Samuel Robinson, head of the firm of Messrs Robinson Brothers, stationers, bookbinders and lithographers, 25 Donegall street, Belfast, died yesterday at his residence, 3 Fortwilliam terrace, Antrim road, in his seventy-third year. Mr. Robinson was an enthusiastic amateur of music, an earnest Churchman, and an active member of the Masonic Order.

BELFAST SEDITION CHARGE.

LABOUR SPEAKER SENT FOR TRIAL.

Samuel Patterson, Wyndham street, Belfast, appeared in the Belfast Custody Court yesterday on a charge of sedition and inciting to violence.

Constable Elmslie gave evidence describing how he attended what was described as a meeting of the Court Ward Labour Party at Carlisle Circus on 13th November. The chairman was a Mr. George M'Bride, and among the speakers was the defendant. There were about 150 persons present in the crowd at the meeting, and at the termination of Patterson's speech the witness took a note of the leading heads in longhand, and afterwards wrote out what he remembered more fully from his note.

The constable then gave an account of the defendant's speech, in which he referred to "sham parades in Belfast and elsewhere on Armistice Day in memory of the fallen would-be heroes." He asked why they could not overthrow the Government by the act of the rifle, revolver and bomb, and said that constitutional methods would take fifty years, but the method that he had told them of would take twelve months.

At the close of his speech he said:—"I think I have placed my views very forcibly before you and have tried to raise discontent among you. An empty-handed mob is no good. Band yourselves together and free yourselves from slavery."

Answering Mr. Bernard Campbell, for the accused, the witness said that the speech contained in his deposition was as near as possible word for word with what was uttered. It was quite possible that his deposition was not exactly word for word with what was contained in his information.

Sergeant Armstrong said that he was at the meeting, and heard the accused speaking. He made longhand notes of the speech, and shortly after saw Constable Elmslie's report, and his account of defendant's speech was substantially accurate.

Replying to Mr. Campbell, the witness said that the vital points of the speech as given were word for word.

Mr. Campbell, who pleaded not guilty, said that the speech was simply the usual type of Labour speech that were heard. He urged that bail be granted, and said that two Ulster M.P.'s were in court who were prepared to act as sureties.

The Crown opposed bail, and Mr. W. J. Hardy, R.M., said that the accused would be returned for trial at the next Commission, bail being refused.

MISS JEAN NOLAN'S RECITAL.

Miss Jean Nolan, an artist whose singing is too seldom heard in Dublin, announces a recital at the Engineers' Hall, Dawson street, on the evening of Wednesday, December 2nd, at 8.15. Since her last recital in Dublin, Miss Nolan has made a very successful tour of the United States, and the critics in New York and Boston have spoken with enthusiasm of her versatility and her interpretative powers. The programme of her forthcoming recital will include a number of the songs which she sang during her American tour, as well as others, new and old. Dr. George H. Hewson will be at the piano.

"THE IRISH MOTHER'S FRIEND"

DEATH OF QUEEN ALEXANDRA.

dringham, visiting Copenhagen in the winter. The re-union was a specially happy event in her life, as also was the coming of age of her greatly beloved eldest son on January 8, 1885, the day being celebrated in simple, homely fashion at Sandringham. Then and afterwards, both in Norfolk and in London, she was upon all occasions received with emphatic demonstrations of loyalty and affection.

These manifestations were the more remarkable since they were invariably spontaneous, and in no instances more so than during the celebration of Queen Victoria's Jubilee in June, 1887, when the Princess fulfilled an unusually large number of social engagements. The occurrence of her "Silver Wedding" in 1888 afforded another eagerly utilised opportunity of giving full expression to popular sentiment. When on March 10 of that year London made holiday, but one feeling animated its people — that of genuine personal attachment to their future Queen. Fitting tribute was tendered by the Colonies, as well as by the home countries, and it was a matter of common congratulation that the day found the Royal circle unbroken; that five sons and daughters had grown up to call the Princess blessed.

YEARS OF SORROW.

On May 17, 1891, her first grandchild, Lady Alexandra Duff, was born. But the joy created by that event was turned into the deepest mourning a year later by the death of Prince Albert Victor, who had always been especially dear to his mother's heart. For nearly eighteen months she remained in seclusion, and the country realised fully how important had been the part which she had played in social and general public life. Another bitter sorrow followed in the autumn of 1898. While on board the "Osborne" at Cowes, in attendance upon her husband, then recovering from a serious injury to his knee, suffered at Baron Ferdinand de Rothschild's house, news arrived that her beloved mother had been stricken by a grave illness.

She at once hastened to Copenhagen, and there watched by the sufferer's bedside with devoted solicitude, remaining at her post upon one occasion for sixteen hours without intermission. The aged Queen of Denmark passed away on September 29, leaving her daughter prostrated with grief. It has been said of Queen Alexandra that she never sought to gain favour in her adopted country by neglecting her fatherland, and that the dual relationship was maintained with so much tact and consideration that no jealousy or discontent ever arose on either side. At the time of her mother's and at that of her father's death in after days, all England shared in her mourning, knowing how closely knit in ties of natural affection were the members of the Royal House, and acknowledging that throughout her life she had played a noble part as the daughter both of England and of Denmark.

HOME LIFE.

The home life of Queen Alexandra until the accession of King Edward is well within public recollection and needs no detailed description. With the exception of autumn sojourns at Abergeldie Castle in the days gone by, it was divided between Marlborough House and Sandringham Hall, where the Christmas season was always kept in traditional fashion and where not a few family anniversaries were observed. Owing to various circumstances, these family gatherings were at times restricted, but they were always looked forward to and always prized. Queen Alexandra, as her children and her guests well knew, had a genius for the making of a home, and never was happier than when contributing to the happiness of others.

Throughout her life, both as Princess of Wales and as Queen, she was ever ready to promote the work of philanthropic agencies, especially hospitals, participating with special activity in the efforts made to succour the wounded soldiers and to support the widows and orphans of those who fell in the South African War. Her influence procured the equipment of the Princess of Wales hospital ship; her presidentship of the Soldiers' and Sailors' Families' Association resulted in the subscription of considerable funds, while under her immediate personal supervision a home for convalescent officers was provided at Babingley, on the Sandringham estate.

Her sympathy with the sick and suffering was the source of that deep interest which she always took in the application of modern scientific methods to the treatment of disease. During the Diamond Jubilee celebrations, in which she bore her part with characteristic grace and tact, further proof of an instinctive and ruling kindliness of disposition appeared in her suggestion that dinner should be provided on the occasion for the destitute poor.

These, and countless other acts of similar kind, so unostentatiously performed, so obviously the natural outcome of a generous and compassionate nature, constrained the sincere admiration and affection of all classes, who, on their part, never failed, when opportunity offered, to give unmistakable expression to their feelings.

AS QUEEN CONSORT.

THE SHADOW FALLS.

Upon the accession of King Edward VII., in January, 1901, Queen Alexandra assumed her new position with the quiet dignity and simplicity that had marked the whole previous course of her life. It has been observed that the Royal Consorts of modern Europe, each in her time and according to differences of race, education and temperament, have had their own manner of understanding the métier de reine, yet have been guided by the same predominant sentiment—namely the sense of duty. Never was it more highly developed than in the case of Queen Alexandra. That discursive, yet shrewd, Court raconteur, Mdlle. Helène Vacaresco, in a sketch written about the time of her late Majesty's coronation, pointed out that she had studied Queen Victoria's genius and steady judgment, that she had "analysed the essence of those admirable qualities which created such a link between the Sovereign and the nation, and thus resolved to be in her turn a beloved Queen, to win popularity by other means, but as sure and numerous as her illustrious predecessor's.

"She has well understood and avoided the danger of seeking to resemble one whose situation was so different from that of a Queen Consort. She has taken up a rôle which she has made her own. She has changed virtue into grace, and made grace a virtue. Everything the Queen thinks, wears and says bears the seal of originality and perfection." That England was intensely proud of Queen Alexandra was a fact abundantly demonstrated upon the occasion when she accompanied King Edward to Westminster to open the first Parliament of his reign. The spectacle was then unfamiliar in London.

The State coach had not been seen in the public streets since 1861, when Queen Victoria and the Prince Consort had taken part in a similar ceremony. But it was the Queen's personality rather than the pageant that stirred the enthusiasm of vast numbers, and to her a full share of the historic royal welcome belonged. She strove to show her appreciation of the universally kindly feelings entertained towards her by many acts of thoughtful consideration, one of which afforded no little gratification to those of Irish nationality.

On St. Patrick's Day, 1901, the first since the formation of the Irish Guards Regiment, she sent its Colonel four boxes of shamrock to be distributed to the men on parade, and the incident was rightly regarded as indicative of the genuine liking for Ireland which she entertained in common with the late King, and had freely expressed during her visits to this country. The Queen was ready also to please her humbler subjects in London and elsewhere, and indulged their desire to see her by making more than one progress among them, the happiest recollections of which remain. Darkness fell upon all the splendour of those early days of the reign when King Edward was stricken down upon the very eve of his "sacring." The Queen endured her terrible trial with a heroic fortitude that excited the sympathy and admiration of the nation.

SECRET OF POPULARITY.

When the shadow had passed and the deferred ceremony took place in Westminster Abbey on August 9, 1902, she was again a central figure upon a memorable occasion, manifestly happy in her great relief from anxiety, though still bearing traces of suffering. The demeanour of all orders of the people, both at that time and afterwards, afforded her sufficient evidence that no other Queen of England ever held quite the same place in their loyal respect and affection. She well understood the popular feeling, which she greatly valued and fully reciprocated, expressing herself upon one occasion in such ingenuous terms as these:—"The King knows how to make himself beloved. He understands and cherishes the nation. But if they love me, it is only because they are so good and true. There are Princesses and reigning Queens, are there not? who ever feel themselves strangers in the lands that become theirs by marriage. I have never known this feeling, not one single moment, and now I never succeed in discerning that I am not born here; it seems to me as if even my childhood had been spent here, and even when I am away from this land I am not absent. I am here, and I am in every corner of England, as if I belonged to this land entirely. The people are so good. They partake all our joys and sorrows, and their joys and sorrows are ours."

From the days of the Queen's early married life, when she, an inexperienced girl of nineteen, was placed under then existing circumstances virtually at the head of English society, the gift of faultless tact had been one of her most conspicuous qualities. Its exercise, constantly demanded during the long-succeeding years of Queen Victoria's reign, had served to smooth away many a difficulty, and being the fruit of a kindly spirit, not of any acquired training, it never failed. The charm of that inestimable attribute was felt even still more when she became the centre of the Court circle and gathered around her all that was best and noblest in the social life of the time.

At the close of 1904 Prince Charles of Denmark had been elected King of Norway by the Storthing, taking the historic name of Haakon VII., and had entered Copenhagen with his wife, Queen Maud, her youngest daughter, with their little son, her much-loved grandchild, Prince Olaf. Her father, King Christian IX., to whom she clung with still greater affection since the death of her mother, had passed away in January, 1906. These and other family bereavements were present to the minds of all who, in 1907, saw her in Dublin for what was to be the last time.

THE CROWNING SORROW.

But the supreme sorrow of Queen Alexandra's life came suddenly and unexpectedly with the death of King Edward in May, 1910. Thoroughly understanding how crushing was the blow, the whole community lamented for her, as well as for their deceased Sovereign. Profound and universal sympathy was felt with the Royal Family, but especially with the Queen, and the reverent crowds that thronged the neighbourhood of Buckingham Palace and Marlborough House, endeavoured to convey to the stricken Queen, as well as might be, the common feeling that inspired them.

THE NEWS IN CANADA.

OTTAWA, Friday.

The news of the death of Queen Alexandra has caused widespread sorrow in Canada. Flags were flown at half-mast over all public and many other buildings. Messages of condolence with the Royal Family and the whole British people have been sent by Lord Byng, the Governor-General, and Mr. Mackenzie-King, the Prime Minister.—(Reuter.)

In a letter written on May 10, she acknowledged such mute, yet eloquent condolences as these by saying: "From the depth of my poor broken heart, I wish to express to the whole nation and our kind people we love so well, my deep-felt thanks for all their touching sympathy in my overwhelming sorrow and unspeakable anguish. Give me a thought in your prayers which will comfort and sustain me in all I still have to go through." The Queen attended the removal of King Edward's body to Westminster Hall on May 16, and the funeral at Windsor on the 20th, taking her place in the first carriage with her sister, the Empress Marie of Russia, and her daughters, the Princess Royal and Princess Victoria. The pathetic figure clad in widow's mourning deeply moved the populace of London. No sadder procession had ever passed through the streets of the British capital.

When the necessary changes in the Book of Common Prayer were announced, the substitution of the term "Queen Mother" for "Queen Dowager" was noted with general satisfaction. It had been used of Mary (Henrietta Maria), the widow the Charles I., but "Adelaide, the Queen Dowager," widow of William IV. and the last Queen Dowager publicly prayed for, had not been the mother of the reigning Sovereign. From the moment of King Edward's death, Queen Alexandra occupied, if possible, a still higher place in the respect and affection of the people of England, who took marked advantage of every opportunity that occurred during the remainder of her life to accentuate their regard for her person and their abiding admiration of her lofty character. For long she sought solace in the strictest seclusion, finding comfort in the frequent visits of her only remaining son, King George, with other members of the Royal House, whose devotion to her during the darkest days of her life and afterwards was constant.

ASSOCIATIONS WITH IRELAND.

Queen Alexandra's association with Ireland was of an invariably happy character. It dates back to the year 1868, when, as Princess of Wales, she accompanied the Heir to the Throne (afterwards King Edward VII.) on a State visit to Ireland of a week's duration. On their arrival in the Irish capital on April 15th, 1868, Their Royal Highnesses were accorded a cordial popular reception, being greeted with enthusiastic cheers as they drove through the streets of the city. On April 16th, the Prince and Princess of Wales visited the Punchestown Races, and were again the centre of a series of enthusiastic demonstrations. Two days later Her Royal Highness was present in St. Patrick's Cathedral, when the Prince of Wales was installed as a Knight of the Most Illustrious Order of St. Patrick, by His Excellency the Marquis of Abercorn, K.G., Grand Master of the Order. Several members of the Royal Family, including the late Duke of Cambridge, were among the distinguished company at the function, which was attended by a great gathering of the nobility and gentry of Ireland. On April 24th the Prince and Princess of Wales, whose visit had proved a most enjoyable one, took their departure from Dublin.

The late Queen Alexandra renewed the pleasing impression which she had made in this country by another visit to Dublin, in company with the Prince of Wales, in 1885. The Channel Fleet arrived at Kingstown on April 7th, 1885, and on the following day Their Royal Highnesses made their State entry into Dublin, and were cordially received by the people. The chief events of the two following days comprised a Levée at the Castle, and a series of public functions. The Princess of Wales visited Alexandra College, to which she gave her name, and in which ever afterwards, she took a keen interest. The Princess also held a Drawing Room at Dublin Castle during her visit. Despite the many exciting political events of the period—it was at the height of the Parnell agitation, during the brief Viceroyalty of the Earl of Carnarvon—the visit was not marred by any incident of an unpleasant character, Their Royal Highnesses being everywhere received with expressions of good-will. The degree of Doctor of Music was conferred upon the Princess of Wales by the Royal (now the National) University.

HER VISIT AS QUEEN.

When King Edward ascended the Throne, His Majesty, accompanied by Queen Alexandra, paid a Royal visit to Ireland in July, 1903. Queen Alexandra honoured Alexandra College with a second visit, and displayed a lively satisfaction at the progress that it had made. The streets of Dublin were illuminated at night in honour of the Royal visit. On the 22nd of July Her Majesty presented badges to the Jubilee Nurses in St. Patrick's Hall, Dublin Castle. A review of troops was held by King Edward in the Phœnix Park on the following day, and subsequently the King and Queen held a Court at Dublin Castle.

On July 24th, Queen Alexandra visited the Hospice for the Dying, Harold's Cross, and the Hospital for Incurables, Donnybrook, and afterwards Their Majesties paid a visit to St. Patrick's College, Maynooth, where they received an address. Subsequently Their Majesties visited Belfast, Londonderry, Galway and Cork, and on August 1st they re-embarked for England on the Royal yacht at Queenstown.

On April 26, 1904, King Edward and Queen Alexandra again visited Ireland, and in Dublin they were presented with addresses from the principal public bodies in the country. After the Dublin visit Their Majesties went to Kilkenny on April 30th and May 1st, and to Waterford and Lismore on May 2nd. On May 3rd the King and Queen travelled from Lismore to Kingstown, where they embarked for Holyhead.

The last visit of Queen Alexandra to Ireland took place in 1907, on the occasion of the International Exhibition at Ballsbridge. King Edward and Princess Victoria, accompanied Queen Alexandra, and the visit occupied two days. The personal popularity of Queen Alexandra was evident everywhere she went, and all classes gave her hearty greetings.

Her Majesty of late spent the greater part of the year in the charming Royal residence with which Parliament had provided her at Sandringham Hall, Norfolk. In London, where her residence was Marlborough House, Pall Mall, she always was received with enthusiasm. Her Danish nationality tended rather to enhance her popularity during the period of the European War, when King George signed a proclamation (July 17, 1917), under which the Royal Family assumed the style of "The House and Family of Windsor," and all German dignities, titles and honours were relinquished by royalty.

In Ireland the pleasant memories of several Royal visits and her many graceful tributes to the bravery of the Irish soldiers kept her name in fragrant remembrance.

"ROSE DAY."

The eightieth birthday of Queen Alexandra, who was born on December 1, 1844, evoked a remarkable tribute of affection not only from the British Press and public, but from the Irish people, and throughout the Continent of Europe. The many events of her career as Princess and as Queen were recalled affectionately, and Sandringham, where she passed the day with other members of the Royal family, was inundated with telegrams of congratulation. Tributes paid to her by all the leading men of her day, including Disraeli and Gladstone, were called, and there were ample evidences that she retained an ever-growing measure of attachment.

The late Queen's name will always be associated in the public mind with "Rose Day," also generally known as "The Alexandra Day"—an institution, from which the hospitals benefited to the extent of many thousands of pounds. Queen Alexandra's love of flowers was well known, and the people made "Alexandra Day" a pretty tribute to her popularity by buying and wearing the beautiful flowers, knowing that the proceeds of the sale would go to an object which she had always near at heart.

SOME TRIBUTES.

LORD MAYOR OF BELFAST:—The citizens of Belfast have heard with profound sorrow of the passing of Queen Alexandra, who, as wife, mother, and Queen, set an example to the whole world. They respectfully tender to Their Majesties the King and Queen and members of the Royal Family deepest sympathy in their irreparable loss.

LORD MAYOR OF LONDON:—On behalf of the citizens of London I beg Your Majesty to accept their profound sympathy and condolence on the death of your illustrious mother, Queen Alexandra. Her Majesty has been loved and deeply revered from her marriage, sixty-two years ago, until now, and her passing away not only removes a much-respected and universally popular personality, but severs a link with the past, which will be greatly deplored.

MR. W. JOYNSON-HICKS, M.P., the Home Secretary:—The hearts of those who remembered the days of King Edward, when Queen Alexandra was the beloved of the whole nation, could not but feel sad that the time has come for her to go to another land. He felt that he could not make an ordinary political attack upon his opponents that night, and the spirit of party politics was more or less hushed by the national loss.

THE QUEEN'S DOCTORS.

MR. FREDERIC JEUNE WILLIAMS, M.V.O., who was appointed last year surgeon-apothecary to Queen Alexandra, and to the King's Household at Sandringham, is the son of the late Dr. W. Blundell Willans, of Much Hadham, Herts. He married a daughter of the late Sir Alan Manby, K.C.V.O., who was his predecessor in attendance on King Edward and Queen Alexandra for many years. Mr. Willans studied at Durham University and the London Hospital, and took his diplomas of M.R.C.S. and L.R.C.P. in 1910.

SIR THOMAS JEEVES HORDER, K.C.V.O., has been for the past two years Physician in Ordinary to the Prince of Wales. He studied at the University of London and St. Bartholomew's Hospital. He is Chairman of the Executive Federation of Medical Services, and a member of the executive in the British Empire Cancer Campaign. He is the author of standard treatises on clinical pathology, cerebro-spinal fever, and medical diagnosis generally.

BRITISH RED CROSS IN IRELAND.

WORK FOR IRISH EX-SERVICE MEN.

Red Cross workers from all parts of the Free State who have been assisting Irish ex-Service men and their families continuously since 1916, were present at a conference held at 40 Merrion square, Dublin, on Tuesday last. Mr. Walter Sexton, C.B.E., Chairman of the Emergency Help Committees for Southern Ireland, presided. Mr. E. J. Wright, O.B.E., Secretary, Joint Committee of the British Red Cross Society and Order of St. John Emergency Help Committee, London, was present and addressed the delegates.

Sir John Lumsden, on behalf of the Joint Committee, thanked the delegates for the excellent work they were doing on behalf of the broken and sick ex-Service men. In introducing Mr. Wright, he spoke of the sympathetic manner in which all applications from Southern Ireland were treated at headquarters.

Addressing the conference Mr. Wright explained the origin and nature of the scheme, and outlined the clauses under which cases could be assisted. He said that the work would probably be continued for some years to come, and pointed out that much work had been and was still being done by the Emergency Help Committee for ex-Service men and their dependents. He realised that the chief difficulty was the enormous number of claims for assistance sought as the result of unemployment. This class of distress, however, was quite outside the scope of the Committee, who were the trustees of the fund for the benefit of broken and disabled ex-Service men suffering from war disabilities.

VOLUNTARY WORKERS REQUIRED.

The Chairman said that he hoped that as a result of the meeting more helpers would be obtained in outlying districts.

Major-General Sir W. B. Hickie thanked the Emergency Help Committee and their voluntary workers on behalf of the British Legion of ex-Service men (Ireland) for the invaluable help rendered to disabled men.

Sir John Lumsden asked the workers to remember the existence of the Central Benevolent Committee, to which any doubtful cases should be referred for investigation.

Among those present were:—Mr. E. J. Wright, O.B.E., Secretary, Joint Council British Red Cross Society and Order of St. John Emergency Help Committee, London; Sir John Lumsden, Mr. W. G. Fallon, B.L.; Mr. E. L. Phillips, Miss Farran, Mrs. Vere O'Brien, Mrs. Doherty, Miss Gubbins, Mrs. Beale, Miss Harrington, Miss Perry, Mrs. Rutherford, Mrs. Hayes, Lady Nash, Mrs. Thornhill, Mr. Allan P. Swan, Mrs. Nicholson, Rev. J. Jackson, Mrs. FitzGerald Beale, Mrs. A. Odlum, Captain Graham Toler, Captain Knox, Miss McAdoo, Mrs. Gough Dower, Mrs. Telford, Miss Dennis, Miss E. C. Le Fanu, Miss Tottenham, Major-General Sir William Hickie, representing the British Legion; Mr. M. J. Nolan, representing the United Services Fund; Miss E. F. Blandford, Miss M. R. Scott, Joint Secretaries; Miss Stuart, Miss M. A. Nicholson, Miss Place and Miss Kane.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

COMPULSORY IRISH.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE IRISH TIMES.

SIR,—Two ideals are set before the Irish people at present. One is that Ireland, as one of the parent white races which now dominate the world, should claim her place in the British Empire, with all its rights and privileges and influence; the other is that she should be as self-centred as possible, and cut herself off from the Empire by her form of government, her language, her culture, and so forth. The first ideal may be termed imperialism; the second is Dr. MacNeill's "intensive nationalism." The result of this latter policy is already only too apparent in the twenty-six counties. We have no longer a voice in the affairs of the Imperial Parliament. We count for nothing in the international affairs of the world. The departure of the imperial forces has left behind them in many places a dreary waste. Increasing poverty and vulgarity are apparent everywhere.

The only thing, as far as I can learn, which can be called intensively national is the ancient Irish language; therefore, it is seized upon by the so-called Irish-Irelanders and rammed down our children's throats. I want to speak on this subject reasonably and dispassionately. I think the educational authorities have made it plain enough that their object is to put out English and to substitute Irish as the national or vernacular language of this country. Do the Irish people approve of this policy? I am satisfied that the vast majority of them do not. Of course, we all know that it is impossible of achievement for us grown-ups; but do we desire it for our children? Mind that the question is not one of teaching Irish in the schools. No one objects to that in moderation. It is whether our children are to be educated to speak Irish rather than English. Parents should miss no time or opportunity in letting their wishes be known. Do they want their children to be so educated that they can hope to be able to fill an honourable position in any part of the British Empire, or to be so educated that they cannot expect such a position outside the shores of Ireland? A plebiscite of the parents was taken in my own parish. I had nothing to do with it, and it was well known that I favoured the teaching of Irish in our schools. Every single parent voted against Irish. Yet these parents are told that the object of the Free State authorities is to ensure that their grandchildren, at least, will speak Irish as their mother tongue.

It would be easy to enumerate the many and serious disabilities under which our children would labour were Dr. MacNeill's policy to succeed. One has only to visit the Irish-speaking districts to see them. There the great object of the people is to have their children educated to speak English, not Irish, so that they may have some chance of bettering their condition in life. And what is to be said in favour of the policy? Mere sentiment! Irish was spoken by our forefathers; therefore, we should speak it too. We might argue with equal force that, as our forefathers gave up Irish for English, we should do the same. I remember when we cut our corn with a sickle and threshed it with a flail. Will a modern farmer propose that we now renounce the reaper and binder and the steam threshing machinery for the sickle and flail? This would be harmless sentimentality compared with the reversion to Irish as the language in which our children are to be brought up.

As a matter of fact, the Irish people have been influenced to a very large extent by foreign culture. On what grounds can Dr. MacNeill excuse their giving up their ancient Druidism for Christianity except that Christianity was a better religion? It was just because English was a better all-round language than Irish that our people adopted it. The influence of the Roman Church in Ireland is far greater than that of the Danes or Anglo-Normans ever was. It is an influence which is far too dominating for my taste. Yet I find our Irish-Irelanders among the most submissive to a system which from the beginning introduced a foreign language into our sanctuaries and still bans our native Gaelic from the Liturgy.

There is, I am convinced, no possibility of the Irish-Ireland policy succeeding. We cannot go back on the evolutionary process by which we speak as we do to-day. Modern Greeks have not been able to go back to classical Greek, though patriotic Greeks have tried to bring this about. Modern Italians could not, or would not, revert to classical Latin. Even English speakers could not revive as the vernacular the language of the Bible and Book of Common Prayer which they know so well. But much injury may be done to our children by the attempt to revive what is to them a dead language. Young people when they grow up become very critical of the kind of education which they received when they realise how much their after life depends upon it. Is there not a danger that, if too much of their time and energy is devoted to Irish, they may in after life become the bitterest opponents of the language, especially if it is forced upon them against their own and their parents' wishes?

Once, in County Galway, I saw a man cutting rushes in a swamp. I saluted him in Irish. He rolled out a reply which made me say with envy: "How I wish I could speak Irish like you!" His answer was: "What good did Irish ever do me?" Here is the real point. Parents want their children to succeed in life. Will they be helped, either inside Ireland or outside it, by being taught to speak Irish instead of English as their native language?—Yours, etc.,

THE PRICE OF BREAD.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE IRISH TIMES.

SIR,—Your correspondent "Dubliner" suggests a rather sinister reason to account, in part, for the high price of the Dublin loaf. Can it be possible that his suggestion is true? Is it a fact, as "Economist" says, that the operative bakers in Dublin ask, and receive, 34s. more weekly than like labour in London, and that they work two hours less and do 50 per cent. less work? Does the local union really insist on rules, regulations, hours and conditions which hamper the bakers in the conduct of their businesses, and cause delay, expense and other inconveniences to the public?

Surely this is hardly possible! If so, it means that the bread supply in Dublin is controlled by union officials, and that the master-baker is that in name only. Bakery companies should be made to understand that they ought, as a duty to their customers, to put aside their policy of laisser faire, and to insist on the employment of labour on an economical and business basis, instead of simply passing on extravagant expenses to the poor consumer.—Yours, etc.,

"GLASNEVIN."

FOOT-AND-MOUTH DISEASE.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE IRISH TIMES.

SIR,—I have read many theories as to how foot-and-mouth disease may be carried. So far as I can see, sufficient stress is never laid on the fact that England is more susceptible to infection from other countries than is Ireland. If infected birds, packing, boots, clothing, etc., are responsible for the introduction of the disease to England, in spite of all precautions, surely it is hardly probable that the disease would not be carried to Ireland by the same agency?

There seems, however, to be one possible source of infection which would apply to England to a very much greater extent than to Ireland. I refer to the import of chilled meat from foreign countries. If it is possible for the germ to be carried in chilled meat, I fail to see what steps the British Government could take to render impossible either the importation of infected meat or the prevention of infection from such meat, once imported.

Obviously, foreign birds, etc., should be placed in the same category, but it would seem easier to take precautions in this case than in the case of meat supplied raw to hundreds of thousands of families, since the offal goes to a limited number of factories in bulk. It seems superfluous to mention the effect which proof of the correctness of such a theory would have on our cattle trade. Possibly, some of our scientists could state whether experiments have been made, or could be made, in this direction.—Yours, etc.,

VOTERS' LISTS.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE IRISH TIMES.

SIR,—Many complaints were made during the recent Senate elections from householders and others that their names did not appear on the list of voters. Forms are now being distributed in the city and urban districts for registration purposes, and it is very necessary that every person receiving such forms should see that they are carefully filled in at once and posted to the registration officer for the district.—Yours, etc.,

FRENCH PLIGHT IN SYRIA.

REMARKABLE INDICTMENT

DEALING WITH THE REBELS.

Our own Correspondent at Beirut, in an uncensored message, charges politicians in Paris with responsibility for what he calls the present "mess" in Syria.

He declares that the French troops are insufficient, and that they have not an adequate equipment of tanks, armoured cars, and aeroplanes.

The Christian volunteers, he says, are hopelessly defeated, and Southern Lebanon is at the mercy of the Druses.

On the other hand, a French official statement says that the reports of an alarming situation in Syria are groundless.

SOME FACTS STATED.

AN UNCENSORED MESSAGE.

IRISH TIMES FOREIGN SERVICE.
FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.
(BY SPECIAL COURIER, TO ESCAPE THE CENSORSHIP.)

BEIRUT, Friday.

These are the facts of the present rebellion throughout Syria and the Lebanon, which I must send out from a neighbouring country on account of the censorship and the inefficiency of the French telegraphic service:—

1. The Christian Volunteer Army in the Lebanon is completely defeated. Southern Lebanon is completely at the mercy of the Druses. The French are rushing all available troops southward from Beirut, but they have not sufficient cavalry and armoured cars and tanks, which alone can defeat the mounted enemy.

2. The arming of the Volunteer Christian Army has alarmed the entire Mohammedan population, adding great danger to the Mohammedan uprising, as well as to the Druse rebellion. Religious war is foreshadowed.

3. The French black troops in many instances have proved bad, and the gendarmery of mixed Christians and Mohammedan are a complete failure, deserting their machine-gun positions, fleeing before an inferior enemy, and leaving volunteers to save the women and children.

4. France's prestige is almost completely shattered. The partial restoration of the prestige won by General Gamelin in the heroic capture of Sueida was lost when the Druses invaded Christian Lebanon, capturing every village they attacked, massacring and pillaging.

5. The entire population of the Lebanon, and in Syria, Christian as well as Mohammedan, are angry. Everybody is demanding that the French shall fight or get out. Only the subsidised Press defends the Government.

6. The most alarming fact of the situation is that France has not the troops here. When General Gamelin utilised five thousand in attacking Sueida and defending the rear bases, the rest of the country became exposed to rapid-moving, mounted, night-riding Druses, who fight as wild Indians did.

7. The past five months have seen a series of diplomatic and military blunders, evident to any observer, which have been reported by the British, American and other Consulates to their Governments.

POLITICAL MESS.

8. While the public blames these blunders on General Serrail, diplomatic and other expert observers trace the blame to a deeper source—namely, the political mess in Paris. They claim that the French politicians, fighting for the Premiership and Cabinet posts; the battle between the Monarchists, the Republicans and the Radical bloc in Paris; and the fight between the clericals and anti-clericals in Paris, are completely responsible for the terrible mess here, which has resulted in massacres and disaster, and which threatens terrible things in a religious war and complete rebellion.

It is claimed by these observers that all General Serrail's actions to pacify the country and restore prosperity have been ham-strung by the Paris politicians. The result has been the half-way measures, which have characterised recent history, and which are apparent to-day in the Volunteer Army mess. Had the Government armed ten thousand volunteers, who came forward without being asked, and placed trustworthy leaders in command, the probability is that a complete victory over the enemy would have resulted. But the half-way formation of ill-chosen volunteers, without giving them leaders, has resulted in débâcle. A volunteer army's victory would have pacified the country, but defeat has aroused the spectre of Mohammedan religious war.

INSUFFICIENT TROOPS.

The question of sufficient troops is another matter, which is blamed on Paris. The French military have been begging Paris daily for aeroplanes, and pointing out the British success in holding Mesopotamia with three hundred aeroplanes. But Paris has sent only two or three score, mostly old Breguets, some of which European aviators flew in France, the old-fashioned machines frequently collapsing and burning and causing unnecessary deaths of brave French aviators. The same with armoured cars, which are continually breaking down on the roads en route to the attacked villages.

Tanks, which have proved marvellous war machines against the natives, should have been sent in scores, instead of in threes and fours.

Finally, the Paris politicians who control the war here did not send sufficient troops until this week, when all the Lebanon was terror-stricken and the Druses were attacking in four zones simultaneously, making the task of pacification most difficult.

Some 50,000 persons are refugees. 10,000 have lost everything. Large parts of Syria are uncultivated, and a famine is forecasted in the spring. Business is at a stand-still. Damascus has a moratorium; Beirut is stagnant—all of which forecasts a financial crisis and million of people in panic, not knowing which village is to be massacred next, or else openly discontented under French rule. Everyone agrees that if the four thousand troops which landed this week had arrived when the Generals asked the politicians for them in July and August, Syria would now have been pacified, the Christian Lebanon saved from massacres, and the danger of a religious war averted.

BELFAST ALDERMAN'S LIBEL ACTION.

DERRY MAN AS DEFENDANT.

In the King's Bench Division, Belfast, yesterday, before the Lord Chief Justice, a venue motion was down for hearing in the action brought by Alderman J. W. Nixon, Belfast, an ex-District Inspector of the Royal Ulster Constabulary, against James Gillespie, 6 Academy terrace, Derry, for libel. In connection with the same libel Alderman Nixon has already been awarded £1,000 damages against the proprietors of the Derry Journal for publishing a letter from Gillespie, in which the latter wrote:—"Many would say, however, that there is just as good a chance for him in that sphere as there are for certain gentlemen named Nixon, Gill, and McNaghten, who still bask in the sunny corners of Belfast trying to avoid the ghosts of a certain family." Plaintiff, averring that the reference accused him of the murder of the McMahon family at Kinnaird terrace, Belfast, in March, 1922, took action, and defendant now sought to have trial in Londonderry city or county, or, in the alternative, in the Co. Tyrone, alleging that a fair trial could not be had in Belfast.

The Lord Chief Justice—For public reasons I will not hear this motion to-day. I will adjourn it without prejudice to any of the parties for a week. Another judge would hear the motion.

KING'S COUNTY CATTLE-BREEDING SCHEME.

At a meeting of King's County County Council on Thursday a letter was read from Mr. W. Robbins, Secretary, County Committee of Agriculture, forwarding a resolution from his Committee asking that a special rate of at least ½d. in the £ should be struck for the purpose of the cattle-breeding scheme, in addition to the 1d. in the £ required for ordinary schemes.

The Commissioner requested the sanction of the Department for the levying of the rate.

IMPERIAL PARLIAMENT.

DRUNKENNESS AND "ROAD HOGS."

CRIMINAL JUSTICE BILL.

FROM OUR PARLIAMENTARY CORRESPONDENT.

WESTMINSTER, Friday.

The cancellation of the city luncheon to the Prince of Wales led many Ministers and members, who, in happier circumstances, would have been enjoying the Guildhall's hospitality, to turn their faces once more to Westminster. The business was the report of the Criminal Justice Bill. Mr. MacQuisten took the opportunity of introducing his bill to restore members of trade unions their industrial and political freedom. The measure was read a first time, but this is as far as it will get, as the whole time of the House to the end of the session is allocated to Government business. There was a question whether the hon. member for Argyllshire did actually bring his bill to the table, but the Deputy Speaker, Mr. Hope, assured Mr. Batey, who raised the point, that Mr. MacQuisten did, in fact, make an appearance, though a slightly belated one.

The course of the debate on the Criminal Justice Bill ran somewhat smoother than was anticipated, as the Government gave way on the very contentious clause which gave the police power of universal search, on a magistrate's warrant. The view taken by the Home Secretary was that, to insist upon the clause might imperil the bill, and it had, therefore, been decided to drop it, though he confessed himself quite unable to assent to the view put forward, that its aim was political.

Certainly the omission of the clause removed the greatest stumbling block to the progress of the bill; but there were sufficient matters of controversy left to make it questionable whether the Government's legislative time-table would not have to be recast. As an instance, members were by no means unanimous on the question of what constituted drunkenness. The subject arose on Clause 39, which increases the penalties applicable in the case of an intoxicated person driving a motor vehicle. Mr. Scrymgeour sought to enlarge the scope of the clause so as to include persons who had taken sufficient drink to "impair their capacity to act."

WHEN IS A MAN DRUNKEN?

Mr. Grotrian, the Unionist member for Hull, in seconding the proposal, registered his dislike for the word "drunk." Hardly any two persons agreed as to what constituted drunkenness, and the tests imposed in an attempt to solve the problem were absolutely ridiculous. The Home Secretary scoffed at the idea of any reasonable person not understanding what the word "drunk" was meant to convey.

Commander Kenworthy claimed to be able to speak as an expert on this matter, since, when he was in the Naval Service, he was frequently called upon to decide whether a man was drunk or not. The real test was whether a man was capable of performing his ordinary duties. The mere fact that a pedestrian was sufficiently far gone to give him a rolling gait would not justify a policeman in running him in.

The amendment was defeated by 194 votes to 30.

An amendment to delete the words in the clause relating to reckless driving was agreed to by the Home Secretary, in view of the fact that a comprehensive bill dealing with motor traffic was to be introduced next session by the Minister of Transport.

There were a number of protests at the course which had been suggested, as, in the opinion of quite a number of members, imprisonment for a first conviction was not a bit too much for those who, in the words of Miss Wilkinson, went about the country like veritable road hogs. Another Labour member, Mr. Thurtle, declared that the Home Secretary had been guilty of a betrayal of the rights of the public. People who claimed the exclusive use of the roads, and made men and women and children scuttle out of their way like rabbits should be given the privilege of picking oakum for a time.

The amendment was carried on a division by 183 votes to 87.

The report stage of the bill was concluded, but there was not sufficient time for the third reading, and the debate was adjourned.

U.S. MARKETS.

HEAVY CLOSING OF STOCKS.

(REUTER'S TELEGRAMS.)

NEW YORK, Friday.

Stocks opened firm. Active selling in the final hour, especially of Motor issues, caused reactions of 1 to 7 points from the highest, and forced many stocks below the previous close. Hudson Motor dropped from 102⅝ to 94, and Chrysler Motor from 203⅜ to 185. Radio Corporation lost 5 points, reaching the lowest price for the year; Atlantic Coast Line and Foundation Co. 5 to 6, and American Brake Shoe 8. Previously the market had exhibited pronounced strength, the outcome of President Coolidge's speech, the retention of an unchanged discount rate by the New York Federal Reserve Bank, the large oversubscription to the $100,000,000 Italian Loan, which indicated an abundance of credit facilities, and constructive reports regarding the general business conditions. Federal Mining and Smelting early advanced 12 points, Dupont 9, Chrysler Motor 6, Tobacco Products 5, and many Industrials and Railroads 1 to 4 points. Chesapeake and Ohio, however, was weak throughout, owing to realising. The market closed heavy. Government Bonds easy; Railroad Bonds firm. The day's sales totalled 2,040,000 shares.

Money on call closed easy at 4½ p.c. bid and 4¾ p.c. asked; all business was transacted at 4½ p.c. Sterling exchange steady. Silver ⅛c. lower at 69.

CHICAGO MARKETS.

CHICAGO, Friday.

WHEAT opened firm, ⅜c. to 1½c. higher, owing to strength at Winnipeg, firm Liverpool cables, and covering of shorts. Further advances were influenced by a bullish private estimate of the Argentine crop, firm Buenos Aires cables, increased Bradstreet's weekly clearance figures, small receipts, an improvement in export business, and a bullish review by the Modern Miller. The market partially reacted, however, owing to the more favourable weather for crop-moving, realising, commission house selling, a poor outside demand, and in sympathy with corn; and closed barely steady, although unchanged, to 1c. up from yesterday. THE COINING OF CHARACTER.

DR. PATTON ON THE MOTHERS' MISSION.

A special Service in connection with the Mothers' Union anniversary meetings, which took place this week, was held yesterday morning in St. Patrick's Cathedral, Dublin. It included celebration of the Holy Communion, and a Sermon by the Bishop of Killaloe (the Right Rev. Dr. H. E. Patton).

Preaching from the text "Take heed unto thyself and to thy teaching," Dr. Patton spoke of an old oratory, dating from the late century, which stands beside his Cathedral at Killaloe. Under the oratory a canal flows, opening into the Shannon. An allegory in teaching children may be drawn from this. In a conversation between Lord Tennyson, Mr. Gladstone and Mr. Holman Hunt, the poet said that to him prayer was the opening of the sluice gates between the soul and eternal life. This is made clear when you think of the canal. You enter a lough and are shut up within its prison, and then the sluice gates are opened and the water flows into your prison and lifts you up to a higher level, and your boat emerges again into a higher plane of the journey. Prayer is the opening of the sluice gates and the letting in of life and power.

The text, Dr. Patton said, is one more usually connected with an ordination Service. But confirmation, as Bishop Westcott said, is the ordination of the layman or laywoman to work in the Church of God, and the members of the Mothers' Union are, by God and nature, ordained to one of the mightiest commissions on earth; for there is no greater power on earth than that which is exercised over a child's mind by the sort of life which a father and mother lead, and more especially by that of the mother, with whom a child is, of necessity, more in contact. Every household is a mint for the coining of character, and character is the one essential factor in the progress of the life of a nation. Day by day nations are being fashioned in nurseries, and those who hold the leading-strings of children may often exercise greater power than those who hold the reins of government. Man's work ends with the setting of the sun; but a woman's work is never done; her opportunities are incalculable.

The Mothers' Union emphasises the need of prayer, and the need to organise everywhere a band of mothers to unite in prayer and seek, by their example, to lead their families in purity and holiness of life. Such an ideal, if translated into action, would transform the life of the Empire. And to prayer must be added consistency of action, or the influence with the children will fail. To be without God and without hope in the world is a terrible heritage for any child, a calamity from which the Mothers' Union is doing its best to rescue young children, by insisting on the greatness of the mothers' calling. The mother's teaching should reflect, above all else, the light of the knowledge of the glory of God in Jesus Christ.

THE WEEK IN BELFAST.

THE BOUNDARY QUESTION.

FROM A SPECIAL CORRESPONDENT.

The most discussed event of the week has been Alderman Nixon's successful libel action against the proprietors and editor of the Derry Journal, which revived unpleasant memories that we would all be only too pleased to forget. Alderman Nixon is one of the most interesting personalities in Belfast. After twenty years' service as a District Inspector—first, in the old Royal Irish Constabulary, and then in the newly-formed Ulster Force—he jumped into public prominence by making a highly polemical speech at a meeting of the Orange Lodge in Belfast. Shortly afterwards he retired from the Force and entered public life by being elected, as an Independent, an Alderman of the Corporation. At the spring election he, undoubtedly, would have been returned for North Belfast had he stood as an Independent; but he made what apparently was the mistake of his life; for, accepting the nomination of the official party, he failed to win the seat.

The Armagh by-election is not arousing any very great interest in Belfast. The latest returns indicate that Mr. Davison's majority will be of the usual comfortable dimensions. Local Labour enthusiasts will find themselves in rather a quandary. They cannot, of course, vote for a Government candidate, and Mr. Todd, their only other choice, is a farmer. Few people credit lawyers with altruism when they enter politics, but Mr. Davison is evidently the exception that tests the rule; for I understand that, if he is successful, he must surrender his position as Legal Adviser to the Ministry of Home Affairs. I hear, further, that Mr. Davison will take silk shortly after his return to Parliament, which will mean an additional surrender, since only a "junior" can be "Attorney's devil."

BOUNDARY RUMOURS.

They seem to be discussing the Boundary question more urgently in London and Dublin than we are. It is true that we read all the reports purporting to emanate from "authoritative sources," but we read them with a judicial calm and a very suspicious eye. It is to be noted, however, that there has been very little of the "only over my dead body" policy in such speeches as the Government leaders have made recently. It is probably fair to say that everyone expects rather more than an odd inch of territory here and there to be transferred. What has, however, aroused a great deal of justifiable comment is the claim made by several Southern Irishman, that under no circumstances whatever can an inch of Free State territory be transferred. What is sauce for the goose; we say here, should also be sauce for the gander. I may say, before leaving the subject, that I have met a man who professed to know all the secrets of the inner working of the Boundary Commission. According to him, such was the overwhelming force of the dynamic personality of Mr. Fisher, the Northern representative, that he induced Mr. Justice Feetham and Mr. MacNeill to agree to a restoration to Ulster of its former three counties! Coming to Sir James Craig triumphantly with the news, he was astounded to find that Sir James would have none of them, and told him to repersuade his fellow-Commissioners! Nonsensical as this is, it scarcely can be much more far-fetched than some reports sponsored in quite responsible quarters.

THE PRICE OF MILK.

It seems to be a generally accepted principle that producer and retailer stand together, leaving the unfortunate public to bear any additional expense entailed. We are having here, however, the interesting spectacle of a breach between these ancient allies that may even ripen into open war. During the summer the Farmers' Union have been supplying the Retailers' Association with milk at 1s. 6d., and the latter have sold at 6d. per quart. Now the farmers propose to revert to last winter's price of 1s. 8d., and suggest, according to the plan usually followed, that the retail price should be 7d.; but the retailers have had the audacity to refuse. The public, they say, must not be fleeced—their own 100 per cent. profit does not, of course, come under that category—and there is no justification for the increase. As a matter of fact, I understand that not for ten years have foodstuffs been so cheap or so plentiful. However, it is probable that the farmers and the retailers will compose their differences, and most people expect the winter price to be the customary sevenpence.

Horticulturally Ulster has taken a prominent place, and her firms at Portadown and Newtownards are known and honoured all over the world. For all that, however, the Ulster Hall last Wednesday, when the Chrysanthemum Show was revived, must have come as a pleasant surprise. The ordinary layman found it impossible to make any selection among the enormous variety. The mass of exhibits was displayed very tastefully, and it is doubtful whether the Ulster Hall has ever been more beautiful. Mr. Archdale, head of a most up-to-date business—the Ministry of Agriculture—was obviously both surprised and delighted.

IRISH LOYALISTS' CLAIMS.

ACTION BY COMPENSATION ASSOCIATION.

At a meeting of the Committee of the Irish Claims Compensation Association, held in London yesterday, Mr. Robert Sanders, D.L., proposed a vote of condolence and sympathy with the families of Mr. H. V. Macnamara, D.L., who had been one of the most active members of the Committee, and Sir John Dillon, Bart., whose deaths had occurred. They were both patriotic Irishmen in the true sense of the word, and men whose lives had been given to public work in Ireland in the past.

Colonel Moloney, D.L., County Clare, seconded the resolution, and the Secretary was directed to forward it to Mrs. Macnamara and Miss Dillon.

A letter was read from the Secretary of the House of Lords—Lord Dunedin's Committee—asking for copies of the pledges of British Ministers to Irish loyalists, and the Committee approved of the statement which was forwarded to him. Much dissatisfaction was expressed at the dilatory methods adopted by the Government in the setting up of this Committee, as it is understood that they have not yet met, nor has the procedure or reference to it been communicated to the claimants whose cases are to be reviewed. It was decided to await an answer, not yet received, to the letter of the Association, addressed to the Secretary of State for the Colonies, on September 2nd last, requesting information on these points, and if an answer is not received shortly, to forward copies of the statements submitted to all members of Parliament. A discussion took place as to the desirability of petitioning Parliament, and it was agreed to defer the consideration of this to a future meeting of the Committee.

DERRY WATER SCHEME.

With a view to giving employment to a very considerable number of workers at present unemployed and to relieve local taxation to a substantial extent, the Derry Local Employment Committee has decided to call on the Corporation to accept the offer of the Minister of Labour to pay 75 per cent. of the wages of all additional men employed on the Banagher water scheme after the scheme had been approved as a relief work.

DUNGANNON HOSPITAL INQUIRY

The Dungannon Hospital inquiry was continued yesterday by Dr. McClay, medical officer of the Northern Ministry of Home Affairs.

The principal witnesses examined as to management of the hospital were Nurse M. Smyth, of Clogher Hospital, and Mr. William McGuffin, Clerk of the Union.

AN ATTACK ON CIVIC GUARDS.

SENTENCES REDUCED ON APPEAL.

At the Limerick Circuit Court yesterday, John and Joseph Prendergast and John O'Shaughnessy appealed from a decision of the Justice at Askeaton sentencing them to four months' imprisonment each, with hard labour, for an assault on two members of the Civic Guard at Pallaskenry on the 9th of August last. Thomas Moloney, an old man, who was sentenced to two months' imprisonment in connection with the same offence, was also an appellant.

Judge McElligott said that, while the Guards behaved with great forbearance, the appellants had conducted themselves like a pack of howling savages. In the case of the Prendergasts and O'Shaughnessy he reduced the sentence to six weeks and ordered them to find bail. Moloney was given the alternative of paying a fine of 40s.

DEAN OVENDEN MEMORIAL.

Our advertising columns contain an appeal for subscriptions for a memorial to the late Dean of St. Patrick's Cathedral, the Very Rev. Charles T. Ovenden, D.D.

As the nature of the memorial will be determined by the amount of subscriptions received, the organising committee hope for a generous response to the appeal to enable them to make a suitable memorial to one who gave so many years of valuable service to St. Patrick's Cathedral.

PIANOFORTE RECITAL.

MISS RHODA COGHILL.

Miss Rhoda Coghill, winner of almost every prize that could be won at the Feis Ceoil for pianoforte playing since she was a child, proved at her recital in the Molesworth Hall, Dublin, last night, that she still is advancing in the art and technique of the pianoforte. Technique, according to the older-established method, is her strong point. The least satisfactory part of her programme was the Debussy group, where the music required a different approach to the instrument.

By the obstacles that are set in such works as the B minor Sonata of Liszt, the most strenuous of the Chopin Studies, and the set of Bach Choral Preludes that she played, she is quite undismayed. The brilliance of her keyboard work in these supremely difficult exercises—a more exacting set could hardly be put together—was almost astonishing.

Best of all, perhaps, was her playing of the Liszt Hungarian Rhapsody, which she added to the programme. There was not a trick or a stumbling-block in it that she did not handle with every appearance of ease; but, more than that, she presented the music as well-knit and thoroughly mastered, with a musical quality of tone maintained through the most complicated passages, and an admirable control of rhythm.

It was only in comparison with her dazzling performances in music of that genre that Miss Coghill's interpretation of the Debussy examples seemed deficient. Having a highly analytical type of mind, she sought to remove the veil of mystery that should hang about "La Cathédrale Engloutie." Her account of "Papillons" was also, perhaps, rather too precise; the nervous fluttering that Debussy meant to be sensed through the music she made into a motion too carefully calculated. Still, she got nice tone there, and showed the care that she takes in phrasing. It was enjoyable, if not as much to the point as her playing of the music, that set her problems in finger technique, rather than in mood interpretation.

Mr. Percy Whitehead's singing lent a pleasant diversity to the programme.

"DOLE" EXCUSE FORMS.

LUCAN FRAUD AND FORGERY CHARGE.

Serious charges under the Unemployment Insurance Act were brought against James M'Auley, Leixlip, at Lucan District Court yesterday. On one indictment he was charged on thirteen counts with conspiring with some person unknown to forge and utter what are known as "excuse forms," and on another he was charged with fraudulently obtaining £1 8s. unemployment benefit by falsely representing himself as unemployed. He was returned for trial on bail.

Sergeant M'Elligott gave evidence of receiving a voluntary statement from the accused man, in which he said that most of the signatures on the forms were false.

James Harte, Main street, Leixlip, was examined, and stated that the signature on the excuse forms (produced) was not his.

The defendant said that he was in bad circumstances when he drew the £1 8s., and would pay it back if he got a chance.

REORGANISING THE GAELIC LEAGUE.

ACTIVITIES IN DUBLIN CITY AND COUNTY.

At the weekly meeting of the Dublin Cumann Ceanntair of the Gaelic League the work of uniting all the forces of the language movement in the city was discussed, and with this object a big effort is being made to establish League branches through the city and county. A number of people have been selected for each district, whose object it will be to organise all the Gaels in their districts, and to secure the co-operation of the local clergy and national teachers in establishing a local branch. Outside the central branches, branches are already established in Rathfarnham, Donabate and Dundrum.

A branch was established in Rathmines during the past week. In Glasnevin, Drumcondra, Fairview, Clontarf, Inchicore, Dolphin's Barn, Terenure, Sandymount, Ringsend and outlying districts in the county the work of establishing branches is well in hand.

With regard to the work in the schools it was felt that an effort should be made to make the children regard the language less as an academic subject, and to aid the work with occasional entertainments, such as short dramas, ceilidhthe, etc., performed by the children themselves, and constituting part of the school work. The co-operation of the schools and An Comhar Dramuidheachta is being sought for this purpose.

A committee of parents of Irish-speaking children are endeavouring to have a school set up in the city in which all subjects would be taught through Irish.

ALEXANDRA GUILD TENEMENTS.

The twenty-seventh ordinary general meeting of the Alexandra Guild Tenements' Co., Limited, has been held in Alexandra College, Dublin—Miss Lewis, M.A., in the chair.

In moving the adoption of the annual report, Miss Lewis noted with satisfaction the financial position of the company, the profits being such as to permit of the payment of a dividend of 2½ per cent., after carrying over a sum as reserve. In spite of a great deal of poverty and unemployment, rents were paid with scrupulous regularity, and it was evident that the tenants took pride in keeping the premises in order, and in co-operating with the company in all schemes for the improvement of the property. The directors desired to thank most cordially Lady Ardilaun, Lady Arnott, Miss Johnston, Miss Hutton, Miss White, and the Misses Bagwell, who had entertained the women and children at various times, and those in charge of the playrooms, which always proved a source of liveliest enjoyment to the children. They were specially grateful to Lady Ardilaun, without whose generous support of the Coal and Emergency Funds, many of the poorer tenants would be faced with extreme privation.

Miss Story, in seconding the adoption of the report, said she was specially interested to see what a considerable profit had been made on the Summerhill property, where the houses were let out in two-roomed, self-contained flats, as it showed that it was possible for tenement house-owners to provide such accommodation at a reasonable rent. The outgoing directors, Miss Hogg, Miss Hutton, and Miss Lewis were re-elected.

On the motion of Mrs. Preston, seconded by Miss Dixon, it was passed unanimously, "That the auditors, Messrs. Cooper and Kenny, be re-elected; and that the thanks of the company be tendered to them, and to Messrs. Joynt and Crawford, the company's solicitors, for their services during the year."

THE GERVASE ELWES FUND.

The first annual general meeting of the Irish Branch of the Gervase Elwes Fund for musicians will be held on Wednesday next, at 3 o'clock, at the Theatre Royal. During its first year of existence the fund has helped many cases of distress.

FINANCIAL NEWS AND NOTES.

TONE AND COMMENT.

DUBLIN DULL.

GUINNESS WEAK.

There was the usual week-end market for public securities on 'Change yesterday, with some disappointing price movements on realisations in the absence of confidence and supporting orders. The Funds, British and local held firm. Conversion 3½ p.c. and Funding 4 p.c. Loans turned strong. Banks were almost neglected, but prices tended to improve. Guinness Ord. opened with an appearance of continued strength and activity, but considerable profit-taking shortly after turned the market dull, and the earlier advance was subsequently far more than lost. After the recent big advance, a reaction was overdue, and was, therefore expected. Distillers Shares were quiet and dull, as also were J. Power and Son Pref. Marconi Ord. eased further.

Home Rails were idle and dull. Great Northern Ord., the only stock quoted, gave way rather sharply, but the reduced price was bid. An odd lot of Provincial Tramway Deb. £5 Shares was picked up at 70s., or equal to 7 for the £10 Shares before the £5 was recently repaid. The £10 6 p.c. Cumulative Preference Shares, with three years' arrears in the price, were bid for again at 60s., but did not offer under 80s., or thereabouts. Dublin United issues also closed firm. Dunlop Rubber opened dull, but closed firm at 24s. Alliance Gas Shares were better, but the Debenture Stock was still on sale. Drapery Pref. and Deb. Shares were rather wanted at or about last prices. Courtaulds opened lower, but later a good many shares were absorbed at rallying quotations. Bradford Dyers and Calicos were still easier, but Coats Ord. were a firm market at last price. Tobaccos were in firm request, especially British-Americans, in the hope of an early intimation regarding likely bonus later on. Hammond Lane Foundry £1 Ord. Shares, after being bid for ineffectually at par, eventually rose to 21s. Rubber Shares were naturally very buoyantly disposed, judging by London advices and quotations. Yam Seng rose 7½d. to 7s. 1½d. The price of Plantation rubber opened 4s. 5½d. per lb., and advanced to 4s. 8d. per lb. later.

LONDON STEADY.

RUBBERS STRONG.

The principal features of the London Stock Markets yesterday was again provided by Rubber shares. There was a strong demand, and prices advanced further in many directions. There was also an active demand for the raw material, and the price advanced to 4s. 8d. per pound at one time, a new record under the Stevenson restriction scheme, but later eased to 4s. 7d., which figure was the closing level. Other markets were rather quiet, but a generally steady tone prevailed, and in places higher levels were recorded. Underwriting was arranged yesterday for a Union of South Africa Government Loan for £4,000,000 in 5 per cent. Stock, redeemable 1945-75. The issue price will be 99½, and the Union of South Africa Commissioners will take £1,200,000 of the Stock. Arrangements were also being made for a Newfoundland Government Loan of £500,000 in 5 per cent. Stock. The issue price in this case will be 100½ and the redemption date 1949.

NEW ARTIFICIAL SILK COMPANY.

A new artificial silk company is being formed, with a directorate largely composed of men very well known in the chemical trade. This is interesting, as up to the present, although the process of making viscose silk is a chemical and textile one, leaders in the heavy chemical trade have not identified themselves with it. The board, which is strong, is a level connection between the chemical, banking, cotton and wood pulp interests.

RUBBER UP TO 4s. 8d. PER POUND.

Yesterday the Rubber market in Mincing lane was very strong. The spot price opened at 4s. 5½d. per lb., and rapidly advanced to 4s. 8d., with a final quotation of 4s. 7d. per lb. Forward positions were strong and higher. We must go back to 1912 for a parallel to this price, when rubber touched 5s. 9d. per lb., with an average for the year of 4s. 9d. The share market was naturally very strong.

BIG ITALIAN LOAN OVER-SUBSCRIBED.

A New York telegram states that yesterday's issue of Gold Bonds of the Kingdom of Italy to an amount of $100,000,000, bearing interest at the rate of 7 per cent. and maturing on December 1, 1951, has been over-subscribed. At the price of 94½, at which the bonds are offered, they will yield the investor 7.48 per cent. interest per annum.

MANCHESTER SHIP CANAL.

The directors of the Manchester Ship Canal Company are promoting a Parliamentary Bill for splitting the £10 Ordinary and Preference Shares into £1 shares. It is intended to proceed with the sub-division of the shares as soon as the necessary powers are obtained. The company has an issued ordinary share capital of £4,000,000, and a like amount of issued preference capital. There was great activity in the shares on the Manchester Stock Exchange on the proposals.

GERMAN INDUSTRIAL LOAN IN NEW YORK.

A financial group including Messrs. Lee Higginson and Co. and the Harriman National Bank yesterday offered in New York a loan of $7,500,000 for a German steel concern. The loan bears an interest of 7 per cent. and is redeemable within twenty years. It is secured by mortgage on the undertaking's property, which ranks immediately after the Dawes obligations.

SENA SUGAR ESTATES, LIMITED.

During the period January to April of this year a most disastrous flood visited the Zambesi Valley, resulting in the loss of more than half the crop of growing cane. The directors consider that it is essential to conserve the company's cash resources, and not pay a dividend on the Ordinary Shares. It is proposed to transfer £50,000 to general reserve and £30,000 to depreciation reserve, leaving a balance of £157,384 to be carried forward.

LONDON MOVEMENTS.

A generally steady to firm tone prevailed in the gilt-edged market yesterday, and overnight quotations were for the most part the same as before. Among War Loans the Fives, at 100⅞ were ⅛ to the good. India 3 p.c. moved up to 58, or ½ to the good.

Apart from a good rise in Peruvian Corporations, the Foreign Government Stock market was steady and little altered. Japanese 6 p.c. 1924 at 90½ were better, while Turkish 4 p.c. Unified at 16½ were ¼ to the good. Peruvian Corporation Ord. at 4⅜ were ¼ higher, while the Pref. rose smartly to 35½, or 1½ points higher.

RAILS QUIET.

Business was quiet in the Home Rail market, and price movements were consequently few. North-Eastern 4 p.c. 2nd Pref. went back to 63, or a point easier.

Among Colonial and Foreign Rails Argentines were firm, but, with the exception of a further rise in the B.A. Pacific to 85½, or ½ higher, overnight prices were repeated. Cordoba Central went forward the turn to 29½, or ¼ higher, while Grand Trunk Pacific 4 p.c. Debs. at 47½ were a full point up. United Havana, on the other hand, dropped to 103, or 1½ points lower. Antofagasta were another dull spot, and here a decline of a point to 92 was registered.

RUBBER SHARES STRONG.

The Rubber Share market continues the most active and the strongest section of the London Stock markets, and yesterday a further all-round advance was registered. Another long list of price movements was recorded, and, with a few exceptions, they were all in favour of holders. Several of the recognised leaders went ahead smartly, while many of the more speculative issues also registered appreciable improvements. On the other side, here and there lower figures were quoted at the close of business, but the differences against holders were for the most part of small denominations, and were attributed to selling to secure profits. An active business was put through in the commodity market, and the quotation for the raw material went forward smartly; spot and November quoted at 4s. 5½d. per lb., or a penny a pound dearer than the previous day's closing quotation; and, with a good demand forthcoming, the quotation quickly jumped to 4s. 8d. This figure was not quite maintained, however, and the final quotation was marked at 4s. 7d. per lb. December sold at 4s. 5d. and then 4s. 5½d. per lb., while forward positions also realised higher values. In the Share market Manchester North Borneo were a strong spot, and after a firm opening the price further improved to 54s., or 3s. 6d. better. Mendaris jumped 2s. 3d. to 44s. 6d., while Membakut at 37s. 10½d. were 2s. 6d. to the good. P.P.K. Ceylon finished 2s. higher, and Rubber Estates of Johore at 40s. 7½d. and Serdang Central at 52s. 6d. were both 1s. 3d. harder. Seafield gained 1s. 4½d. and Sumatra Consolidated 1s., while Tandjong at 83s. 4½d. and Tamiang at 62s. 7½d. were 1s. 7d. and 1s 4½d. higher respectively. Telogoredjo were another firm spot, and the closing level of 98s. 9d. showed a gain of 2s. 6d. from the overnight figure. United Sua Betong jumped to 121s. 9d., or 2s. 7½d. firmer, while Vallambrosa at 25s. 7½d. were 1s. 10½d. up. Bukit Kajang at 95s. 10½d. were 2s. 7½d. up, and Hong Kong Selangor gained 2s. 9d. to 56s. 6d. Abaco at 80s. were 3s. 9d. firmer, and Ratanui and Sedenak were 2s. and 2s. 6d. better. Sungei Buaya at 63s. 6d. recorded an increase of 1s. 9d., and Kasintoe put on 1s. 3d. to 56s. 3d. Ledbury gained 2s. 6d., Labu 1s. 6d., and Kapur Para 1s., while Glenbervie and Grand Central were 1s. 10½d. and 1s. 7½d. higher respectively. General Ceylon spurted to 61s., or 2s. better, and Bukit Rajah at 42s. 6d. were 1s. 9d. up. There were many other improvements of lesser amounts, while the only decline worthy of record was that of 2s. 6d. in F.M.S. Planters to 77s.

SHELLS STRONG AMONG OILS.

Apart from a few specialities, Oil shares commanded only a moderate amount of attention yesterday, this section of the Stock Exchange being to a large extent overshadowed by the continued activity of the Rubber department. The strength of Shells was an outstanding feature, any shares coming on the market being readily absorbed, while some influential buying was reported. Hopes are entertained that, as a result of the current year's working, the Shell Company may be in a position to pay an increased dividend. A fair amount of activity was again witnessed in British Controlled, business being mainly in the nature of switching from the Common to the Preferred.

TEA SHARES IRREGULAR.

An irregular tone prevailed in the Tea Share market yesterday, while the volume of business passing remained on rather small lines. Several of the leaders were again marked higher, but others went back the turn. Amalgamated Estates were a good spot, and here an improvement of ⅛ was recorded to 38⅞. Brahmapootra at 31 1/16 were 1 1/16 higher, and Anglo-Ceylon gained 1s. to 43s. Budla Beta put on ⅛, while Ceylon Plantation were a similar amount to the good. Upper Assam at 45s. 6d. and United Planters of Ceylon at 74s. 4½d. were 1s. 1½d. and 1s. higher, respectively. Tea Share Trust, on the other hand, dropped back to 28s. 1½d., or 3s. 1½d. lower, while Borelli shed 1s. 3d. to 82s. 6d. Consolidated Tea and Lands at 28⅛ were 1/16 lower, while Doom Dooma and Eastern Assam were 2s. 6d. and 1s. 1½d. lower, respectively. Lunuva at 48s. showed a loss of 1s. 7½d. on the day's business.

INDUSTRIALS' ACTIVE FINISH.

After a dull opening Industrials finished the week in more cheerful tone under the influence of a burst of activity in leading counters. Cotton issues were neglected, Bleachers, Fine Spinners, and Calicos all closing unchanged. Of Worsted Scrips, Slubbers lost 3d. to 8s., but Patons and Baldwins, despite the passing of the interim dividend, held steady at 40s. Under the lead of Courtaulds Art Silks had a better appearance. Opening at 6 15/16, this counter met with supporting orders, in part attributed to New York, and by now had reached 6⅞. In the final dealings they spurted to the level, £7, and a firm spot at that. Grouts were maintained at 3½, with the new at 15s. Wardles came on offer, and lost 1/16 to 4 1/16; American Cellulose recovered to 18½, and the Prefd. to 19½. Further public inquiry for Drystuffs was noted, and a rise of 3d. to 7s. 9d. took place, with the Pref. a like amount higher at 13s. 9d. Electrical equipments again presented a cheerful front. Marconis proved a weak spot, and fell another 1/16 to 1 1/16, with Canadas 3d. off at 5s. 9d. Pettigrew and Merriman were wanted, and improved to 7s. 6d., at which figure the Pref. also closed firm. Dublier held steady at 22s. 6d.

Lively trading in Tobacco Stocks was witnessed, the business being professional. B.A.T. advanced in gradual steps, closing 1s. 3d. higher at 114s. 3d. after 114s. 6d. Imperials rose to 105s. 6d., but closed only 3d. better at 105s. 3d. On a market bare of Scrip Carreras and the "A" Shares jumped ¼ to 12⅝, touching 12⅞ at one time. They both proved difficult counters to deal in. Godfrey Phillips were more subdued at 3⅜. News met with support. Interest in Breweries was at a low ebb, and movements were confined to a nominal loss of 5 in Guinness to 780, and an advance of 2 to 259½ in Bieckerts. Watney Defd. ruled dull at 277½. There was not much passing in Distillers, but Glasgow Bonding rose 3d. to 25s. 6d. Renewed inquiry for Dennis Motors caused an early spurt to 70s. 9d., but they failed to hold at this record level, finishing a strong market at 68s. 9d., a net gain of 1/16. Once again the Iron and Steel group experienced a sagging tendency.

LONDON MINING MARKET BUSY.

KAFFIRS DULL.

Considering that yesterday was the last dealing day of a somewhat uninteresting week, the amount of business passing in the Mining market was of substantial proportions. Attention, however, was still mainly directed to specialities, but the activity in these went far to off-set the quietness of the general run of shares. Kaffirs, as a rule, were dullishly inclined, but the leading shares were firm on dividend anticipations. Crown Mines were supported from the Cape, and Modder Deep, New State Areas, Rand Mines and Witwatersrand Deep were all in request and higher. Union Corporation continued steadily on their upward course, and Generals were again a good market; but West Rand Consols were content to maintain their former level. There was some selling of "T.C.L." on Johannesburg account, and Platinums generally were dullish, the postponement of the Onverwacht flotation being a disturbing factor. The price of tin was fractionally harder at £286 3s. 9d. per ton, and the share market maintained a very steady appearance. Closing prices:—

THE MONEY MARKET.

TREASURY BILL RATE HIGHER.

DISCOUNTS ADVANCED.

Tenders were received at the Bank of England yesterday for £40,000,000 Treasury bills and Treasury bonds. Tenders for Treasury bonds at £94 8s. received in full. Tenders for bills dated Monday to Friday next at £99 0s. 1d. and above and for bills dated Saturday at £99 0s. 4d. and above receive in full. These figures indicate an average rate of about 3⅝ p.c., which is rather higher than last week. The rate at which the Treasury bills were allotted was rather higher than the market had anticipated, and discount quotations were advanced in sympathy. Fine two months' and three months' bills were called 3 11/16 p.c., while the "hot" Treasuries were offered at a shade over 3⅞ p.c. Money remained in plentiful supply, and towards the close balances were almost unlendable. Short loans were obtainable at 3 p.c. from the opening of business, and were offered down to 2½ p.c. during the afternoon. Weekly fixtures went on at 3 p.c.

Bar silver was easier, both the spot and forward prices falling ⅛d. to 32d. and 31 15/16d. per oz. respectively, owing to lack of support. Gold remained at 84s. 11½d. per fine oz. The Bank of England sold bar gold valued at £333,000.

For the first occasion since November 10 the American exchange closed higher, the rate rising ⅛ to slightly over 4.84½. South American currencies were uncertain, Argentine dollars being dull. French francs lost much of the previous day's appreciation, the quotation rising to nearly 122¼, and lire were a shade worse. Norwegian and Danish kroner reacted, and there was a bigger movement than usual adverse to the country in Roumanian lei. Turkish piastres and Dutch florins were also a little cheaper, but pesetas were rather better. The Eastern exchanges were steady to firm. The Bombay rate rose to 1s. 6 1/16d., and the Hong Kong dollar was better at 2s. 4½d. The yen also recovered to 1s. 9 1/16d.

TIN PLATES, ANTIMONY and QUICKSILVER unaltered.

GLASGOW IRON AND STEEL.—Demand moderate for structural steel. In some instances steel bars, from their cheapness, preferred to iron bars. Boiler plates £11 10/- per ton. Pigiron bookings spasmodic. Scrap demand improved; prices inclined to stiffen. Two moderately important Clyde shipbuilding contracts reported, while Ayrshire Dockyard Company Irvine will make six large crane pontoons for shipment abroad.

STORE CATTLE SALES.

GAVIN LOW, LTD.

The store cattle sale on Thursday last was composed of many useful lots of good quality feeding bullocks and heifers, and some very nice young Herefords and A.A.'s. Prices, owing to the restrictions on movement imposed in England, were difficult to maintain, but home demand made the sale successful, and a good clearance was effected. The undermentioned quotations will be a guide to transactions completed:—Angus and Hereford cross bullocks and heifers averaged from 46/- to 49/- per cwt., live weight; horned and polled bullocks, from £20 5/- to £15, or from 37/- to 43/- per cwt. Heifers were more numerous than usual, and averaged about 42/- per cwt.

MESSRS. GANLY, SONS AND CO.

The supplies on Thursday were somewhat less than the numbers offered last week. There was a good attendance of local buyers, but few shippers. The demand for good cattle was quite as good as of late, and the majority of those offered were placed at prices well up to recent averages. Last week's top quotation, however, was not reached. There was a good demand for nice, well-bred, young cattle, and a fair clearance effected. Horned and Polly bullocks made from £22 5/- to £18 10/- (44/- to 38/- per cwt.); heifers, £21 10/- to £19 5/- (35/- to 42/- per cwt.); A.A. and Hereford crosses, £21 to £18 5/- (46/- to 43/- per cwt.).

PRODUCE AND FOOD MARKETS.

CATTLE.

BIRKENHEAD.—Cattle on spot were in shorter supply, owing to about 1,500 head being held up in the Mersey owing to fog, but these were expected to land during the day. Best bullocks and heifers made 9d. to 9½d., secondary sorts were a poor trade at 8½d. to 8d., bulls 6½d. to 5d. Lamb trade very bad at prices ranging from 1/- to 1/2, sheep 9d. to 1/- per lb., sinking the offal. On offer—1,699 cattle, and 2,145 sheep and lambs.

PIGS.—Borrisoleigh (Wednesday)—90 pigs at scales; all bought by one buyer at 75/-. Birr (Wednesday).—About 100 pigs, all on scales at 75/-. Portarlington (Thursday).—44 pigs for two buyers at 77/-. Roscrea (Thursday).—Lively buying was manifested. Nominally sales were 7/-, but six waggons were booked at considerably more money. One sale ticket showed £18 5/- for two 19½ stone pigs.

GRAIN

DUBLIN CORN EXCHANGE.—The attendance of the trade here continues poor and business of limited volume. In fact, sales appear to be mostly of retail character to cover actual consumptive requirements. Good bulking grain, especially oats, rather more stiffly quoted, but light qualities attract little attention. Irish wheat 28/- to 32/- and 33/- per barrel. Barley prices untested, and remain nominally inside of 18/- to 19/- for malting and 14/6 to 17/6 for other sorts. White oats 14/- to 14/6 and 15/-, blacks 12/- to 12/6, something 12/9 and 13/- for extra nice quality.

FLOATING GRAIN CARGOES.—BALTIC—WHEAT—A firm tone governed the market for floating and forward cargoes in sympathy with higher American advices and a fair demand, sellers being more reserved, and prices marked a rise of 9d. to 1/- per qr. for most descriptions. The Ryburn, 21,000 qrs. No. 1 Northern Manitoba, expected to load 22nd Nov. sold 56/-, and the Gorbea Mendi, 27,500 qrs. No. 1 and No. 2 ditto, 23rd-25th Nov loading at 55/6 and 54/6 respectively; No. 1 ditto afloat sellers 56/3, Nov.-Dec. 56/-, Pacific Dec. 58/-, Australian Dec.-Jan. 55/6, Jan.-Feb. 55/-, Rosafe 62½lbs. loading 56/6, Jan.-Feb. 55/9, and Barusso 63lbs. Jan.-Feb. 51/9. Parcels also firmer and in steady support: No. 1 Northern Manitoba shipping or shipped sold 56/6, Oct.-Nov. 56/-, Nov.-Dec. 55/6, No. 3 tough ditto shipping or shipped 53/-, No. 2 mixed Durum Nov 52/-, Australian Dec.-Jan. sellers 55/3, and Rosafe 63lbs. Jan.-Feb. 55/9 per 480lbs. Wheat cargoes—Rugby, 7,200 tons No. 1 and No. 2 Northern Manitoba Nov. 15th sold 56/1½ and 55/1½ respectively: Willowpool, 3,816 tons No. 1 ditto and 3,360 tons No. 2 Nov. 5th 55/- and 55/-; Daphne, 5,000 tons Rosafe 62lbs., shipping or shipped, 56/3; 7,000 tons Australian Dec.-Jan. to India at 55/6; the Ryburn, 21,000 qrs. No. 1 Northern Manitoba Nov. 22nd sold 56/- and re-sold 56/7½. Parcels of No. 1 Northern Manitoba Oct.-Nov. sold 56/6, and Dec.-Jan. 55/9. MAIZE—The Holtby, 5,500 tons Plate Nov. 20th sold 36/4½; the Erissos, 5,000 tons ditto Nov. 14th 36/4½, 5,500 tons ditto Nov.-Dec. 36/4½, the Mathias, 4,000 tons Dan.-Gal.-Fox. Nov 17th sold 36/3, 4,000 tons, half Bessarabian and half Dan.-Gal.-Fox. Nov.-Dec. 36/9 and 34/9 respectively. Maize firmly held, owing to light Plate shipments and a fair general inquiry. The Cleopatra, 5,850 tons Plate expected ready to load Nov. sold 36/4½, and the Cento, 5,324 tons No. 5 yellow African, bulk 393 tons bags 23rd Oct. bill of lading, at 35/3 net. Plate steamers afloat sellers 36/6, Nov-Dec. 36/6, Dan.-Gal.-Fox. Nov.-Dec. 34/9, and No. 2 white flat African Nov-Dec. 34/-. Parcels fully steady: Plate Oct.-Nov. sold 35/10½ to 36/- and Nov-Dec. 35/6 to 35/7½ per 480lbs. BARLEY maintained. LIVERPOOL.—WHEAT—The sharp rise in America and the Argentine was reflected here at the outset, when forward deliveries of wheat showed a considerable advance, but receded to a liberal extent; then prices again moved upwards on a good demand for c.i.f. parcels and shorts covering, while sellers were difficult to find, and, although moderate fluctuations took place, the market finished strong, almost up at the best point, and marked a heavy rise on Thursday afternoon cables having little effect. C.i.f. parcels of No. 1 Manitoba November sold at 56/3, October-November 56/1½ to 56/3, Nov.-Dec. and December-January 55/3; No. 2 Manitoba (tough) November (Vancouver) 54/6, due end December 55/-, Rosario-Santa Fe loaded 55/9 to 56/3 per quarter. PROVISIONS.

LIVERPOOL.—Irish and Danish BACON still firm and in fair demand, with prices tending upwards. Canadian Wiltshires scarce at fully late prices. Holders of American bacon here remain firm and ask fully late rates for all cuts, the supplies being still small and demand fair, but no quotable change reported. HAMS firm and in fair demand at fully late rates. Shoulders scarce at late prices for squares, while New Yorks and picnics remain nominal. LARD on the spot nominal for prime steam, but American refined 1/6 per cwt. dearer in sympathy with Chicago, now held at 84/6 to 86/6 per cwt., with a fair trade reported. CHEESE firm and in fair demand at higher prices of 114/- to 116/- per cwt. for both Canadian white and coloured. BUTTER attracts more attention, though Canadian offered at 194/- to 198/- per cwt. EGGS firm at 36/- to 38/- for best Irish hen, 18/6 to 19/- Canadian and 10/9 to 11/- Egyptian per 120.

LIVERPOOL REFINED LARD "FUTURES."—The sharp rise in Chicago was reflected here, and prices improved 6d. to 1/- per cwt. during the early session, though demand was less active; November sold at 83/6, December 80/6 to 80/9, January 76/6 to 76/9, May 75/6, September 75/3, cash ex quay quoted 83/- to 83/9 and store 83/6 sellers. With easier late afternoon cables prices receded somewhat, closing only 6d. to 9d. net over last night: November sold at 83/6 to 83/-, December 80/9 to 80/6, January 76/3, May quoted 75/- to 75/3, cash ex quay 83/3, store 83/6 sellers.

LONDON.—EGGS—The general position remains firm, with good demand, especially for the best qualities, with moderate supplies available. Quotations—English 32/- to 35/-, Danish 18lb. 32/- to 34/-, 16lb. 30/- to 31/-; Dutch all-brown 30/- to 32/-, mixed 27/- to 30/-; French all-brown 24/- to 26/-, medium 20/- to 22/-; Britanny 18/- to 19/-, Belgian 29/- to 30/-, Italian—Northern new laid 17lb. 23/- to 25/-, 16lb. 22/- to 23/-, 15lb. 21/-, Southern 17/-; Jugo-Slavian, Servian, also Hungarian 17/-; Russian best 15/6 to 16/6, ordinary 13/6 to 14/6; Argentine 15/- to 16/6, Australian 22/- to 24/-, all per 120. BUTTER—There was an improved demand this week for new season's Colonial, and business now resumes more normal dimensions. The exception, however, is butter from cold storage, and which is difficult of sale. Germany again figures as a buyer in Denmark and Holland, while certain parcels have also been purchased in the London market. Dry weather in Australia has curtailed production there. New Zealand finest salted 206/- to 208/-, good to fine 196/- to 200/-, unsalted 208/- to 210/-; Australian finest salted 194/- to 198/-, good to fine 176/- to 190/-, inferior 160/- to 170/-, unsalted from 160/- to 200/-; Argentine finest unsalted 166/- to 172/-, good to fine 160/- to 164/-; Danish 218/-, Dutch 210/- to 212/-, French salted baskets 192/- to 204/-, Esthonian 196/- to 200/-, Latvian 182/- to 188/-, Siberian 162/- to 172/- per cwt.; Dutch rolls 23/6 to 24/6, French ditto 22/- to 24/- per dozen lbs. CHEESE—English meets a firm market. More doing in Canadian, but prices disclose slight irregularity; Dutch firmer owing to German inquiries. Make in New Zealand, so far, is smaller than last year. English finest farmers quoted 140/- to 145/-, good to fine 125/- to 135/-, loaf 135/- to 145/- per cwt. Stilton 1/3 to 1/10 per lb.; Canadian white and coloured 113/- to 118/-, New Zealand ditto 112/- to 114/-, Dutch Edam 45 p.c. 118/-, 40 p.c. 98/- to 105/-, 30 p.c. 88/- to 91/-, 20 p.c. 74/- to 78/-; Gouda 45 p.c. 112/- to 118/-, 40 p.c. 101/- to 104/-, 30 p.c. 87/-, 20 p.c. 74/- to 76/- per cwt. BACON—The general course of trade is slow, but owing to strong markets in the North of England for baled cured, due to shortness of American, prices have further advanced; Danish supplies are much less than generally expected, and there does not seem to be any material surplus in any of the producing countries. Officially Irish advanced 5/- to 6/-, Danish and Swedish 4/- to 5/-, Dutch, also Canadian 4/-: Irish quoted 130/- to 140/-, Danish 125/- to 130/-, Swedish 121/- to 126/-, Dutch 120/- to 125/-, Canadian 120/- to 124/-, Russian 110/- to 114/-, Esthonian 110/- to 116/- per cwt. HAMS met a steady demand and a firm tone prevailed. English quoted from 180/- to 224/-, American long cut 139/- to 147/-, short 122/- to 130/-; Canadian long 128/- to 134/-, short 120/- to 134/- per cwt. LARD received fair support, and the market closed steadily; American boxes quoted 86/- to 87/9, pails 91/3, cartons 90/- to 92/- per cwt.

MANCHESTER—BUTTER—Danish official quotation wired 4 kroner higher; top now stands at 396 kroner per 100 kilos, against 392 the previous week and 339 the corresponding period last year. Firm ... of all descriptions. Irish creameries offer a very small quantity and prices nominal. Danish ... qualities quoted 220/- to 222/-, special dairies ..., Swedish 210/- to 212/-, Finnish 210/- to 214/-, Canadian 206/- to 210/-. Australian and New Zealand nominal. BACON—Irish 60-68lb. average offals 8/-, 70-80lb. and 81-90lb. 7/-, Danish and Dutch 10/-, and Swedish 11/- higher. Available supplies clear readily and market continues strong. Irish, 60-68lb. 137/-, 70-80lb. 134/-, 81-90lb. 130/-, all foregoing prices ex factory; North of Ireland 152/- to 158/- according to weight and cure; Danish 13?/- to 144/-, Swedish 133/- to 141/-, Dutch 13?/- to 136/-, Canadian 126/- to 130/-. LARD lower; English refined 88/-, boxes, wholesale; American 84/6 according to brand. CHEESE—Finest Cheshire and Lancashire held for full rates. Canadian quiet; September makes quoted 114/- to 117/-, later makes quiet, 111/- to 113/-. EGGS—Fresh firm, clearing readily; Irish and Danish nominal; Dutch 31/6, Russians 15/- to 17/6, Polish 15/-, Egyptians 10/9 to 11/-; Irish, stored 18/-, pickled 16/-, English, cold stored, 19/-; Danish, pickled, 15½lbs. 17/-, 18lbs. 19/-.

DUBLIN FRUIT AND VEGETABLE.—Imported fruit continues in fair supply, but trade most stagnant and discouraging to sellers. American apples: Ben Davis 30/- to 34/- per barrel, Kings 32/- to 38/-, Yorks 32/- to 35/-, greenings 32/- to 36/- per barrel, Jonathans 15/- to 17/- per box, Newtowns 18/- to 20/-, winesaps 17/- to 20/-; Jaffa oranges 17/- to 18/- per case, Jamaicas 24/- to 26/-; black grapes 1/6 to 2/-, Alemeria 10/- to 15/- and 25/- per barrel; pears 32/- to 35/- per barrel and 30/- to 35/- per case; English tomatoes 13/6 per strike 12lbs., Canary 4/6 to 5/6 and 6/-; Malaga lemons 420 case 30/- to 35/-; Irish apples 1/6 to 2/6 and 3/- per tray, and 15/- to 24/- and 26/- per barrel. Vegetables, with the exception of Broccoli, in fair supply; cabbage a wretchedly poor, dragging sale; sprouts, celery and good Broccoli sold satisfactorily; selected Broccoli 2/6 to 4/6 and 4/9 per dozen, inferior 8d. to 1/6; sprouts 2/9 to 3/9 and 4/- per float, etc., and 3/3 to 4/6 and 5/- per half-bushel; celery 2/- to 4/-, 6/6, and special 7/- and 8/- per bundle. Swede turnips 2/- to 2/5 per cwt.; parsnips 4/- to 5/- per bag; carrots 1/8 to 2/3 and 2/6 per dozen bundles; York cabbage 12/- to 20/-, and special loads 24/- to 28/-. Savoys 10/- to 14/- per load; white turnips 4d. to 10d. per bunch; lettuce 4d. to 5d. per dozen; tomatoes 7d., 8d. and 9d. per lb.; beet 1/- to 2/- per dozen; parsley 6d. to 8d. and 10d. per tray, etc.; sage 2/- to 2/6 per dozen bunches; thyme 4d. to 8d. per bunch; mint 5d. to 7d.

DUBLIN POTATO.—No change in value of potatoes. A good deal of indifferent table qualities about. Best red clay qualities are giving most satisfaction. Town prices continue inside 4/- to 4/6 and 5/- per cwt. Provincial arrivals and offers give ample scope.

DUBLIN POULTRY (Halston street).—Supplies continue on about an average level with recent consignments from country and local sources. Trade remains good for choice quality chickens and ducklings, but geese and turkeys are not selling so well, and with rather more irregularity in price. However, a clearance was ultimately accomplished at current rates. Prime chickens 1/- to 1/2 per lb., Surrey and crammed fowl proportionately more; light and small chickens, say, 8d. to 10d. per lb., or much as before—viz. 1/6 to 2/- each; large fat hens are 2/- to 2/6 each, others 1/- to 1/9; turkeys are averaging from 10d. to 1/- and 1/2 per lb., inferior sorts 5/- to 7/- each; prime fat geese 8d. to 10d. per lb., stubble 4/6 to 5/6 each, live stores 4/- to 5/- each; prime large fat ducks 3/- to 3/6, seconds 1/6 to 2/6, old ducks 9d., fat 1/- each; hares 2/6 to 3/6 each, cock pheasants 4/6 to 5/-, hens 4/- to 4/6; grouse 2/- to 2/6, partridge 1/6 to 2/-, woodcock 1/9 to 2/-, snipe 1/4 to 1/6 each, wild duck 1/6 to 2/6 each, rabbits, fresh 1/4 to 1/6 each, widgeon 10d. to 1/-, teal 8d. to 10d., snipe 6d. to 10d. each, grey plover 8d. to 10d., green 6d. each.

DUBLIN BUTTER AND EGG.—There is rather a firmer turn in butter markets locally, but at most only a fractional advance has been obtainable on strictly fine qualities of creams; others much as before. Supplies of fine quality creams show some shrinkage, but secondary descriptions remain plentiful enough. Arrivals of Danish butter due this week are not yet to hand, and prices for delivery, when forward, are 1/11½ to 1/11¾ per lb. In the event of next week's Danish shipments prices advance 4/- per cwt. or more, which, of course, will naturally stiffen prospective terms here, and possibly give a further firmer tone to native creams. There is not much encouragement in butter trade as reflected from the other side of Channel. Choice creams are quoted here 1/9½ to 1/10 per lb., and for special dairies and 28lb. pyramids 1/10½ per lb., but purely secondary quality creams are yet obtainable around 1/9½ and secondaries 1/8 to 1/9½ per lb. Fine factories are quoted from 1/7 to 1/8½, and occasionally 1/9 per lb., whilst ordinary descriptions are around 1/5 to 1/6 per lb. Farmers' butter also scarce; firkins only are worth quoting, and these figure around 1/5 per lb. Fine quality cools and separators make up to 1/7, or perhaps more if available; coarser sorts from 1/3 per lb., but for farmers' butter prices here are mostly nominal. Prime fresh EGGS continue scarce, and prices are particularly firm, whilst the high figures to which they have attained is seriously checking the consumptive demand. Small and medium classes of eggs are very difficult to move in competition with cold storage and pickled sorts, which are making from 19/- to 20/- per 120, whilst country smalls and mediums may be reckoned as from 26/- to 30/- per 120, and selected retail lots from this class, perhaps 1/- or 2/- more per 120. Duck eggs in moderate supply, and selected repacked lots are realising 30/- to 32/- per 120; there may be occasional exceptions above and below these figures.

CORK BUTTER.—The market continues steady and quiet. Creameries 200/- to 202/- per cwt., choicest mild 200/-, farmers' fresh parcels 164/-.

IRISH BUTTER QUOTATION.—The Irish Dairy (Producers and Shippers) Association have fixed for the week ending Thursday next, 26th November, 200/- per cwt. for choicest salted butter in boxes, wholesale, nett, free on rail, Ireland. Special dairies extra.

DUBLIN FISH.—Moderate fish supply, principally country consignments with small selection. Values much under yesterday's currencies. Over 425 packages herrings came in, and 150 boxes mackerel, also 7 chests lobsters. Best lobsters averaged 12/6 to 17/6 and 20 per 13, others 5/- to 10/- per 13; turbot 1/- to 1/2, brill 6d. to 4/- each; best soles 35/- to 45/- per 9 pairs, mediums 15/- to 25/-, slips 5/- to 12/6 per 9 pairs; half-boxes plaice 20/- to 60/- and 65/-, codfish 20/- to 25/- and 35/-, country whiting 20/- to 30/-, inferior 15/-, ray 10/- to 12/6, herrings, best 10/- to 13/- per box, soft 8/- to 11/-; herrings also 22/- to 28/- per barrel; mackerel 9/- to 14/- per box, stale around 7/-.

BILLINGSGATE FISH.—Supply liberal; demand good. Soles 15d. to 18d., slips 14d. to 18d. per lb.; live eels 15/- to 25/-, dead 10/- to 20/- per draught; turbot 9/- to 12/-, brill 7/- to 10/-, plaice 7/- to 11/-, halibut 12/- to 16/-, lemon soles 9/- to 15/-, whitches 5/- to 8/-, whiting 2/- to 4/-, hake 6/- to 8/-, skate 4/- to 6/-, cod 4/- to 5/-, haddocks 4/- to 6/- per stone.

American granulated spot 27/1½, Canadian 27/3, white Java May-June London sold 15/3, c.i.f. terms. COFFEE—Spot quietly steady. TEA—Private contract market very firm, with fair general demand. RICE steadily held, but trade slow; 1,000 tons two star new crop January-February sold 15/3, c.i.f. London. Japanese peas dearer, and December sold 30/-. SPICE—Pepper firmer forward; Lampong black October-December sold 11½d., January-March 1/0½. Muntok October-December 1/3½, January-March 1/4¾. Groundnuts quiet; Coromandel machined January-February sold £21 7/6 and February-March £21 5/- per ton to Liverpool.

CLYDE CRUSHED SUGAR.—American reports are again better, causing an improvement in the tone of the market. Demand, however, is still rather slow and confined mainly to ready sugars, which are steady.

MISCELLANEOUS

LIVERPOOL COTTON.—American futures—Market quiet and prices weakened on bearish crop accounts. Closed barely steady. Spot sales, 5,000 bales (sales for export included in above, 500 bales). American futures—Tendency barely steady: November 10.25d., December 10.26d., January 10.25d., February 10.23d., March 10.28d., April 10.26d., May 10.29d., June 10.23d., July 10.21d., August 10.11d., September 10.05d., October 9.99d., November 9.93d. Egyptian futures—Tendency barely steady.

MANCHESTER TRADE.—Some stimulus is required to improve the tone of an extremely slow and depressing market. Meanwhile business is feeble and restricted. Small lines in shirtings get through from India. Of other outlets South America and Continent relatively most promising. Home trade slow. American yarns easier in quotation and frequently pressed for sale. Egyptians in subdued demand.

DUBLIN HAY AND STRAW (Smithfield).—Supplies of hay balked a fair market, but choice strong qualities still come forward sparingly. The condition of stuff, in the main, showed a suspicion of dampness, but there was, nevertheless, an improved all-round sale, and for dry qualities, particularly from Co. Dublin sheds, values proved decidedly firmer to occasionally dearer. Prime first crop hay 6/3 to 6/6 and 6/9, second and third crop 5/6 to 6/- and 6/3, best old meadow hay 5/- to 5/6, fair 3/9 to 4/9, inferior 3/3 to 3/6. Straw market again fair, but insufficient supply to draw upon, and there was an active sell up. Wheaten straw worth 4/3 to 5/-, oaten 4/4 to 4/9, baled straw around 4/3 per cwt.

DESTRUCTIVE CORK FIRE.

A lock-up fruit and confectionery shop in Anglesea street, Cork, the property of a Mrs. Harvey, was destroyed by fire yesterday morning. On the arrival of the Brigade the flames had secured a firm hold, and the firefighters confined their efforts to preventing the spread of the fire to the adjoining houses.

CO. MEATH FISHERY PROSECUTIONS.

CATCHING TROUT IN CLOSE SEASON.

At Athboy District Sessions the Conservators of the Boyne Fisheries summoned James Farrelly, Mullaghanstown, Athboy, for having in his possession 21 trout, caught in the close season.

Sergeant Murphy, Athy, lately stationed in Athboy, said that defendant admitted having the trout.

Mr. Mooney, solicitor, appeared for the defendant and said that there appeared to have been some misunderstanding as regards the close season. Defendant was a respectable young man and was out of work.

Justice McCarthy imposed a fine of 1d. per trout and £5 costs.

At Longwood District Sessions the Conservators summoned Peter McManus, Inchimore, Castlerickard; Patrick McEvoy, Lion's Den, Castlerickard, and John Regan, Castlerickard, for taking salmon, on June 24th last, at Ashfield Bridge, by means of a cross rod, they not being duly licensed to do so. McManus and Regan were further summoned for having a gaff on June 29th last.

An agreement was reached, the defendants agreeing to pay £6 towards the costs, and McManus and Regan submitted to a fine of 1s. each, with costs. In the summons for having a gaff, a fine of 1s. each was imposed on McManus and Regan. The summonses in respect of the cross lines were marked "adjourned."

Justice McCarthy said that Mr. Tallon (solicitor for the Conservators) had taken a very lenient attitude.

Mr. Tallon—The Conservators are relying on those men.

Defendants stated that they had the ordinary licence to fish; they did not use cross lines, and did not know what they were.

The Justice said that he was satisfied an offence had been committed.

After a discussion between the solicitors, the above decision was come to.

YESTERDAY'S CASES IN THE COURTS.

CALLS ON SHARES.

ACTION FOR £21,000.

(BEFORE MR. JUSTICE O'SHAUGHNESSY.)

In the case of the Direct Fish Supplies, Ltd., an English company, against Frederick Robert Browne,

Mr. Moloney (instructed by Messrs. Barrington and Son) applied ex parte for an order for the discovery of documents. He said that the action was for £21,000, balance due in respect of calls on shares. The defendant was one of the directors of the company, and there was a great deal of correspondence and documents in connection with the matter.

Mr. Justice O'Shaughnessy made the order sought.

DUBLIN SOLICITOR'S COSTS.

FINAL JUDGMENT MOTION.

In the case of John Minton, practising as John H. Menton and Co., Fleet street, Dublin, against John Doolan, senior, and John Doolan, junior, of Rape Mills, Birr, King's County,

Mr. Hector Hughes (instructed by Messrs. Menton and Co.), on behalf of the plaintiff, applied for final judgment for £70 5s. 5d., alleged to be due as solicitor's and clients' costs. Counsel said that the amount was due in respect of an action which his lordship tried last June for damages for malicious prosecution, brought by father and son against a man called Stephens. The solicitor furnished his bill of costs and wrote to the defendants on several occasions, but the defendants took no notice of the letters, and the plaintiff was forced to issue a writ, to which an appearance was entered for the purpose of delay.

Mr. Justice O'Shaughnessy said that he would give final judgment for the amount of the costs when taxed.

A LEITRIM ESTATE.

VALUED AT MORE THAN £80,000.

(BEFORE MR. JUSTICE HANNA.)

An application was made for the appointment of an administrator pending the determination of a suit touching the validity of the will of the late Wilton Vaugh, of Abbeyview House, Dromahair, Co. Leitrim. The value of the estate was estimated at from £80,000 to £120,000.

Mr. Denning, K.C., with whom was Mr. Lavery (instructed by Messrs. Hoey and Denning) made the application on behalf of the plaintiffs, Francis La Touche Vaugh, 15 Palmerston Park, Dublin, and David Clarke, of Carrick-on-Shannon, executors. Counsel said that the will was disputed by the defendants, Mrs. Susan Vaugh, widow, and her daughter, Mrs. Charlotte La Touche Whyte. It was suggested that either of the plaintiffs or Mr. David Telford, of Trinity Chambers, Dublin, should be appointed administrator. There were large sums coming in as tolls of markets and from property from which small weekly rents were received. It was agreed that Mr. David Telford would be an adirable person to appoint, and counsel asked that the question of his remuneration should be reserved.

Mr. Justice Hanna said that the usual form was that he would account and accept such remuneration as would be fixed by the Court.

Mr. Geoghegan, K.C., with whom was Mr. Fergus O'Connor (instructed by Mr. P. O'Flynn), for the defendants said that he did not think there would be any difficulty. One matter that he wished to mention was that, in addition to the very large estate of the testator, there was property of Mrs. Vaugh to the amount of £4,000, which she brought into the settlement in 1884 at the time of the marriage, and the late Mr. Vaugh was one of the trustees. There were numbers of documents that Mr. Telford must get, but the view of Mrs. Vaugh and her daughter was that the marriage settlement documents should be retained. If, however, it was more convenient, he did not see any objection to giving them to Mr. Telford.

Mr. Denning said that he did not think that any difficulty would arise. Mr. Telford would be the personal representative for the time being of Mr. Vaugh, and would be bound to account for the documents.

Mr. Geoghegan said that he would advise Mrs. Vaugh to give all the documents.

The Court made an order appointing Mr. Telford administrator.

A DEED OF ASSIGNMENT.

QUESTION OF JURISDICTION.

(BEFORE MR. JUSTICE MEREDITH.)

Judgment was delivered in favour of the defendants in the action brought by Lord Midleton, of Peper Harow, Godalming, Surrey, against Mrs. Frances Chester, widow, Tramore, County Waterford, and Mr. Thomas E. G. Wallis, solicitor, Midleton, County Cork, claiming a declaration that a certain deed of assignment of a farm of land, made between Mrs. Chester and Mr. Wallis on 6th November, was fraudulent and void; an order directing that the deed should be delivered up and cancelled. It had been pleaded in the defence that it was a voluntary assignment of the land, without consideration, and when the case came on for hearing recently it was submitted on behalf of the defendants that the Court had no jurisdiction to hear it, and that the action should have been brought in the Land Commission Court, as it dealt with the exercise of the landlord's right of pre-emption under the Land Act of 1881.

Mr. Justice Meredith, adopting that view, that he had no jurisdiction and that the proceedings should have been taken in the Land Commission Court, dismissed the action, with costs.

Mr. Wood, K.C.; Mr. Reardon, and Mr. Maloney (instructed by Mr. W. J. Barry), appeared for the plaintiff; Mr. Leonard, K.C., and Mr. Hallinan (instructed by Mr. M. J. Maloney), for Mrs. Chester; and Mr. Jellett, K.C.; Mr. J. M. Fitzgerald, K.C.; and Mr. J. A. McCarthy (instructed by Mr. T. E. G. Wallis), for Mr. Wallis.

COMMISSIONERS FOR OATHS.

In the Supreme Court yesterday, the Chief Justice appointed Seamus McAuliffe, District Court Clerk, Kilmallock, a Commissioner for Oaths for the districts of Kilmallock and Kilfinane.

Mr. M. J. Ryan (instructed by Mr. James T. Liston) appeared for Mr. McAuliffe.

The application of Mr. John O'Donnell, of Kilmallock, for a similar appointment, was adjourned for a decision as to whether Mr. McAuliffe's appointment would be sufficient for the requirements of the district.

Mr. Robert Holmes (instructed by Mr. Hugh O'Brien Moran) appeared for Mr. O'Donnell.

SALE OF A DUBLIN PUBLIC-HOUSE.

In the Bankruptcy Court yesterday, before Mr. Justice Johnston, an application was made on behalf of Michael Davy for an order directing Jeremiah Duggan and his sister, Mrs. O'Neill, to carry out their contract to sell their interest in a licensed house in Lower Liffey street, Dublin, to him for the sum of £3,000. The licensee of the house, Edmond O'Neill, was adjudicated a bankrupt a few months ago. Duggan, for the benefit of his sister, bought the house by private sale under the Court for £3,000, the arrangement being that the creditors should be paid 7s. 6d. in the £. Duggan, according to counsel's statement, not being able to find the whole of the purchase money, arranged to sell the place to Mr. Davy for £3,000.

The bankrupt's counsel, now applied that the sale to Mr. Duggan and Mrs. O'Neill under the Court should be set aside, on the ground that the house and licence were worth about £4,000, and that, if they had been put up to public auction, that price, or more, would be realised. It was mentioned that more than one intending purchaser had offered £3,500.

It was stated that the £3,000 was sufficient to pay off certain mortgages and the other creditors, and that, therefore, to sell the place at £3,000 would be doing an injustice to the bankrupt, who would be entitled to the surplus.

Mr. Justice Johnston said that the bankrupt, in his statement of affairs, had set down the value of the premises at £2,700. He saw no reason for rescinding the sale to Duggan and Mrs. O'Neill, and he had come to the conclusion that £3,000 was not at all a bad price. A sale of this kind ought to be rescinded only when the Court was convinced beyond doubt that an injustice was being done. He did not think that any injustice had been done, and, therefore, he refused the bankrupt's motion, and made an order in favour of Mr. Davy.

Mr. Costello, K.C., and Mr. L. O'Doherty (instructed by Mr. H. Dixon) appeared for Mr. Davy.

Mr. Blood, K.C. (instructed by Mr. T. J. Graham), appeared for the bankrupt.

Mr. Geoghegan, K.C., appeared for Mr. James Fagan, solicitor, who had acted for Mr. Duggan and Mrs. O'Neill.

Messrs. Hayes and Sons appeared for the assignees, and Messrs. E. F. Collins and Son appeared for the National Bank.

DUBLIN CIRCUIT COURT

JURY DISAGREES.

RAID ON BOOKMAKER'S ESTABLISHMENT.

(BEFORE JUDGE DROMGOOLE.)

Harold McKenna, Dalkey, was indicted for assaulting Bernard Byrne, Kingstown, while armed, with intent to rob him, and pleaded not guilty. The jury disagreed, and he was put back.

Byrne gave evidence that he and another man were carrying on a bookmaker's business at 4 Kelly's avenue, Kingstown. On Saturday, 4th July last, at about 3 p.m., two men, the prisoner and a man named Keyes, entered the office and demanded money. McKenna produced a revolver, but witness told them that he did not care about the revolver and would give no money. He caught hold of Keyes in the hope of escaping if a shot were fired. (Laughter.) He shouted: "Police, father, father"; and when his father came to his assistance Keyes was secured. McKenna escaped, but was arrested later.

The defence was an alibi, the accused stating, on oath, that he was not in Kingstown at the time of the attempted robbery.

George Boyd, William McGrath, Minnie McGrath, Thomas Murphy and a number of other witnesses from Dalkey were also examined in support of the alibi.

Mr. Kough (instructed by Mr. James Brady) defended.

MARRIED MAN'S OFFENCE.

Convicted of rape, the victim being a little girl, aged 10 years, Thomas Kelly, a married man, of Upper Dorset street, Dublin, was sentenced to seven years' penal servitude. It was stated that Kelly was suffering from a certain disease at the time of the offence, which was committed at Bohernabreena, Oldbawn, Co. Dublin.

NOTICE TO JURORS.

City jurors will not be required to attend until December 1st.

DUBLIN DISTRICT COURT.

THE BERGIN MURDER.

EX-ARMY OFFICER SENT FOR TRIAL.

(BEFORE MR. CUSSEN.)

Joseph Mack, an ex-officer of the National Army, was returned for trial, in custody, on the charge of having conspired with James Murray, an ex-Captain of the National Army, and others, to murder Joseph Bergin, a military policeman, at the Curragh in December, 1923.

Mr. Bewley (instructed by Mr. O'Flaherty, State Solicitor's Office), prosecuted, and Mr. P. H. O'Reilly defended.

Colonel Costello, Director of Army Intelligence, gave evidence of Capt. Murray calling at the office in Parkgate street on December 18th, 1923—the evening before the murder of Bergin. The witness went from his office to the transport yard with Murray and gave a message to Private Cleary, the driver of witness's car. He did not see the car leave the barracks.

Cross-examined, the witness said that Private Cleary's statement at a previous trial that the witness came from his office into the transport yard in company with three men was not true. Neither was it true what Cleary had sworn in the present trial that one of the three men supposed to come out of the office with the witness was the accused man, Mack. Murray was the only one who accompanied the witness from the office to the yard.

The accused man, the witness added, was attached to the Intelligence Department in December, 1923, and remained in that department on continuous duty up to March, 1924. The Intelligence Department, in conjunction with the police, had made every effort to trace the perpetrators of the Bergin murder.

Sergeant John Hackett, Civic Guard, gave evidence of finding the dead body of Joseph Bergin in a canal at Milltown, Co. Kildare.

Mr. Bewley said that that was all the evidence, and he asked that the accused be returned for trial to the High Court Circuit Court.

Mr. O'Reilly asked for bail.

The Justice said that if he returned the accused man for trial it would be in custody, but he would like to recall Cleary before doing anything.

Driver Cleary, recalled, was asked by the Justice how it was that in the deposition he swore the accused man was dressed in a green leather coat coming out of Colonel Costello's office, while in the information sworn before the Justice on which accused was arrested, he swore that the coat was of another colour.

The witness said that, to the best of his belief, Mack was dressed in a green cloth coat.

Mack was returned for trial to the High Court Circuit Court.

£600 JEWELLERY ROBBERY.

(BEFORE MR. E. J. LITTLE.)

Peter Grant, described as a painter, of Great Longford street, was remanded for a week, in custody, on a charge of having broken into the premises of Messrs. Jameson, jewellers, 40 Henry street, and stolen a quantity of jewellery, consisting of 14 gents' gold-filled watches, 3 gents' gold watches, 6 ladies' gold watches, 60 gold wristlet watches, 34 silver and nickel watches, 30 gold brooches, 109 gold wedding and keeper rings, and 8 rolled gold lockets.

There were further charges of receiving, and being in possession of some of the property when arrested at Aungier street on Thursday.

Detective-Sergeant Dawson said that, accompanied by Detective-Sergeant Lynch, and Officers Quinn and Byrne, he went to a publichouse in Aungier street between 7 and 8 o'clock on Thursday evening, and there saw Grant having a drink with another man. On searching Grant they found a gold wristlet watch in his pocket. When questioned about it he said that he got the watch from a man in the shop about five minutes before. Asked to point out the man, Grant went from the "snug" to the general counter, and indicating an empty tumbler on the counter, said: "He must have seen you, as he is gone." At the police station, when charged, he said: "If you give me two hours out I will locate all the stuff." When charged that morning he replied that he would not say anything at present.

Detective-Sergeant Lynch, asking for a remand, said that the accused man was awaiting trial on another charge.

FREE STATE SAVINGS.

THRIFT IN THE COUNTIES.

The total amount invested in Irish Free State Savings Certificates (to 31st October, 1925) was £1,678,297 (representing 2,165,545 certificates), made up as follows:—

Sales to persons living within the Free State, £1,640,300; sales to others, £37,997—total, £1,678,297.

The cash sales for the County Dublin are the highest, standing at £432,957, County Cork coming next with £262,265, and County Limerick third with £96,867. The County Leitrim, with £15,449, is lowest on the list.

DEFECTS OF THE BLIND PERSONS ACT.

Mr. J. P. Neary, Secretary to the Irish Association for the Blind, writes to call attention to the "injustice" inflicted on the sightless through the administration of Clause 2 of the Blind Persons Act. He mentions the case of a blind pensioner, who, according to the City Commissioners' amended scheme, was entitled to 12s. a week, plus his pension of 9s. a week, from Clause 1 of the Act. A death in his family involved him in £12 funeral expenses, and he had to ask assistance from some of his former employers to pay the debt. The result was that he was deprived of the principal allowance of 12s. a week and was left but a pittance for the maintenance of his family of five. "The case," Mr. Neary adds, "is not an isolated one; it is a living condemnation of this enactment."

PRIZE WINNERS.

No competitor gave all the answers correctly. Mrs. A. Kennedy, 6 Windsor terrace, Malahide, Co. Dublin; Major A. G. Fitzroy Day, Belcamp, York road, Kingstown; and Miss Franks, Tir-nanoge, Malahide, Co. Dublin, divide the prize with 8, and will each receive 14/-.

While, personally, I do not agree with all the calls, there are two in particular I would like to draw special attention to—the 4th and the 10th.

No. 4—With adequate outside strength, why begin with more than one diamond? You have no objection at all to hearing from your partner; and if your opponents resist you, you can camouflage your strength by bidding up gradually. You will probably have the joy of seeing them double your final bid.

No. 10—Surely one could not have a better case for a negative double! If a player bids a suit initially, and afterwards doubles an adverse bid, it is intended to force an assist if possible from partner. Partner must then assist if he holds only normal support (Q, X; or X, X, X) in the suit that has been bid. Having less than this support, he must bid his best suit. The object, of course, is to provide against a possible unfavourable distribution of the spades (the present initial bid).

This double is, in fact, a re-bid of the hand, specifically showing itself to be based upon strength outside (and in addition to) the suit initially called. It is considered one of the most useful of the negative double. It, however, seems to be very little known.

The death is announced in Amsterdam of M. Gideon Maria Boissevain at the age of 88. The deceased, who is described as the "father" of Dutch economists and the founder of the "Kasvereeniging," was the first person to introduce American securities to the Dutch market.
